DAWES SLAMS BUNK POLITICS

GOTHAM TO GIVE 'DEMS' BIGGEST SHOW IN HISTORY

Revelry Side Line to Hot Politics.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

New York, June 17.—[Special.]—Now come the Jeffersonians and Jacksonians, delegates and alternates, men and newly enfranchised women, committeemen and committeewomen, candidates, bosses, campaign managers, press agents, spellbinders, reporters—all gathering from cities and hamlets and farms for the Democratic national convention meeting here next week to nominate the first candidate for President chosen in the metropolis since Horatio Seymour was named to oppose Grant in 1868.

History records the affair of 1868 as the apex of such achievements up to that time, and the illustrations of Leslie's Weekly seem to justify the claim, but the event next week will offer irrefutable proof at last that the world do move. Let Horatio turn in his grave, if he must, but 1868 was small town, Main street stuff compared with this one. Then New York was only a city; now it's an institution.

Greatest Show on Earth.

Mindful of the honor conferred by the unterrified, though discriminating, Democracy, New York is going to put on some party. New York is going to be New York, only more so. What with a convention that promises to be the most spectacular, dramatic, and thrilling in the history of political parties, and what with the entertainment to be lavished upon the delegates, this is going to be the greatest show in the greatest show town on earth.

The brilliant, the gay, the wicked, the naughty metropolis, to which pleasure loving humanity of the hinterland journeys periodically for a lark, is ready with an inexhaustible store of creature delights: women and song, at the new Follies opening with the convention week, and at other revues and cabarets, and, my stars! they do say, wine, thus restoring for the nonce the immoral trinity of sensuous delights.

Al Remembers the Ladies.

The Broadway producers will furnish the women and song and the politicians the wine, that being a poetic generic term for the Scotch which has been brought ashore by the shipload for this joyous occasion. Wine, women and song! Ooh, la, la! as they say in Paree, which is French for O, boy!

And that the ladies may be enabled to keep their dear noses powdered right up to the minute, that thoughtful Al Smith is preparing to distribute gratis some 5,000—or is it 25,000—compacts. There's New York for you. A delicate attention? Positively devastating, eh what?

The arrangement contemplated is that the delegates and alternates shall put in practically all their stay here, indulging in the multitude of revels provided between Coney island and the Bronx, while the jaded New Yorkers attend the convention and get the first thrill they have had since they learned the country had gone dry.

The Program to Date.

Delegates will check their proxies with their alternates, and the alternates will hand their proxies to the bosses, and the bosses will vote the proxies as at a stockholders' meeting. That's the general plan. Then the nomination will be made when a majority of the convention has gone broke.

The convention itself is going to be a show that will inspire our Ziegfeld and Belasco with hopeless envy; a colorful, stirring drama—great, elemental forces of human nature playing upon each other, ambition, self-interest, revenge, patriotism, loyalty, temptation, a multitude of aims and motives woven into a plot and counterplot so involved as to stagger the comprehension of the onlookers.

Fighting there will be at every turn—such battles of the wits as probably never have been witnessed in a parliamentary body—and spectacular demonstrations of enthusiasm for candidates and in between mighty chorusing of the songs of America by the immense throng gathered under the roof of Madison Square Garden.

It's a Fight Worth Seeing.

The vanguards of the two principal opposing forces, those of McAdoo and those of Gov. Al Smith, are now on the ground and the skirmishing has begun. It is going to be a terrific conflict, one can see with half an eye. Here are the two outstanding, strong men of the Democratic party, the antithesis of each other, and the party divided between them, in what proportions none can now say—McAdoo, leader of the progressives and radicals

Cabinet Quits as Scandal in Italy Grows

ROME, June 17.—Fascism is being shaken to its foundations by the sensational revelations which involve some of Premier Mussolini's right hand men in the scandal surrounding the kidnaping and possible murder of Deputy Matteotti, millionaire socialist. Five men are now under arrest.

Gen. De Bono, who was leader of the Black Shirts in the 1922 march on Rome was relieved today of his functions as chief of the Rome police force. The fact that one of the original Fascisti was thus summarily dismissed indicates the seriousness with which Premier Mussolini regards the situation.

To give the premier complete liberty of action, the members of the cabinet presented their resignation. Sig. Federzoni, who is not a Fascist, has been made minister of the interior. Complete reconstruction of the cabinet with all of the other conservative parties represented will likely occur before the week ends.

Take Editor in Wild Chase.

Signor Filippelli, editor of the Fascist Corriere Italiano, who is directly implicated in the Matteotti assassination, was captured by police today after an exciting chase through Genoa. When recognized by the police, Signor Filippelli dashed away in an automobile to Nervi, a nearby resort and jumping in a motorboat made for the open sea. Four motorboats loaded with carabiniers pursued and threatened to shoot unless he surrendered.

Further evidence against Signor Filippelli, was obtained today when the police searched his hotel room, discovering a valise which contained pieces of clothing stained with blood, a revolver and part of the furnishings from the automobile in which the deputy was abducted.

Change Charge to Homicide.

Signor Duminin and Signor Filippelli, the arch conspirators, met face to face in a Rome prison today and the latter fainted when informed of Signor Matteotti's death. Colini, a chauffeur; Signor Naldin, editor friend of Signor Filipelli, and Signor Volpi, confederates in the plot, also have been arrested.

The charge aginst the conspirators was changed today from "illegal suppression of liberty" to homicide. This would seem to indicate that the body of the Socialist leader has been found, but this has been denied by the police.

Fascisti Militia Enter Rome.

ROME, June 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—Several thousand Fascisti militia from the provinces of Rome and Tuscany marched into Rome today singing their war songs.

At several places in the provinces today there were demonstrations growing out of the Matteotti case. In Catania there was a scuffle between Socialists and Fascisti after revolver shots were exchanged, the demonstrators were dispersed by carabineers.

In Naples, the lawyers deserted the courts for one day as a mark of sympathy for Matteotti. Likewise at Palermo the lawyers abandoned the courts.

Chicagoans Save Many in Sea; 19 Dead

CHRISTIANIA, June 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—Mrs. Richard Bordewick, widow of the Norwegian-American painter Bordewick, who once lived in the town of Norway, Mich., was among a number of persons, the majority of them women and children, drowned yesterday when the Norwegian mail steamer Haakon Jarl was sunk in a collision with the steamer Kong Harold. Twelve passengers and five members of the crew are said to have perished.

The disaster occurred in the Vestfjord, between the Lofoten islands and the Norwegian mainland. The Kong Harald aside from her bow being slightly stove in was not damaged. On board this vessel were 50 members of the Chicago Norwegian Male Choir, which is touring Norway.

Work in Rescue.

The singers worked valiantly in rescuing those thrown into the water when the Haakon Jarl sank. The Kong Harald remained several hours in the vicinity of the wreck and then proceeded for Trondhjem. The sea was calm at the time of the collision. Mrs. Bordewick was on a pleasure tour.

The Haakon Jarl, an old boat of 500 tons, left Bodo at 9 o'clock Monday evening, bound northward with a full passenger list. Half way across the Vestfjord, while going slow owing to the dense fog, the steamer was rammed on the starboard side by the Kong Harald, a vessel of 865 tons, bound south and also crowded with passengers.

Boats Are Lowered.

The boats of each vessel were lowered, filled with passengers, but some of the more excited jumped overboard. Some of these swam to the Kong Harald, but others perished. When the Kong Harald reversed her engines and pulled her nose out of the hole in the side of the Haakon Jarl the latter sank in a few minutes.

Capt. Peterson of the Haakon Jarl jumped into the sea from the bridge of the steamer a few seconds before it disappeared beneath the waves.

NO QUARTER FOR "DEMAGOGUES"; AND ASKS NONE

Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice-president, stood on the lawn of his Evanston home last night and unofficially opened his campaign. Two thousand friends and neighbors waited in the rain for an hour and gave their man-of-the-hour lusty cheers of approval.

The general swung his fists and shouted a denunciation of the demagogues of politics. He announced that he would give no quarter in the campaign and assured his friends that he would ask none. He pledged himself to tell facts and facts only.

The meeting was attended by many prominent persons. The chairman of the Republican national committee and skipper of the campaign ship, William M. Butler, stood in the rain beside his candidate. David R. Forgan, Dr. Walter Dill Scott, Edward J. Brundage, Judge Orrin N. Carter, Judge Martin M. Gridley, and many others clustered about the terrace upon which stood the general and below which were hundreds of people.

Friends Congratulate Him.

After the speeches the friends of the candidate wound through his home, grasped his hand and gave him personal assurance of their good wishes.

The addresses of congratulation and welcome to Gen. Dawes were made by Dr. Scott, president of Northwestern university, Mr. Patten and John C. Shaffer, a newspaper publisher. Their words brought repeated applause from the crowd.

Then the candidate put his famous pipe on the stone railing and looked out at the sea of umbrellas and friends.

"Can you hear me?" he shouted. The answers were positive and loud.

"I'm going to make a speech," he went on. "I'm going to read it. It's the first I have made and is in the presence of Mr. Butler, the campaign manager. I believe I have something to say."

Conscious of Honor.

He hesitated. The crowd applauded and a friend came forward to hold an umbrella over the general.

"You have done me a great honor in gathering here, irrespective of party and as my friends and neighbors in Evanston, where I have lived for so many years.

"I know you want me to say something, and yet upon such an occasion as this it would be unseemly in me to speak in a partisan manner. But it occurs to me that there is one subject which may be called political and yet is thoroughly nonpartisan—a subject upon which all good citizens, whatever may be their party, must agree—and that is the curse of demagoguery in political discussions in this country.

"To such an extent has grown this evil among the politicians of both parties that the real facts and the economic principles involved in questions of national policy are continually obscured by a dense and putrid fog bank and demagogic argument, designed simply for the purpose of forwarding selfish personal political and group interests.

Points to Europe.

"I have recently returned from Europe where I have seen in prostrated industry and human suffering the effects of demagogic political appeals to the passions and prejudices of the different people as dintinguished from appeals to their reason and common sense. To the very brink of the abyss has Europe been brought by this method of treating serious questions, involving great elemental and economic principles. To save herself she has abandoned the demagogue and returned to common sense."

The speaker stopped and looked over the crowd.

"An orgy of demagogism has been running rife in the world and we here in the United States are feeling its devastating effects. All good Republicans and all good Democrats who put their country above their party demand the beginning of an era of common sense in public discussions. We may differ on many subjects, but as good citizens we can unite in demanding from those who represent us in political debate that they present our differences honestly and from the standpoint of truth, not from the standpoint of passion and prejudice"

The general's fists swung in arcs as he talked. His voice was loud and clear.

Will Adhere to Truth.

"In the campaign which is before me and as a duty which I owe not simply to a party, but to the citizens

Sedan Traps 3 Drowned in Quarry Pool

The bodies of two women are thought to be floating inside a Ford sedan automobile which pitched headlong into a deserted quarry about two miles south of Elmhurst early last evening.

A third body—that of William A. Barr, 5463 Ingleside avenue—was recovered shortly after midnight by Sheriff John Hestermann of Du Page county and two of his deputies. They were still searching for the other two.

At the Ingleside avenue address it was learned that Barr, his wife, and Mrs. Emma Mack, a widow, all of whom lived in the same apartment, had left in a Ford sedan for Maywood Monday afternoon.

They had intended visiting Mrs. Barr's mother there. Then they planned to go to Joliet and Peoria, returning last night. It is thought that they were making the trip home when the accident occurred.

Alarm Is Given.

There is a possibility that one of the two women was not in the car on the return trip. At 7:30 last evening Chief Henry A. Wolf of the Elmhurst police received a frantic telephone call.

"A flivver with a man and a woman in it just pitched into the quarry near Roosevelt and York roads," said the voice. Then the man hung up before the chief could learn his name.

The deserted quarry, filled with water to a depth of fifty feet in some spots, has been known of late as a place where unscrupulous motorists dump their automobiles and then, claiming the cars have been stolen, try to collect the theft insurance. It is also a favorite swimming hole for boys of that township.

Articles Float to Surface.

Chief Wolf induced some of the boys to look for bodies. They could see the automobile resting on a ledge of rock nine feet below the surface. The doors were closed, but just before dusk the boys were able to break one of the windows. Some articles of clothing and a few papers floated to the surface.

The clothing included a woman's coat and hat. In addition, there were two bank books—one containing the name of Dorothy Barr, the other that of William A. Barr. An electric light bill of recent date made out to Mrs. Mack, and a powder puff were also recovered.

EDSEL FORD'S HOME ROBBED OF $100,000 GEMS

Detroit, Mich., June 17.—The disappearance of a box of jewels valued at $100,000 from the home of Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, was announced today by Police Commissioner Frank Croul.

The box contained a pearl necklace, composed of 205 pearls with a platinum clasp set and a small diamond, valued at $67,000; a pearl necklace of 103 pearls with a diamond clasp, valued at $27,000; a platinum wedding ring and a guard ring encircled with one-eighth carat diamonds.

How the thief got into the residence of the motor magnate despite the extraordinary precautions taken to guard the place since recent extortion attempts, accompanied with threats against his family, the police were unable to say.

Fifteen guards are stationed at the home.

Wife Bars His Peeping, Husband Commits Suicide

Because his wife Rosa would not allow him to peer through the window so that he could obtain evidence that the next door neighbor was littering his backyard with rubbish, Andrew Siecka, 28 years old, 4516 South Hermitage avenue, shot and killed himself last night. The police arrested Mrs. Siecka, but released her when she told her story.

Hat Helps Clear Up Bandit Quest.

Recovery of $100,000 and the arrest of Carlos Fontana were the big achievements yesterday of police and postal inspectors assigned to the $3,000,000 mail robbery.

And last night there was much expectancy that today will see the successful end of the efforts of officials to bring the ten train robbers into court, loot and all.

One bit of confirmation of the guilt of two of the prisoners was obtained yesterday when a hat was found in an automobile abandoned near Joliet, Ill., which contained sixty-two rifled mail sacks and the $100,000 the robbers disdained to take. The hat was traced to a Chicago store, where it was said it was purchased by a man whose description tallies in every way with that of J. H. Watson, who is under arrest.

Clerk Gives Description.

The man with him when he purchased the hat may have been Paul Wade, another prisoner, from the description furnished by Harry Kohl, 6317 Cottage Grove avenue, the clerk who waited upon the man believed to be Watson.

In addition to recovering the sixty-two mail sacks and what the bandits left untouched, the police took three people into custody near Joliet. Joseph Norton, his wife, and his brother Frank were seized at a roadhouse owned by Joseph Norton near where the automobile was abandoned. The reason advanced for their detention was that Joseph Norton had been arrested before in other mail robbery investigations.

Chief of Detectives Hughes said they denied all knowledge of the robbery or the hiding of the looted mail sacks, and that no information of value was obtained from them.

Car Found by Farmer.

The automobile load of mail sacks was discovered in the afternoon by Albert Murphy, a farmer, who at once notified the authorities. When Chief Postal Inspector Albert E. Germer learned of the find and of the arrest of Carlos Fontana he announced that the balance of the robbery loot is now in the possession of two men whose names he knows and whose arrest he expects momentarily.

Those two, it was understood, are Ernest Fontana, brother of Carlos, and Anthony E. Kissane.

The Fontana brothers were accused of the Harvey, Ill., mail robbery last March. They may be tried for that crime any time now, and it is said they are deeply implicated in the Rondout, Ill., robbery.

Kissane has been named as one of the leaders in the Rondout robbery, the man who introduced tear gas and army gas masks into a train robbery, police say positively.

Can Check Losses.

The discovery of the abandoned automobile and its spurned contents limited the field of official activity. Now, the police said, they will be able to check what was recovered against what was in the mail containers and in that way obtain an exact list of the losses, the cash, the bonds, and stocks, together with the numbers of each.

Most of the registered and insured mail was undisturbed in the sacks, postal authorities report, only the packages containing large sums of money and bonds being missing. An early inventory revealed that at least $100,000 of negotiable securities had been discarded as not worth taking.

The automobile had been stolen in March from Sixty-eighth street and Crandon avenue where it had been parked by Milford Desenberg, whose mother, Mrs. Irene Desenberg, Chicago Beach Hotel, owned it.

All Sacks Slit Open.

Every one of the mail sacks had been slit open and the contents pawed over, but most of the envelopes were unopened, only packages being subjected to the hurried scrutiny of the outlaws. Included in what was left behind were the following:

Fifty-two State of Minnesota $1,000 bonds. Five General Railway Signal Co. $1,000 bonds. One hundred shares of J. I. Case Co. stock, and $5,000 in General Motor stock.

Albert Murphy, a tenant farmer, noticed the automobile in a pasture about 100 yards west of the Channahon road Saturday morning but said he did not have time to bother about it until yesterday. On seeing the mail sacks, he notified Sheriff Walker at Joliet, who in turn called Postmaster Bolton.

One envelope ripped open was from the Foreman Brothers bank in Chicago and addressed to the National Bank of Commerce, Seattle, Wash.

A canvass of the neighborhood surrounding the pasture was made by government officers, Chicago policemen and Sheriff Walker and his deputies. No one was found who saw the car driven off the road, or anyone leave it.

Securities Brought Here.

The mail sacks were brought to Chicago by Inspectors McWhorter and Keefe and a special squad of clerks assigned to sort the contents and forward such mail as is in condition for reshipment.

Fontana's arrest was admittedly an important factor in the investigation as it stood last night. Chief of Police Collins and Chief of Detectives Hughes now have eight men and two women in custody and it was announced there is enough evidece to justify charging all the men with the robbery, and accusing the women of being accessory after the fact.

Friends of James Murray of beer and political fame, were seeking yesterday to convince Chief Hughes that Murray was not a participant in the robbery. They had an alibi for him, it was stated.

Murray "In It."

Chief Hughes said Murray would be treated no differently from the rest. He was caught hiding under a bed alongside J. H. Wayne, who was shot four times during the robbery and is near death in the Bridewell hospital, and Chief Hughes said it made no difference if he could prove he was in Chicago when the robbery occurred, there was no question but that he "was in it."

Attorney John F. Waters called at the detective bureau to see Dr. Spencer Brown, lately convicted of being the "master mind" of the Werner brothers $1,000,000 burglary. He was refused permission to see his client for whom he said he was preparing an appeal to the Supreme court.

The attorney then appeared before Judge Wells M. Cook and filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Dr. Brown.

Brown Not in Custody.

Judge Cook communicated with the police and was told if Brown was being held it was by federal officials, and the court then dismissed the petition.

Later Attorney Waters learned that Brown had not been arrested. He became alarmed when his client failed to telephone him, his instructions being for Brown to do so every day. Chief Hughes said he did not have the "master mind" in custody, but would like to have him in for questioning.

Assistant District Attorney Edwin L. Weisl said that the hearing on the writs asked in behalf of Murray, Walter McComb and Mrs. McComb would be issued today, but he expected it would be unnecessary to bring the prisoners into court for a few days mor eas the government would ask for delay in the hearing, pleading the magnitude of the robbery and the certainty that all the prisoners were involved in it. Within two days, he intimated, the government would be ready for any court action.

DRUGGAN, LAKE READY TO TELL BEER'S WHO'S WHO

Missing Magnates Call at Federal Building.

Chagrined—more or less—at the prospect of going to the penitentiary for three years without jury trial, Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, inseperable and dapper as ever, stepped jauntily into the federal building yesterday and intimated they were "ready to tell all" about the ways of the beer barons in Chicago.

They made their appearance with State Senator Lowell B. Mason, their brand new counsel, while John F. Bolton, who thought he still was their attorney, was making a feverish effort to locate the couple, who had been fugitives from various searching parties for two weeks.

Mason Busy Elsewhere.

Attorney Mason only a few hours before had come from another of his cases, defense of the "nine jolly prohibition agents," who obtained a second continuance in Morals court yesterday on charges of being inmates in a disorderly house during the staging of an immoral "circus."

It was pointed out, however, that none of the nine agents belongs to the "beer squad," which precipitated the action against Druggan and Lake.

Members of the squad, Agents Al Johnson, Oscar Sandberg, and Archie Benson, last night denied the presence of factions in the prohibition department, and said they could not account for the appearance of the same attorney both for their embarrassed fellow workers and for Druggan and Lake, who are quoted as saying they "had the goods to blow the beer squad out of the water."

Johnson, head of the squad, is said to have countered with the statement that Druggan had offered the squad $20,000 to report beer seized at the brewery on June 3 as the "near variety," and that if there "was going to be any talking it might be by the beer squad, telling where part of the $20,000 went."

$20,000 in His Pockets.

As soon as they appeared at the office of Assistant United States Attorney William F. Waugh, Lake pulled $10,000 in cash from one pocket and a similar amount in Liberty bonds from another.

"This is for Mr. Druggan's release," he said, as he indicated the bonds, "and this is for my freedom."

The millionaire beer runners, with their attorney and Capt. Waugh, then went before Judge Wilkerson, who approved the bonds and ordered them deposited with the district court clerk.

Attorney Mason then petitioned the court for an order impounding the evidence on which the government plans to bring contempt of court action today.

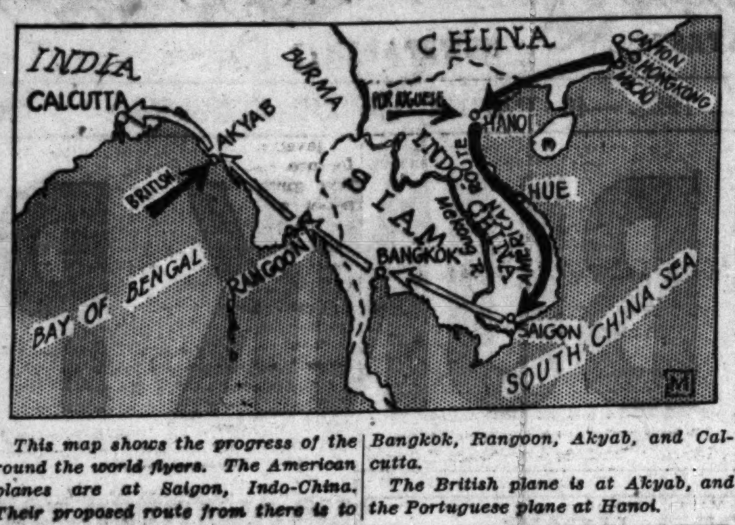
Hints at "Suds" Plot.

The trend of the request was said by court attachés to indicate that the defense of Druggan and Lake will be that the beer squad seized near beer at the Standard brewery and plans to "switch" nine barrels of the real amber before defense chemists have the oportunity to take samples from the evidence.

Government officials pointed out that this would be a futile procedure, even if the government desired to "frame" evidence.

"Druggan and Lake would be as guilty of contempt of court if they removed ice water for beverage purposes from the plant," one official said.

HALF WAY ROUND



This map shows the progress of the round the world flyers. The American planes are at Saigon, Indo-China. Their proposed route from there is to Bangkok, Rangoon, Akyab, and Calcutta.

The British plane is at Akyab, and the Portuguese plane at Hanoi.

YANKEE FLYERS TO LEAVE SAIGON THIS MORNING

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TOURANE, French Indo-China, June 17.—The American round the world flyers have delayed their departure from Saigon until after the destroyer Hulbert, which left here this morning at 2:30, arrives at Kompong Som, where it will deposit gasoline against the needs of the aviators. The Hulbert will then continue on to Bangkok.

The flyers plan to leave Saigon at dawn on June 18. They will halt at Kompong Som to take on gasoline, after which they will follow the sea. They hope to reach Rangoon by 3 o'clock.

Stuart MacLaren, the British round the world flyer, expects to reach Rangoon on July 10 and the Americans probably will meet him at Akyab, where he has been delayed, on June 20.

BELGIAN DRIFTS OVER ERIN; LEADS IN BALLOON RACE

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—It is reported that the Belgian balloon Belgica piloted by Lieut. Ernest de Muyter, has been sighted over Ireland. If this is correct the Belgian entry in the Gordon Bennett cup international race, which started last Sunday, is the winner.

The balloon Goodyear, an American entry, with W. G. Van Orman as pilot, landed safely five miles southwest of Amsterdam at 4:30 o'clock this morning.

The Aero club received word this afternoon that the American entry S-14, piloted by Maj. Peck, had landed at Malmedy, Belgium. It was further announced that the D'Anjou [French] had landed at Herpy, a village in northern France, yesterday evening, the Magdalena [Spanish] landed at Lottinghem, Pas de Calais department, at 5:30 this afternoon, and the Heperto [Spanish] landed near St. Remy yesterday evening.

Berlin Trolley Car Amuck; Fifteen Persons Killed

BERLIN, June 17.—Fifteen persons were killed and thirty seriously injured at Iserlohn this evening when the brakes of an electric street car got out of order and failed to hold while the car was descending an incline. Running down the steep grade the car was completely shattered against a factory wall.

Frank G. Carpenter, Former Tribune Man, Dies in China

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

SHANGHAI, China, June 18.—Frank G. Carpenter, a writer, died at Nanking today. His body is being brought to Shanghai for transhipment to America by Chester Wathen, secretary, and John Ferguson, adviser to the president of China. Mr. Carpenter is survived by a son, John Carpenter, and a daughter, who live in Chicago. He formerly wrote for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

POLICE NAB MARAUDING MONKEY.

The monkey whose burglar like antics yesterday were frightening Mrs. Mary Schwartz, 915 Winona avenue, was turned over to its owner, Jack Koehne, 917 Castlewood terrace, son of William L. Koehne, photographer, by the police.

U. S. MUST GUARD HOTEL AGAINST VIOLENT SWAIN

The task of preventing jealous suitors from breaking up period furniture in an ultra fashionable gold coast hotel was added to the manifold duties of United States Marshal Robert R. Levy yesterday.

It was said that a national precedent for marshals' offices was set when Mr. Levy dispatched deputies to maintain a day and night vigil at the hostelry, the Sheridan-Surf apartment hotel at Sheridan road and Surf street.

Action was taken on orders of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, following a series of violently ardent episodes, climaxed by an alleged rampage staged in the early hours of yesterday morning by one James O'Donnell, said to be a relative of "Spike" O'Donnell.

It was reported by élite and high strung occupants of the hotel that James "behaved scandalously" in pointing out to his lady friend that he disapproved of her attitude toward certain of his rivals.

Indifferent to Style.

He clearly demonstrated, horrified matrons claim, that he had no appreciation for Queen Anne highboys, Jacobean cupboards, Elizabethan four posters, and such. Everything in the place looked like kitchen furniture to Mr. O'Donnell once he got started, they assert.

When Mr. O'Donnell veered from splintering the oak and mahogany to attacks upon his sweetheart, neighbors and attaches of the hotel, it occurred to someone to call the police.

In due course a flivver squad arrived and after a while carried Mr. O'Donnell out of the servants' entrance, feet first. It was thought for a time this would be sufficient.

But when the ardent suitor "came to," he set forth on a sketch of O'Donnell folklore which gave definite knowledge of the family attitude on proper dealing with "high-hat joints." The police, after a hurried conference, are said to have decided that a "few hours in the boob" would only strengthen Mr. O'Donnell's prejudice against luxurious fixtures.

It was recalled that the Sheridan-Surf was thrown into receivership several months ago as a result of the promoters' overzealousness for elegance in furnishing the hostelry.

Now All Day Guard.

When the receiver was advised of O'Donnell's alleged indiscriminate mowing down of objects of art he immediately appealed to the court under direction of which the hotel is being operated.

After witnesses had testified that they believed the safety of the property still in jeopardy Judge Wilkerson ordered Marshal Levy to select details to provide a twenty-four hour a day guard until further notice.

"I endeavored to select men who know how to sit down on a chaise longue and who won't track mud on the orientals," Marshal Levy said last night. "Nevertheless, if any of the O'Donnells appear, as James is reported to have promised, they will be met with the same etiquette that prevails in beer trucking circles."

Chex removes the cause.

Does not injure or stain clothing. And is so beneficial to skin that physians recommend it to keep babies clean and sweet.

FOSTER'S STEAM ROLLER LIKELY TO SPLIT REDS

BULLETIN.

St. Paul, Minn., June 17.—(Special.)—Notice was served by the St. Paul association upon the "third party" late tonight that it cannot have the use of the Auditorium for a communist convention any longer. It may retain the hall only for a Farmer-Labor gathering.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

St. Paul, Minn., June 17.—[Special.]—Minnesota delegates tonight are threatening to bolt the "third party" convention because "Zack" Foster and his communists have grabbed control and are running a Russian steam roller. The gathering is being dyed too ultra a red even for the Minnesota radicals, who say they are hardshell "conservatives" compared with the "comrades" of the Moscow internationale who are running the show.

C. E. Ruthenberg, close associate of "Zack" Foster, stated late today that if La Follette does not accept a nomination on the platform offered here, the communists will proceed to establish a permanent party. They plan to nominate Duncan McDonald, head of the Illinois Labor party, for president and William Bouck, chairman of the farmer-labor group in Washington, for vice president.

Mahoney for La Follette.

If such a program goes through, William Mahoney, head of the Minnesota delegation, says it will precipitate a bolt. It was Mahoney who, in his keynote speech today, struck the motif of "La Follette, we are here."

The sentiment of the Minnesota group, as shown at a meeting tonight at the Labor temple, seems to be that although Fighting Bob smote the convention hip and thigh for its communism, still it ought not to take any action that might cut into his strength if he runs as a third candidate.

"If Foster and Ruthenberg try to put over that program of a permanent centralized party and to nominate McDonald and Bouck as a national ticket," said Mahoney tonight, "it will mean the Minnesota labor and farmer groups will bolt."

How Uprising Started.

The uprising came swiftly. Led by Frank T. Starkey of the Central Labor council of St. Paul, which is not a "Red" organization, the Minnesota delegates swarmed into the rear of the auditorium after adjournment this evening and staged a rip snorting insurgent meeting. Their complaint is that the Foster outfit has the convention under complete control, as shown in a series of roll calls during the afternoon. It seems to have snatched this nascent national third party just as it grabbed the Illinois state party from the Fitzpatrick-Buck group some time ago.

For a time fists were brandished in the corridors and coats were peeled, and it looked like a real split. The mutineers say that from all appearances Moscow has captured the St. Paul meet and that here the Russian Red Internationale seems to be sticking the communistic needle into American politics with the idea of a proletarian dictatorship.

Would Show Moscow Big Vote.

What makes the uprisers most angry is that the Muscovite influence bids fair to wreck the insurgent movement in the middle west which circles around La Follette. What the communists are after is to pull something that will serve to convince the Red internationale at Moscow that the goods are being delivered in America in a political organization that may embrace most of the states, although it may be nothing but paper.

Despite all the rumpus and growing strife, La Follette seems to be having a difficult time slipping the shake to the convention which he spurned because of its odor of communism.

The sessions of the opening day were pretty tame; nothing hot, not even tepid. Little of actual political significance. The attendance is small. In the "arena" this afternoon sat 496 delegates, although the roll calls showed over 800 voting. When the movement started the expectation was that 10,000 would be here, according to Mr. Mahoney's keynote speech.

Considered as politics the meeting so far has been little more than comedy. Regarded as labor developments it is a shine pure and simple. The sole group so far getting glory and capital out of it has been the Foster-Ruthenberg clique. There are no labor leaders here of prominence in the nation, and few of weight in their states, outside of Mr. Mahoney and his associates of Minnesota—delegates with credentials from the mine workers, the Amalgamated Clothing workers, and from some radical farmer-labor associations.

Housewives' Union Represented.

Also, as the list was read off, a strange medley appeared—such as the Social- and Political association, the Self-Defense club, and the Housewives' union. One man is here from the Committee of Forty-eight, the other forty-seven being absent

The Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota, which elected Senators Shipstead and Magnus Johnson, is giving the meeting the goby. At the doors of the Auditorium today, copies of the Minnesota Leader, organ of this movement, were distributed with the full text of La Follette's statement walloping the meeting for its communist tendency.

"The convention is no longer a menace. It is just a public nuisance," says an editorial in a front page box.

Illinois Delegate Protests.

Chairman W. J. Taylor, head of the Nebraska delegation, put in a plan for calling the roll of states for nominations and allowing each state to name a member of the various committees on resolutions, credentials and the rest. Duncan McDonald, head of the Illinois Labor party, who had been sitting with Alex Howat of Kansas, who was tossed out of the miners' union by John Lewis, let out a roar. He said it would take too much time and it was silly to put in half a day electing a chairman when more momentous business was pressing. They took a vote and Taylor's motion was bowled over 176 to 605, which brought pleased looks to the faces of the "Zack" Foster outfit.

After that Charles Taylor, chairman of the Farmer-Labor party of Montana and a state senator, was elected permanent chairman. He got 718 votes as against 116 for Mr. Mahoney, who did not want the job.

GOING TO THE COUNTRY

Poor Children Frolic on Camp Algonquin Lawns

They're out under the trees this morning, far from the dirt and heat of their homes. They're romping over the rolling lawns, splashing in the swimming pool, climbing the oaks at Camp Algonquin. Two hundred mothers and children from the precincts of poverty are forgetting about Chicago while they play at THE TRIBUNE'S summer camp.

It was thrilling to watch them stream into the Northwestern station yesterday afternoon.

Many of the children were quite pathetic. The rigors of a long hard winter and a prolonged absence of sufficient food were marked upon their pale, wan cheeks. Their eyes were dull. The mothers bore the marks of poverty and sickness upon their faces. This is not meant to be a play for tears, a sob story. It's a plain relation of facts.

The children were from all parts of the city. This family came from the west side, that one from the forlorn district "back o' the yards," another from the near northwest side. This mother had five children, that one had seven. There was a Mexican family, three colored mothers with pickaninnies. There were Greeks, Italians, Poles—every nationality.

Going to the Country.

The juvenile voices were inspired to cheer as the train left the station. The kids knew they were going to the country—many of them knew not what the country is or why they are going or who was paying their expenses. But they cheered anyway—they knew it must be something wonderful, this "country" they had heard about.

They arrived at the camp just in time for supper last night. After the meal they were assigned to their little beds and undressed and bathed, the latter being a fairly novel experience for some of them. They went to sleep without the roar of street cars or elevated railways ringing in their ears. They went to bed happy.

The real excitement for the kids will come this morning when they go out into the sunshine and learn just exactly what the country is like and what it is for in their young lives. They will learn that milk comes from cows, not bottles, and that all air is not filled with soot. In two weeks their mothers won't know those kids, they'll be so healthy.

That's what the camp is for—the giving of health to poor mothers and children. It is an institution that costs money and this money has in the past been raised by popular subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE'S summer camp fund. The public is urged to give to the fund this year. The sum of $5 will keep a boy or girl or a mother at this camp for an entire week.

MISSION BRINGS WHITE INDIANS OUT OF PANAMA

Jungle Deaths Take 8 of Scientific Party.

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

COLON, Panama, June 17.—The Marsh expedition arrived here today from the upper headwaters of the Chucunaque river with three "white" Indians, apparently of paleothic type whom Prof. Marsh says differ from the Albino type so familiar to Isthmians.

The expedition was worn out after two weeks of battering its way to Panama's San Blas coast from the Chucunaque river, following a fierce battle with several hundred Indians who had never seen a white man, but whose folklore tells of hardships suffered during past centuries with the legions of Spain. The personnel of the expedition dwindled from eleven to three men through death and disease during the ten weeks' journey across Panama's unknown jungles.

Hundreds of Them.

"After scouring the entire Chucunaque river lands, I found at its headwater, twenty-five miles from the Atlantic coast, latitude 9 and longitude 78, a tribe of hundreds of white Indians of a decided Nordic type," Prof. Marsh said. "I believe that they are aborigines evolving into a white race and that during the course of ages the entire 40,000 Isthmian Indians will develop into a white species."

Prof. Marsh shortly will take the three Indians to the United States for scientific examination by the Smithsonian institution. The three Indians are of normal height and build and have smooth glossy light flaxen hair, bluish green eyes and white skin. The men's bodies are covered with downy white hair an inch long.

Prof. Marsh also brought with him six dark Indians, including a head chief and an under chief with his wife and son, from the interior.

O. K. in Civilized Clothes.

The professor, Mr. Charlton of Pathe moving pictures, and Taxidermist Johnson were rough sights as they led the Indians into Uncle Sam's $1,000,000 Washington hotel built at former President Taft's orders when he visited the Isthmus. However, American clothes soon transformed the Indians to respectability and an automobile ride brought them amazement.

Hyatt Verill, an anthropologist of the American Indian museum of New York, who has just returned from the interior, reports visiting two primitive tribes hitherto unknown to scientists.

Mr. Verrill says that Prof. Marsh's Indians are Albinos and that there is no such thing as a Caucasian type of Indian.

Progressives Willing to Run a Democrat with La Follette

Cleveland, O., June 17.—The Conference for Progressive Political Action convention here on July 4 may select a Democrat for second place on the ticket if the convention names Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], for President on a third party independent ticket, it was said today by men here who are close to the leaders of the movement.

They pointed out that the "progressives" will not neglect efforts to deprive both old line parties of votes, and will expect the aid of the Democratic senators and congressmen who have been aligned with the "progressive bloc" in congress.

Little Likelihood of Stone.

There is little likelihood of Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, accepting the Vice Presidential nomination, if offered, it was learned from brotherhood leaders in convention here today.

Mr. Stone's election yesterday to the newly created presidency of all brotherhood activities, under which he will devote himself primarily to financial operations, it was pointed out, eliminates him from active participation in politics.

"At least we hope he wouldn't consider it," brotherhood leaders said. "We need him, though we are fully back of the La Follette campaign."

Claims G. O. P. Ranks are Thinning.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special]—Disaffection in Republican ranks has increased as a result of action of the Cleveland convention, according to a statement issued today by Arthur E. Holder, general secretary of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, which is in charge of arrangements for the July 4 convention, also in Cleveland.

"The obvious intention of the Republican party to read all progressives out of its ranks, as manifested by the treatment accorded the La Follette delegates at Cleveland by the nomination of Gen. Dawes as running mate for President Coolidge, has had the immediate effect of stimulating greatly the public interest in the Conference for Progressive Action and the growth of its local organizations," Mr. Holder said.

Tells of Program.

Mr. Holder announced the plan of representation for the July 4 convention. National and international trade unions, nationally organized political parties, nationally organized associations of farmers and nationally organized coöperative societies are entitled to three delegates each.

District and state trade unions, political organizations and similar bodies are entitled to two delegates each.

City central labor bodies, local coöperative and agricultural societies and similar bodies without state or national affiliations are entitled to one delegate each.

EVEN DAUGHERTY DEFENSE IS MADE TO KICK UP DIRT

Wheeler Drags Out High Officials' Names.

BY DONALD EWING.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—The Daugherty investigating committee, supposedly hearing "defense" testimony, today again jumped into scandal and sensation, with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and United States Marshal Robert Levy of Chicago falling in the shadow of deep digging cross examination to which Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] subjected witnesses.

Even President Coolidge's name was mentioned—though in an offhand way. He had listened to a plea from Senator Jim Reed [Dem., Mo.] for stay of sentence for George Remus, millionaire Ohio bootlegger, and sent the plea to the department of justice by one of his secretaries, the testimony ran. But Remus is in a penitentiary.

Mrs. Willebrandt the Witness.

It was Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, who brought forth bits of scandal testimony as she patted her hair, combed straight back in Puritan style. She came to "explain" nonprosecution of the Guggenheimer and other Pennsylvania liquor cases and she explained them by saying they were delayed intentionally because the jury panels were 50 per cent bootleggers.

She also "explained" the Grossman pardon, being aided in the explanation by John W. H. Crim, another assistant. They placed the "blame for the pardon" on "Levy's office in Chicago" and added that if the blame had not been on his shoulders personally it really belonged there.

It was in cross examination that Wheeler produced the unexpected testimony.

Bringing Mellon into It.

"Is that the case?" he asked as she spoke of the Guggenheimers, "where Mellon requested that a certain man of his be named special prosecutor for the trial?"

"No," Mrs. Willebrandt answered. "That was the case of Hawker, an assistant prohibition director in Pittsburgh."

"And the special prosecutor was appointed over your objection?"

"Yes."

"And what has been done?"

"The defendants were indicted over a year ago. There has been no trial."

"Why was a special prosecutor, outside the attorney general's office asked?"

"I understand treasury employés were involved. Mr. Mellon seemed to think one of his men could prosecute better than one of ours."

Senator Jones [Rep., Wash.] asked if there was "any sufficient reason" for the appointment.

"None sufficient to me," was the answer.

Daugherty Overrules Her.

The special prosecutor—she couldn't remember his name—still is in charge of the untried case, she added.

Mellon's request had been turned to Harry Daugherty, personally, she said, and Daugherty had overruled her by granting the request.

It was through Mrs. Willebrandt that Levy's office first came in for attention today. Telling of approval of the Grossman pardon, she said:

"No one who approved that pardon in Washington knew Grossman had not been in jail or they would not have approved it. There is no doubt that the political and corrupt ring of political bootleggers in Chicago put it over on Washington. Our records showed Grossman committed to jail by the United States marshal."

"Let me say," broke in Crim, from the sidelines, "that every pardon recommendation goes to the attorney general and should show how long the man has been in jail. There is no doubt that the marshal—or perhaps some one else high in authority—knew that Grossman had never been in jail and deliberately concealed that fact from Washington. Levy should have informed us."

"And," said Mrs. Willebrandt, "the marshal must have known for Grossman's mail was forwarded from the jail to his downtown office."

Witness Battles With Wheeler.

Mrs. Willebrandt and Wheeler had quite a verbal battle over prohibition enforcement.

"Every one knows that department of justice agents pass whisky saloons every day and make no attempt to stop the violations," he said.

"The treasury department handles prohibition enforcement," countered Mrs. Willebrandt.

"Yet the congress gave the department $2,000,000 last year to investigate prohibition violations."

"And it gave the treasury units $13,000,000," she answered.

"O, of course, prohibition is a football," said Wheeler. "The department of justice passes the buck to the treasury and the treasury passes it back."

For Divorcing Law and Politics.

This led up to Crim's direct testimony — a plea to the committee to make recommendations to "rehabilitate" the department by getting it out of politics.

"Take it out of the cabinet, take the United States attorneys and give them the responsibility—they are the key to it all," said Crim.

"And let me say," broke in Jones, "that perhaps the United States senators and congressmen are the key. United States attorneys are picked by them. If inefficient men, dishonest men, are picked, the senators and representatives must take some of the blame. We might as well put the blame where it belongs. Politics and law enforcement don't mix these days."

Mrs. Willebrandt terms Jess Smith a "glorified valet" to Daugherty. He came to her many times with complaints, she said, "but no one ever knew what Jess wanted—he couldn't make a straight statement."

"Once I refused to do what he asked and went to Mr. Daugherty about it. He said, 'O, don't mind Jess. I have a phone on my desk and when I want you to have orders I'll give them to you.'"

Daugherty, she said, never overruled her but twice—on the Mellon case and on a liquor case where the defendant was granted a delay over her objection. She could not remember the man's name.

Her Estimate of Armstrong.

Mrs. Willebrandt said Brice Armstrong, though a "fearless agent," had been inaccurate in his testimony, particularly as to the Elgin Ice and Beverage company, which got a "very heavy" sentence instead of a "fixed case," as Armstrong had said.

PLOT TO SMASH FORD BOOM TOLD AT MEANS TRIAL

Mellon Leader in It, Witness Says.

New York, June 17.—[Special.]—A detailed account of the part played by Gaston B. Means, former confidential investigator for the department of justice, and Elmer W. Jarnecke, known as his secretary, in the alleged conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, was unfolded by Charles W. Johnson, the government's first witness, in the trial of the Means-Jarnecke case before Federal Judge C. E. Wolverton today.

Johnson, who admitted having been convicted of a violation of the Pennsylvania license laws, told of conversations he said he had with Means and Jarnecke, in which they brought in the names of Henry Ford, Secretary Mellon, former United States Attorney General Daugherty, David H. Blair, commissioner of internal revenue, and William J. Burns, former chief of the secret service.

In fact, the witness declared, Jarnecke had assured him the money, which was to have been paid to have a large quantity of liquor withdrawn from a bonded warehouse, was to be applied to a Republican party fund to defeat Ford's aspirations for the presidency.

"Jarnecke said Blair, Daugherty, Burns and Mellon were back of the proposition," Johnson declared. "He said the man who was going to do the work was 'Burns' right hand man, Gaston B. Means.' He also said something about the money they would get for withdrawing the liquor would go to the Republican party to fight Ford's campaign and to pay back Secretary Mellon, who had given the party $1,700,000."

Johnson said he later was taken to see Gaston Means, and he quoted Means as repeating the same story.

HERRIOT SILENT ON FRANCE'S WAR DEBT TO AMERICA

Will Stay in Ruhr Until Given Guaranties.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, June 17.—Premier Herriot's ministerial declaration, which was read to the French parliament this afternoon mentions about every question and problem concerning France with a single exception—war debts.

The nearest approach to any mention of France's financial obligations to the United States and Great Britain was: "We will proceed to a rigorous inventory of the financial situation which must precede the first budget which is to be proposed by the Democratic government."

The premier said: "We do not think it possible to evacuate the Ruhr until the guarantees outlined by the experts, with guarantees of execution, are handed over to the organizations provided by the experts."

He declared France intends to insist on the disarmament of Germany, but hopes as soon as possible the task of military control will be turned over to the league of nations.

Offers Olive Branch to Berlin.

The ex-mayor of Lyons then held out an olive branch to Berlin saying, "We wish to see the German democracy strengthened. We consent from now on to apply a measure of good will. The suspended sentences against the inhabitants of occupied regions will be pardoned and amnesty granted to all except those who menaced the safety of our troops. Expulsion orders will be abrogated and only the gravest cases will be considered separately."

The premier then indicated that he may find a solution to the impasse in the guarantee pact problem by saying, "We will have to solve the question of security by pacts that guarantee themselves and are placed under the control of the league of nations." This is expected to give Prime Minister MacDonald an opportunity to offer a vague guarantee pact, since article X of the covenant specifically provides that members shall aid a state suffering aggression.

M. Herriot declared France is entitled to reparations and as soon as Germany again commences carrying out the agreements she will be allowed to join the league.

Will Not Weaken France.

"We propose a reduction in the military service but under conditions that France will not be left open to attack or weakened," he said concerning the reorganization of the army.

M. Herriot announced a determination to recognize Russia.

"We are already preparing for the resumption of normal relations with the soviets under conditions providing that they respect the treaties, but we must take certain precautions and are now commencing to gather the necessary data."

Concerning the decision to suppress the French embassy at the Vatican M. Herriot said: "It is no attempt at persecution or intolerance. As long as personal convictions do not interfere with the law we ignore them but the idea of secularism appears to us as a safeguard to unity and national fraternity."

All But Traitors Get Amnesty.

Complete amnesty will be offered to all war prisoners except those condemned for treason or who have not yet surrendered themselves.

The premier also announced that he will ask parliament to suppress the decree laws and measures that former Premier Poincare jammed through the last parliament. The government will henceforth permit civil service employés to form unions, but will not permit collective action by policemen or others in striking because such action jeopardizes the safety of the government.

He promised electoral reforms, investigation into the frauds in the reconstruction of the devastated regions, and a stricter enforcement of the eight hour day, with measures for the protection for children, women, and mothers. Turning to the financial situation M. Herriot said: "We will balance the budget, rigorously collect income tax, and will seek additional direct taxation to avoid indirect. We will attempt to reduce the floating debt by inducing the public to subscribe liberally for a large bond issue."

Communist Opens Attack.

M. Herriot's speech was given a good reception and plenty of applause, which indicated that the left majority, including the Socialists, will support him on the vote of confidence. Marcel Cachin, the Socialist leader, immediately followed the premier with an interpellation.

He attacked the experts report, saying:

"It means the enslavement of Europe by bankers. First they are laying their hands on Germany and France's turn will come next. The Dawes report cannot solve the reparations problem."

M. Cachin then sprang a bombshell, pointing his finger at M. Herriot and saying:

"Why did you not say anything about the evacuation of Syria and Morocco?"

There have been rumors that the French were contemplating the abandoning of the Syrian mandate, but this was the first indication that the withdrawal of Morocco was envisaged, and many deputies cried:

"Not Morocco."

M. Rollin, a socialist deputy, followed with a protest against the suppression of the embassy at the Vatican:

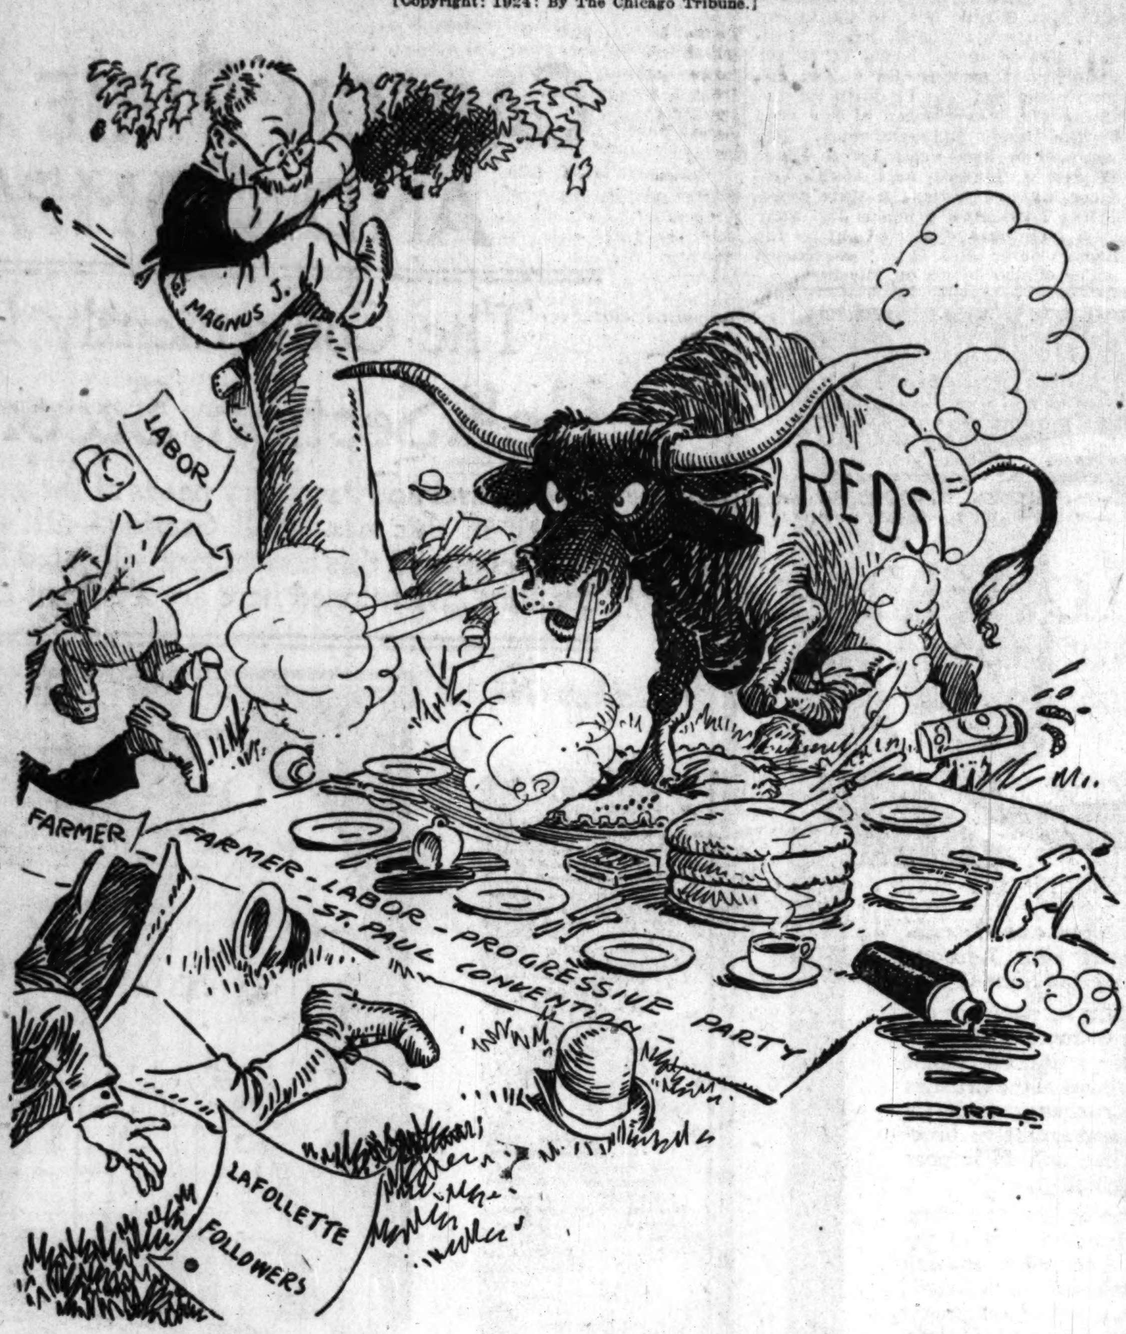
Herriot to Visit MacDonald.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, June 17.—It is now definitely understood that Premier Eduoard Herriot will arrive in London on Saturday and will spend Sunday and possibly Monday at Chequers as Prime Minister MacDonald's guest. He has arranged to visit Belgium after his return from London.

INTERRUPTING THE PICNIC

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]



Youth, Policeman's Slayer, Must Hang, Court Rules

Bernard Grant, 19 year old "back o' the yards" hoodlum, who shot and killed Policeman Ralph Souders during an attempted robbery with Walter Krauser of the south side tea store two years ago, was refused a new trial by the Illinois Supreme court, it was announced in Springfield last night. The higher court affirmed the judgment of the jury before Judge Oscar Hebel and upheld the death sentence imposed at that time. The date set for the execution was not learned but it was presumed it will be within a month or two. The only hope for clemency now lies with the governor.

NEWMARK, BOYLE, ARE RELIEVED OF CONTEMPT RULE

Without passing on the right of Gov. Small to grant pardons to Mike Boyle and Ben Newmark, sentenced for contempt for their refusal to answer questions concerning the fixing of the jury that tried Small on charges of embezzling state funds, the Illinois Supreme court yesterday decided that some of the questions asked of the two men by the Lake county grand jury were improper.

Several of the eighty-five questions put to Boyle and Newmark in connection with the Small jury were objectionable, and their presence in the examination, the high court held, relieved the two men of contempt in refusing to answer any of the questions.

Gov. Small pardoned both men after they had served only a brief part of the sentences imposed upon them. High state officials who have followed with interest the question of whether the governor might pardon persons convicted of criminal contempt of court expressed disappointment that the Supreme court avoided the issue.

ORDER OF COIF, LAW FRATERNITY PICKS OFFICERS

They are James F. Rall, the son of Mayor J. F. Rall of Cedar Rapids, Ia., received first honors in his class.

X-RAY NOW TO SEEK FLAWS IN BOY SLAYERS

Science yesterday sent an elaborate X ray machine to the assistance of four psychiatrists who are spending hours each day in an impromptu "laboratory" in the county jail examining Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb for traces of mental derangement which, it is hoped, will save them from the gallows for the murder of Robert Franks.

Drs. Karl M. Bowman and H. S. Hulbert, well known alienists retained by the wealthy families of the two boys, appeared in the jail shortly after noon. They carried large parts of apparatus, which was set into operation in the emergency cell. Loeb and Leopold were called from their cells by Warden Wesley Westbrook.

They Meet and Chat.

It was the first time the two slayers have appeared in the room together. They have frequently met in their daily play and work in the "bull pen," and as they walked before the doctors they chatted together much as they were wont to do in the days they were college chums at the University of Chicago.

The door closed behind the two boys. A few minutes of quiet followed except for sharp orders from the doctor in charge of the work. Then a faint flicker of light was seen through the cracks of the door to be followed by a full blast of white light as the X-ray instrument was put into operation.

The two boys were in the "laboratory" for more than three hours. When the examination was finally concluded, neither of the youths would discuss what had happened nor would any of the doctors who had been conducting the experiment.

It was learned, however, that the alienists were chiefly interested, at that point of the investigations, as to whether either of the boys had suffered any ill effects from an accident at an earlier period of life. It was said that Loeb took an active part in baseball and football games during his college days and it was believed he might have injured himself in some manner that affected his brain.

Today a different mode of examination will be put into play. The psychiatrists expect to use every test that science can command to discover the exact mental and physical defects, if there be any, which entered into their minds and caused them to plan and execute the murderous plot that robbed the life of the Franks child.

More Instruments Possible.

It was said that the doctors are planning to call from New York a number of instruments which have been used in experiments in colleges in the east to use on the two youthful slayers. The examinations will continue for several days, it was said, and the findings will be submitted to Attorney Clarence Darrow in the near future.

RODEO IN LONDON DRAWS BIG CROWD DESPITE S. P. C. A.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, June 17.—As the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals secured five summonses against a rodeo outfit for alleged cruelty in the steer roping competition at Wembley, all classes of Britishers took up cudgels today for and against the American cowpunchers.

The summonses were issued against C. B. Cochran and Tex Austin, and also the cowpuncher whose activities broke the late lamented steer's leg. The case will be heard on Tuesday under the act which forbids fighting and baiting animals, but as the trial may not be finished before the show closes the following Saturday night the purpose of the society seems to be doomed for defeat. Forty steers were roped privately this morning without casualties, with huge crowds assailing the stadium begging vainly for admittance.

The members of the outfit were infuriated by the comparison of their rodeo with bull fights, which was made by the press. Today the only cheers from the big crowd came for the steer wrestling act.

Crudelle, Mrs. Nitti's Aid, Released on $12,500 Bond

Peter Crudelle, alleged accomplice with Mrs. Sabelle Nitti in the killing of the latter's husband, Frank Nitti, was released under bonds of $12,500 yesterday afternoon. He was at one time under sentence of death for the killing but was granted a new trial by the Illinois Supreme court. The case will be tried again before Judge William J. Lindsay next month but, according to reports, the state prosecutors have little evidence left after their main case was ruled out by the higher court. Mrs. Nitti was released under similar bonds on Monday.

LUTHERANS PUT BAN ON WAR IN STORMY SESSION

"Nothing Sacred Enough to Warrant It."

De Kalb, Ill., June 17.—Following adoption of a resolution demanding that war be outlawed, the sixty-fifth annual convention of the Lutheran Augustana synod closed today.

The entire day was occupied by the efforts of the opponents of the anti-war resolution to modify its language, but every amendment was defeated.

President G. A. Brandelle left the chair and urged the convention to drop the preamble, containing some of the most drastic language.

Dr. O. J. Johnson, president of Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter, Minn., one of the framers of the resolution, opposed this proposal, declaring it would leave the resolution "a tail without a head."

"Do not we dare to tell the truth about the late war?" demanded Dr. Johnson. "Let this resolution become an historical document that the world may know than we dare, as Lutheran people, to tell where we stand."

Proposal Is Beaten.

Dr. Brandelle's proposal was defeated by a large majority.

After setting forth that Scandinavian Lutherans have always been champions of liberty, the resolutions assert that there is no issue "sacred enough to warrant clash of arms between brothers and a return to the barbarism of human sacrifices."

The slogan of "war to end war," the resolutions assert, is a "stupendous falsehood," and "the overwhelming evidence before the world today is that it makes a few men in each nation enormously rich, while it thrusts untold millions into utter wretchedness."

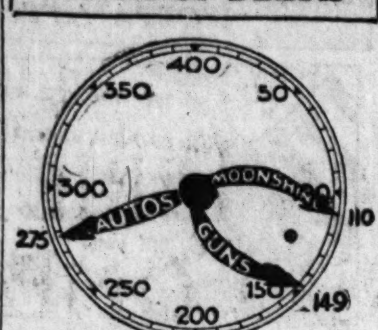
To "Demilitarize" Public Opinion.

"Be it therefore resolved," the resolution continues, "That we call on all who believe in the Savior of mankind to unite their prayers and efforts to win the world for God and his Christ, to the end that the governments of the world shall submit to the power and authority of the Prince of Peace.

"That we call on the constituted authority of our country to use all just means and to support all united efforts to outlaw war and to establish peace and brotherhood among all nations.

"That we pledge ourselves to wage relentless combat against all sinister influences which tend to incite nation against nation, and to use every effort to demilitarize public opinion and to teach men to think in terms of peace."

HANDS OF DEATH



The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by autos, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

DRIVER KILLED WHEN 3 AUTOS CRASH TOGETHER

Three automobiles collided yesterday in a traffic jam at Grand and Tripp avenues, resulting in the death of Mitchell Jankowski, 29, 5220 Lawrence avenue, driver of one of the cars. The two other drivers narrowly escaped severe injury.

According to the police a motor truck driven by George Hildebricht, 2520 West 39th street, struck a sedan operated by William J. Mauer, 2624 Central street, Evanston. Mauer's car was hurled against the one driven by Jankowski.

The victim, who was thrown through the windshield of his car, was taken to the Keystone hospital, but died before he could be put on an operating table. His death raised the county's motor death toll since Jan. 1 to a total of 275. Mauer and Hildebricht were taken into custody.

CANUCK TREATY ON RUM RUNNING OFF FOR A YEAR

Toronto, Ont., June 17.—[Special.]—Today the new regulations to check the smuggling of liquor across the Canadian border were to come into effect, but the innovation has been indefinitely postponed.

Because of the political disruptions at Washington caused by the Republican and the Democratic national conventions, and the adjournment to December 1 of the American congress, the treaty between Canada and the United States to prevent rum running between the two countries has yet to be ratified by the United States senate and by the Canadian parliament.

The treaty was to have started today to end the business of vessels clearing from Ontario lake ports to "Cuba" laden with liquor, because article II of the pact provides expressly for meeting such contraventions.

A dispatch from Dawson, Yukon, indicates great disappointment that the provision in the treaty dealing with the passage of liquor across Yukon has been held up.

SALE OF POISON RUM IS MURDER, ILLINOIS RULING

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—The sale of poisonous liquor for beverage purposes is punishable under the Illinois law by death or imprisonment, the Illinois Supreme court decided here today in affirming the decision of the Christian County Circuit court in the case of John Tokoly, sentenced to prison for Pana's notorious "poison booze" deaths.

The Illinois statute relating to sale of poison booze was attacked by Tokoly, who sought to have the law declared unconstitutional on the ground that it amended the homicide act without inserting the act amended, as provided in the constitution. The majority opinion of the court held that the act was cumulative, rather than amendatory.

In a special opinion concurring specifically with the majority opinion, Justices Thompson and Duncan said:

"We agree that the judgment of conviction for manslaughter should be affirmed. The new statute is a useless piece of legislation because the crime which it was designed to define was already fully defined by existing statutes."

Smuts Beaten by Labor Man in South African Election

AGRICULTURAL PROBLEMS.

Next to tax revision, the topic of agricultural relief is of the greatest importance, politically, if not economically. The Republican platform recognizes the difficult conditions under which agriculture has been carried on during the period of readjustment inevitably succeeding the vast inflation of the war period, and a pledge is given to do all that can be done by legislation or administrative action to relieve the situation. The farmers are reminded of the persistent effort which has been made to assist them out of their various difficulties, and it is affirmed, truly, that under the Republican administration their problems have received more serious consideration than ever before, both by definite executive action and by congressional action, not only in the field of general legislation but also by the passage of measures dealing with special emergencies. As, for example, the revival of the War Finance corporation, which loaned over $300,000,000 in the crisis of 1921; the organization, under the leadership of the President, of a relief corporation with private capital, which made $100,000,000 available to assist the farmers of the northwest; the establishment of new intermediate credit banks and the increase of the resources of the federal loan system; emergency loans to drought stricken areas; a coöperative marketing act; the grain futures and packer control acts; direct agricultural representation on the reserve board and the federal aid commission; unofficial encouragement for the effort to adjust the reparations situation in Europe, in the hope of advancing the rehabilitation of the farmers' export markets; strengthening of our foreign marketing service for the disposal of our agricultural products.

All these measures have not brought back to our farmers pre-war conditions. No political or government action would do that, for no political or government action can reach the underlying economic conditions which are at the root of the agricultural situation today. The party can justly assert that every effort has been made to meet the farmers' difficulties, that the common funds have been generously drawn upon for their aid, that the party has shown a full realization that the agricultural problem is fundamental to our national prosperity and the utmost sympathy for the troubles of the farming population.

If the farmers are disposed to direct their discontent at a political object, to ignore fundamentals and the effort made to help them, there is no way of conciliating them in the political field. The farmer doesn't like conditions. We cannot blame him. It is natural for us all to look for a scapegoat. The party that happens to be in power is the most available target. The loose tongued critic, the easy promiser of quick results, the prescriber of nostrums are popular for the time being and the square thinking leader is discredited. It is a pity, but it always happens that way. An empty pocket has a strong argument, and it may turn the scale in November. The Republican party cannot afford to lose the agricultural states, and it has done about everything it could in response to the farmers' demands, without betraying the farmer by acceding to proposals which would injure him and the country in the long run. Nevertheless it may count for nothing at the polls. We do not prophesy. The great primary victory of Brookhart in a state like Iowa is not conducive to optimism.

Meanwhile we have before us the platform suggestions for expediting the return to prosperity, already begun, through lower freight rates, better marketing through coöperation, improvement of the machinery of distribution, and greater diversification of agriculture. Assistance to these ends is pledged, including tariff protection and a federal system of organization for coöperative marketing of farm products and the broadening of foreign markets.

We should classify as one of the most substantial of measures for agricultural relief the indorsement and pledge of support for the St. Lawrence and lakes to the gulf waterways, although benefits will accrue directly not only to farmers but to all the industries and people of the midcontinent.

But, in our opinion, the basic weakness of agriculture is overproduction, and, while some of the measures proposed, such as increasing foreign markets and diversification of production, will help, they will not cure. Other proposals, especially the favorite nostrums of the so-called progressives or radicals, would do no substantial good, and some would do positive harm. The use of machinery, the improvements in animal husbandry, in agronomy, etc., have raised production so rapidly that it has passed consumption, and will continue to run away from it. No politician can prevent that, or ought to. The readjustment must be economic and fundamental.

THE RED LILY.

Comrade Foster, with the other Muscovites in convention in St. Paul, finds red a poor color for American politics. We have some hope that he will despair of all our pinks as a class of invertebrates incapable of saving themselves or any one else, fond of the parlor and the repulsed by the cheka. La Follette bawls Foster out and tells all who will heed his word not to truck with the Red. Gompers, the railroad brotherhoods, and organized labor generally are all on the ramparts against the agents of the third internationale.

America is poor soil for the Red lily. It grows too much wheat and corn and fattens too much stock on the products of its fields. It finds too much coal and ore within its boundaries. The growers may think that they are in tough luck, but the people generally have found their processes of social order and government working in general for the general good. They are in the main literate and Russia is not to them another Eden.

Comrade Foster offers them the toothache, typhus, moral disintegration, famine, and the rule of the firing squad. He may call it freedom, but they think it is unpleasant.

GREAT BRITAIN AND MEXICO.

If Mexico is to be recognized as having sovereignty it has the right to object to the acts or the character of the representative of another nation on its soil. The United States has recognized the Obregon government. Great Britain has not. H. A. C. Cummins, the British consular agent in Mexico City, was declared unacceptable by the Mexican government and ordered out of the country. He refused to go, remained in the British legation and the Mexican police refrained from forcing an entrance.

Mexico says that the consular agent has abused his residence and his position in the country and that he has misrepresented conditions and occurrences. Mr. Cummins is described as a man with peculiarities of temperament, meaning probably that he can be hot headed. He probably was hot headed when he received reports of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, the American widow of a British subject and ranch owner, defending her property with a small body guard against the continued raids of agrarian communists. She and her employés have been in danger of their lives for months and the fine estate, acquired under the laws of Mexico and developed by the work of her husband and herself is still, so far as we know, sought by armed hundreds who want to divide it up and run off with the stock.

Mr. Cummins may have been peppery over this and possibly other cases. He may have thought that Mrs. Evans was entitled to the protection of the Mexican government and that the British government should see that she got it. He may not have wanted the rule which has been applied so frequently to American citizens and occasionally to Chinese carried over to the British subjects.

Mexico has the right to say he is an objectionable person, but that right presupposes a condition which Mexico does not demonstrate. That is that the government is competent and responsible and that it acknowledges its duties to law abiding citizens of other nations who, within its own laws, have residence, occupations and properties in Mexico.

Mexico is treated with a peculiar indulgence. The British probably find the situation delicate. It is. If unopposed Mexican lawlessness endangered British subjects the normal way would be to protect them with some cruisers and a landing party of sailors and marines, but that is offensive to the United States. We do not want foreign guns in the ports of this continent, which puts a responsibility on America, and we do not seem to know what to do about it.

We trust to Mexico to develop a competence and willingness to conform to rules of international conduct. It is a trust which has moments of optimism but not many. It is a better period now than it was several years ago, but a situation which might result in the Mexicans charging the British legation to capture a British official is not very encouraging.

Even tolerant Ramsay MacDonald probably would have a flare up if some outrage became conspicuous.

THE MUSSOLINI PERIOD.

Such a dictatorship as Mussolini's in Italy may be a successful expediency but it lacks stability. It depends on force which may dissolve or upon the popularity and effectiveness of the man. Popularity is evanescent in its nature. Effectiveness depends on the particular set of conditions at any given time.

At this writing Mussolini's position is uncertain and Italy seems about to return to its constitutional forms with the king in his proper place in the procedure by which the cabinet is chosen and with parliament back in its functions. Tomorrow, the next day or the immediate future may not verify this prospect but Italy's government cannot long remain of the Mussolini character because it is not derived from a source which can sustain modern government.

Dictatorships which survive the life of the dictator because of his extraordinary personality have no succession. A nation under a Mussolini may be getting by a period of weakness or meeting a danger with an expedient but it is not on its feet.

Mussolini represented national enthusiasm when the Reds were pasting the creed of anarchy on the town walls and seizing factories for a practical working of communism. The government seemingly was incapable of meeting the overturning forces and had too little confidence in the people themselves to rally them in their own defense. Mussolini did that and the people themselves asserted that they did not want a communistic government. They successfully stopped its progress and Italy instead of sinking into the miseries for which it was headed was steadied on its feet.

Mussolini virtually discarded the government which had failed in the crisis and made himself superior to most of its processes. King and parliament existed only as passive factors of government when they were factors at all. Nations do not continue long with these expedients even when they have served good national purposes.

AUSTRALIA AND JAPAN.

[Indianapolis News.]

Japan's principal reason for resenting the American immigration law was the feeling that the nation had been insulted. Australia, which had the same Japanese problem as America, solved it, according to an article by Philip Coan in the Outlook, without making an enemy. Coan interviewed William M. Hughes, former prime minister of Australia.

"I want to make one point perfectly clear," said Hughes. "The Australian immigration law doesn't make any distinctions of color. It is not in form directed against any particular country or race. Nor does it even draw a distinction of color. In effect, however, it operates so as to keep out Asiatics. . . Japan has never protested against our law. How could any nation protest against it? There is nothing in its form to wound the national pride of any nation."

The Australian immigration act empowers the authorities to require the candidate for admittance to write correctly, from dictation, a passage of fifty words. This may be required in any language, and the authorities may choose the language. If a Canadian applies for admission to the country he may be required to write fifty words in English. If a Japanese appears he may be asked to write fifty words in Welch or Sanskrit. If he fails to meet the test he is barred. Australia had 29,907 Chinese in 1901, but the number had dropped to 15,240 in 1921. The number of Japanese in Australia, which was 3,593 in 1901, had fallen to 2,763 in 1921. The country is not bothered with the problem of interracial marriages or with the smuggling of immigrants. Though the law does not discriminate, there is discrimination as the result of a dishonest application of it, and such discrimination is intended, though not avowed.

DIABETES.

We have learned a great deal about diabetes in the last few years. These are among the newly acquired facts:

1. There are several kinds of diabetes, or, rather, there are several conditions which cause considerable quantities of sugar to be taken from the blood and thrown into the urine.

2. Ordinary diabetes results because all of the sugar which finds its way into the blood is beyond the sugar tolerance of the individual in question.

3. The sugar in the system is mostly burned into carbonic acid and thrown off by the lungs.

4. Some sugar is thrown off by the kidneys normally.

5. If the amount in the system is beyond the power of the system to burn, an excess accumulates in the blood, whereupon the amount thrown into the urine becomes considerable enough to show on ordinary urine tests for sugar.

6. Sugar in the blood is derived principally from the food. Of the fats eaten 10 per cent can go to form sugar. Of the proteids (lean meats and eggs, for example), 58 per cent of the carbohydrates, 100 per cent can be so used.

7. Excess sugar stored in the liver and muscles, as glycogen, may be turned back into the blood as sugar.

8. When the blood sugar is low, exercising, trembling, and shaking will temporarily increase it.

9. Excessively low blood sugar causes convulsions, unconsciousness, and finally death.

10. When the blood sugar is high, and sugar tolerance is low, as in severe diabetes, the subject can get by on a diet that is very low in sugar producing elements, if he will lie quietly in bed.

11. Insulin acts by destroying sugar in the tissues.

12. The exact power of insulin to metabolize sugar can be determined. It is expressed in what are known as rabbit units.

13. Insulin is now standardized on the unit basis, just as antitoxin is.

14. It is possible now exactly to determine the sugar tolerance of a diabetic; to measure his blood sugar exactly; to know the exact value of his diet.

15. It is possible to know exactly how much sugar in the blood will be metabolized by a given dose of insulin of a given unit strength.

16. Acidosis in diabetes may be relieved by injections of insulin or by a diet consisting of one ounce of dry cereal, three and one-third ounces skim milk, and a little orange juice three times daily for a few days, and no other food, or by the diet and insulin given simultaneously.

17. In diabetes the blood must not be allowed to get too rich or too poor in sugar.

18. If a diabetic expects to live for a long time in spite of his disease, he must take courses of lectures, read books, and otherwise train himself in the science and art of living in happiness, comfort, and efficiency in spite of diabetes.

19. Physicians and nurses who care for diabetics must learn the science and art of caring for that particular disease.

HOW THE LIVER FUNCTIONS.

Mrs. H. V. B. writes: A writer says in regard to the digestion of food:

"When the food reaches the stomach, it is kept in motion and is dissolved by the stomach juices. The food dissolved is then sent to the liver and from there is allowed to pass into the body. She says food does not really change, but simply dissolves."

Are these statements correct?

My understanding was that food, after leaving the stomach, entered the duodenum and small intestine and only sugar and starches go to the liver.

REPLY.

You misunderstood this writer.

The principal action of the stomach is breaking the food up. This is done by a grinding motion. The digestion of proteid by the pepsin and acid of the stomach is important. Very little food is absorbed from the stomach.

The stomach prepares the food for the small intestine. In the small intestine digestion is completed. This is done by the intestinal juices, the pancreatic juice and by the bile. The process of going into solution is completed there.

Most of the absorption of the digested food is done in the small intestine. Most of the absorbed food is next passed through the liver. The liver changes it so that it is fit to go into the blood stream. The function of the liver is to make the food safe for democracy.

All in all, I think your notions are nearer right than those you understood the writer to hold.

HEART PALPITATION.

M. M. K. writes: Is there anything for heart palpitation?

REPLY:

There is. The rule is that palpitation of the heart is about one-fourth as serious as the subject thinks or fears.

If it is caused by smoking, quit smoking.

If caused by other poisons, cut them out.

When properly used, quinidine and digitalis are specifics.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 18, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—The fighting was terrific when Gen. Smith attacked the rebel entrenchments before Petersburg, Va., and captured many of them. The artillery fire was particularly heavy. The rebels' works are even stronger than were those of Missionary Ridge. The hardest fighting was done by colored troops. Gen. Smith personally praised them. Sixteen cannons, several color stands, and 300 or 400 prisoners from Beauregard's command were taken.

NEW YORK.—The Post's Washington correspondent says the mortality in the hospitals averages 100 per day.

WASHINGTON. — Gen. Sherman wired that no serious engagement before Atlanta has yet occurred.

WASHINGTON. — A terrific explosion in the Washington arsenal caused heavy loss of life. There were 1,200 men and 300 women at work when the explosion occurred. Many were hurt in efforts to get away. Eighteen bodies thus far have been taken from the ruins, all burned to a crisp.

PHILADELPHIA.—President Lincoln visited the Great Central Fair, returning to Washington in the evening. Responding to a toast, the President said: "We are going through with our task, so far as I am concerned, if it takes three years longer." He hazarded the prediction that Grant, Meade, and Hancock cannot be dislodged from their present positions until Richmond is taken.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 18, 1899.

WASHINGTON. — Secretary Long and the bureaucrats of the navy have determined to reopen the Schley-Sampson controversy. Several naval officers have made insinuating remarks concerning Admiral Schley's conduct at the battle of Santiago and indications are his friends will demand a senatorial investigation.

THE HAGUE—Kaiser Wilhelm's opposition is thwarting the main purpose of the czar's peace conference, but the plan may yet succeed. Envoys have been sent to the kaiser with a modified proposal for a permanent arbitration tribunal.

NEW YORK.—Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey were matched for a battle for the heavyweight championship of the world now held by Jeffries. The fight is to be twenty-five rounds and will be held Oct. 23.

HOLYOKE, Mass.—President and Mrs. McKinley came to Holyoke for a two days' visit with former Congressman Whiting. He will attend exercises connected with Holyoke college commencement, but will not speak.

CHICAGO. — The Illinois Electric Vehicle Transportation company has practically perfected its organization and will have cabs on the streets within thirty days. Samuel Insull is president of the company and its Chicago directors are John J. Mitchell, C. K. G. Billings, Edward L. Brewster, Levy Mayer, and C. F. Kimball.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 18, 1914.

LONDON.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt is suffering with an affection of the larynx as a result of hardships on his Brazilian trip which will prevent him from taking a speaking part in this fall's political campaign in the United States.

EL PASO.—A dispatch from Gen. Carranza at Saltillo denies that he has broken with Gen. Villa. On the other hand Villa's lieutenants in Juarez declare there has been a definite breach.

SPRINGFIELD.—Attorney General Patrick J. Lucey started to Chicago with a petition for a receiver for the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank. Mr. Lucey declared the institution is "hopelessly insolvent."

SOUTHAMPTON, England. — The North German liner Kaiser Wilhelm II., with 1,000 passengers aboard, collided with a grain steamer, the Incemore, and a large hole was jabbed into the liner's side. None was injured, the company says, but the ship put back for repairs.

CHICAGO—For the first time in Chicago moving pictures were made of a large and fashionable wedding for the use of the married couple. The pictures were taken when John W. Rainey and Miss Ethel McMahon were married at the Cathedral of the Holy Name by Archbishop Quigley.

BUGLES IN THE WIND.

Do you hear them, do you hear them?
  Down the wind and far away?
Faint as fairy bugles blowing—
  Bugles blowing taps today?
Strange that over toil and tumult,
  Strange that over traffic dinned
One should hear far bugles blowing—
  Bugles blowing in the wind!

"Love, goodnight! Must you go!
When the night and my heart need you so!
Fare you well! Rest you well!
Love, goodnight!"

Have you heard them, have you heard them
  Brazenly where banners wave?
Have you heard them sob in silver—
  Silver tears above a grave?
Ah, but strange across the city
  Which no glory rules and wraps,
Have you heard far bugles wailing—
  Windy bugles wailing taps?

"Love, goodnight! Must you go?
When the night and my heart need you so?
Fare you well! Rest you well!

THE KING OF THE BLACK ISLES.

ITALY has another crisis and the king has called all his cousins in to form a new cabinet. King, you're all wet! Your cousins aren't going to do a bit of good. Do you know what, Vic, those fellows will just hang around the palace and play poker in the throne room and smoke every cigar on the place and borrow money and postage stamps and drink all your whisky and go to bed with their boots on. You'll see, Victor; cousins are cousins, whether they're Italians or Americans.

Sir: Sabatini, bah! If you read one of his books you know all the rest of them. They are all alike. He writes dime novels dressed up in fifteenth century clothes. DOGGONE IT, we just know that Harriet Monroe isn't going to like the little verse Rudyard Kipling wrote for the monument at Sault Ste. Marie in Canada in honor of the 350 men of that town who made the supreme sacrifice in the world's war. Harriet hasn't got started yet, but other eminent critics say that the last line is structurally weak, which is their way of knocking the little poem because it rhymes. Anyhow, it's a beautiful thing. Look——

To save our honor and a world aflame;
By little towns in a far land we sleep,
And trust those things we won to you to keep.

FOR THE STERLING-REED BILL.

Chicago, June 10.—"The Sterling-Reed bill is an attempt to bribe the tax payers with money taken from their own pockets."—TRIBUNE. If that is true the masses are to be congratulated, because all the money thus raised will be used to promote the education of the masses. The bill directs that the money shall be spent to aid the specific common school system needed now more urgently than any other taxation project before the people. "A small number of college professors and a great number of school teachers, who are promised increases of not less than $50,000,000 in salary through the bill, are straining every effort to obtain approval of the bill."—TRIBUNE. That is exactly what is wanted—more well paid and more efficient teachers and more money for the schools of the masses. "They (the teachers) assume, despite all lessons of experience, that the federal government can do things better than the state governments."—TRIBUNE. That is a grave mistake. They merely assume that in order to unify, similarize and strengthen the entire common school system there should be a central educational authority over all the states like the United States constitution's authority generally over all the states. Each state has its own constitution and all conform with the greatest benefit to the United States constitution. The real reason why many prominent college heads oppose the bill is because it diverts much of the money boosts from the colleges to the common schools where they belong.

It's the man who "blows" about what he'd do if he were married that usually ends up by marrying somebody who goes to the extreme in all ridiculous fads that are out and trots along at her heels like a little monkey, jumping at every command, and replies with his meek, "Yes, dear." Even with our bobbed hair we can hold our own in the homes (for there are a great many "bobs" happily married); in the business world, and, in fact, any place we may go. Mr. Clifford is unable to do that, for even though he states he darns, mends, and sews, we notice he still asks the ladies to make aprons for him. O, you're single, Mr. Clifford, we know that—your type of man when married proves to be a henpecked husband and wouldn't dare to write what you did. Better stay single.

HOW COULD THEY BREAK A RECORD WITHOUT BREAKING A LAW?

Chicago, June 12.—A few days ago there appeared in several of the Chicago papers a story—a publicity article, no doubt—of an exceptionally fast automobile trip from Chicago to Minneapolis and return. In the same newspapers were recorded the latest bulletins of the relentless toll taking in Chicago of speed and reckless driving.

Both in its direct assertions and its implications the publicity article I refer to was utterly inconsistent with the professed desire of every one to see the law more generally observed and to see a sharp reduction in accidents.

As I recall it, the average speed made on this trip was considerably more than forty miles an hour; while it referred specifically to the car's being forced into a ditch while going sixty miles an hour!

These figures mean only one thing, of course. They mean that the average speed was considerably in excess of the maximum speed allowed by law; they mean that the maximum speed, for a considerable portion of the trip, must have been in the neighborhood of sixty miles an hour—which was flagrantly unlawful, and as flagrantly reckless of the rights of other users of the highway.

Primarily, of course, the criticism is of the men who so obviously violated the laws and then with equal brazenness boasted of it—men occupying responsible positions with organized industry in this city—but I think that the newspapers which printed the story are even more to be censured.

All of the newspapers are insisting on a reduction of automobile accidents, and in their attempt they should have the whole hearted support of every one, whether automobile driver or not.

But it seems to me that to herald a criminal performance—which, on the figures cited, this performance certainly was—as something creditable and worthy of emulation is utterly inconsistent with their plea for saner driving. I believe that the newspapers, in order to be consistent, and in order to function as the leaders and creators of community thought, should condemn rather than applaud such unlawful acts.

Very truly yours,
CLARENCE E. ELDRIDGE.

MAYBE WE SHALL HAVE TO TAKE THEM DOWN.

Chicago, June 13.—The constant wail of the P. O. clerks for more salary makes me tired. Why not take down the civil service bars and give the rank and file a chance? They will be only too glad to accept these jobs at the salaries now in vogue, and without the perpetual grouch these laddy-dahs have who can pass civil service examinations. Do away with civil service examinations for P. O. clerks. J. S.

COUNCIL STARTS IMPROVEMENTS ON THEIR WAY

Approves I. C. Tunnel at Van Buren Street.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The city council is expected today to give a real boost to the improvement of Chicago. Apparently it has been waiting since Mayor Dever was elected to get his word to go. The mayor raised the barrier last Saturday in an interview printed in THE TRIBUNE saying that he favored spending $100,000,000 for the improvement of the city.

The council finance committee started marching to the front yesterday. Among other things it ordered bonds for $12,100,000 engraved, and picked out a contractor to do the work, preparatory to the sale of the securities. These are for South Water street and two bridges.

On the application of Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, the committee approved of starting work on bridges at La Salle street which will cost about $2,650,000, at One Hundredth street which will cost $1,100,000 and at Roosevelt road which will cost approximately $1,500,000.

Under Full Speed.

While the committee was under full speed ahead it approved of proposed expenditures of $2,219,503 on Ashland avenue, at the request of President Sloan of the board of local improvements.

This street is to be widened and improved. The expenditures, except $68,835 for paving between Sixty-ninth and Ninety-fifth streets, are for property to widen the street on the north end. Mr. Sloan was also told to go ahead and work employes nights in order to get contracts ready for ordinary street paving.

In addition, the committee approved of a plan of the Illinois Central railroad to construct a tunnel from its tracks under Grant park to the west side of Michigan boulevard at Van Buren street and have the job finished before the close of the next construction season.

Must Use Tunnel.

The analysis of the ordinance by city engineers indicates that practically all foot traffic to and from the Illinois Central at this point will be taken off the surface of Michigan boulevard. Apparently it will be impossible to get to or from the trains without going into the tunnel. Starting at the west side of Michigan boulevard a pedestrian descends by a stairway 12 feet wide on either side of Van Buren street to the tunnel, 18 feet in width. It continues eastward for 190 feet, then branches into two tunnels, each 16 feet wide, the south one going up and the north one going down.

Each of these branches is eight feet in height and go to two levels of a suburban station. Then the upper one connects with platforms to the east across the tracks. The blue prints show that connections between the present platforms and viaduct of the park board will be discontinued. There are two entrances to the tunnel in the east side of Michigan boulevard, east of the present side walk, which will be 9 feet in width. The ordinance, already approved by the South Park commission, is in accordance with the lake front settlement adopted in 1919.

Start on Roosevelt Road.

The bridge program approved yesterday indicates that work will be started at once on Roosevelt road, for which plans have been practically completed. This project has been pending for a number of years. Commissioner Sprague, in his letter to the committee, says: "I deem it advisable and have decided that this work should no longer be delayed, and that therefore the new bridge shall be constructed over the present river channel."

When the river is straightened, for which the city has a permit from the federal government, the bridge will be turned around to span the new channel. For the bridge, $900,000 was appropriated last March, and the committee recommended $600,000 more yesterday.

To speed along the designs for the 100th and La Salle streets spans the committee recommended that the commissioner be permitted to employ eleven bridge engineers.

FLEET IN LAST TRIBUTE TO 48 WARSHIP DEAD

Admirals Wiley and Pratt Praise Their Heroism.

Trona Field, San Pedro, Cal., June 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Pacific fleet today paid reverend homage to the three officers and forty-five men who fell in line of duty Thursday in No. 2 turret of the battleship Mississippi.

"You died at your posts of duty," said Rear Admiral W. V. Pratt as he faced the long rows of coffins in the last ceremonies for the dead.

In hollow square their comrades of the fleet stood at attention in the final salute; thousands of civilians about this field, which has witnessed the athletic prowess of some of those who lay still, rose bareheaded. The marine guard of honor pointed their rifles skyward, three farewell volleys flashed, and Bugler "Pop" Dallaghan, oldest trumpeter in the navy, sounded the solemn stirring notes of "The Last Post."

One Body Sent to Georgia.

Early in the morning forty-seven caskets were borne to the field and arranged in the form of a cross. The forty-eighth, that containing the body of Lieut. Thomas E. Zellars, yesterday started its journey to a Georgia grave.

Over each coffin lay the flag, and banked about them were thousands of flowers, drooping in the brilliant sunshine above the great, silent cross.

Every ship in the Pacific fleet had its mourners in the living square about the still center piece—4,000 of them, officers and men, at the altar of the dead.

Vice Admiral Henry A. Wiley and Rear Admiral Pratt arrived at the field shortly before 11 o'clock, followed by the massed band of the navy playing Chopin's funeral march. An airplane dropped blossoms to the ground. Admiral Wiley was the first to speak.

Admiral Wiley Praises Heroes.

"We come here in sorrow to mourn the loss of our comrades and join in the last services over them," he said. "The accident found them at their posts, putting forth the best that was in them. Their last moments gave the most positive proofs of their courage and devotion. They died in line of duty."

Rear Admiral Pratt declared the men who perished in the Mississippi disaster gave their lives heroically to their country. The accident, he said, disclosed no faint hearts among the men of the Mississippi.

"The eagle will sit secure by his nest so long as such men and such ships guard our shores," he declared.

WETS GET BLOW ON LICENSES BY SUPREME COURT

Wet forces in Illinois were given a jolt yesterday by the state Supreme court, which held that the city license ordinance regulating soft drink parlors was within the powers granted the city by the constitution.

It had been hoped by the wet element that the courts would apply the same ruling on soft drink parlors as was given in the case of drug stores. Decisions have held that the city has no power to demand licenses of druggists, and therefore no right to revoke licenses for violations of the prohibition laws.

Comerford and Kelly Case to High Court

Putting the question of the validity of their election to the offices of Superior and Circuit court judges directly up to the Illinois Supreme court, John J. Kelly and Frank Comerford, Democrats, yesterday petitioned the high court, asking that the lower courts be ordered to pay their salaries.

Wings of Song Bear Elmer ThroughEther

Pullman Quartet Gains His Full Approval.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Kept perfectly sane and sober all evening; didn't find occasion to go bugs or wildly enthusiastic, but it's only 10:30.

Was greeted first by little (presume she was little) Ruth Chenoweth, reader on the Gunn School of Music 4:30 WMAQ program. There is an appeal all its own, in these student programs, and Miss Chenoweth touched a note of naturalness, emphasis and subtelties of expresison surpassing that of many professional readers of older years.

"The Why of Grand Opera" by Karlton Hackett at WLS at 7:30 furnished a reminiscent thrill of old time grand opera days. The present "glittering horseshoe" wasn't a feature at the Auditorium in those days, and won't be seen at Ravinia next week, but the spirit of grand opera which Mr. Hackett appreciates and describes so beautifully is everywhere where grand opera is. Not to understand that is to miss one of the greatest mental treats of the age.

Harry Hansen's literary talk, from WMAQ, which was mostly on poems of the sea, was so poetical throughout that it was hard to tell where prose left off and poetry began. Maybe we can persuade Mr. Hansen to give us more readings next week from the poets who understood the sea, including a repetition of "Jack Robinson."

At 8:50 the patiently waited for Apollo Male quartet came on at W-G-N and we stayed with them until the last number. Still humming in the mind, echo-like, are the rich, colorful tones of "Deep River," which the quartet sang in an unusual but extraordinarily effective manner. The voices of this quartet are well blended, and in this song their fine basso does some effective work.

Did a little studying during Rosemary Hughes' numbers, on the same program, to determine, if possible, the cause of her effectiveness, if that describes the thought. Came to the conclusion that her voice is an appeal to the intellect, rather than the emotions, and that it is of classic, Mozartian timbre. Would like to hear her in Mozart arias.

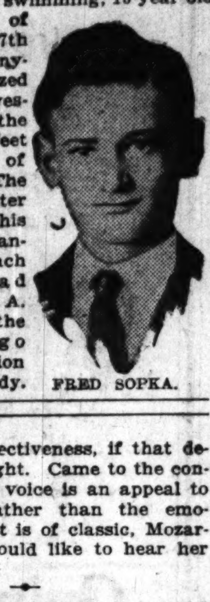
Another voice to attract our mood was that of Barbara Kraemer on the 9:15 WMAQ program. Her solo, "Bonnie Sweet Bessie," how rich and lovely! How musical!

And this program furnished the only laugh of the evening—a reading by Mrs. Estelle Lovelle Welch, entitled "Moo, Cow, Moo," during which the cow is described as having a "nose all over the head of her face."

Lastly, the Pullman quartet at WLS in five Negro spirituals, and closing with a request number by the announcer for "the prettiest Negro spiritual ever written, 'Swing Low, Sweet Chariot.'"

These spirituals are the nearest to real folk songs in America, and when sung by their originators, the Negroes, they are all the more interesting.

BOY, SWIMMING IN LAKE, GETS CRAMPS AND IS DROWNED



FRED SOPKA.

Although his mother refused him permission to go swimming, 15 year old Fred Sopka of 3003 East 97th street went anyway. He was seized with cramps yesterday while in the lake about 100 feet from the foot of 103d street. The water still is bitter cold. Before his four boy companions could reach him, Fred had drowned. Capt. A. F. Brown of the South Chicago coast guard station recovered the body.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE R. HUGHES, who was elected president of the National Music Merchants' association at a convention in New York last week, died at Mercy hospital yesterday. He was taken there from the train after he caught cold while returning from New York to his home in San Francisco.

DEVER SELECTS 4 MEMBERS OF NEW RADIO BODY

Selection of four "civilian" members of the new radio commission was announced yesterday by Mayor Dever. Their names, with that of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] as chairman, will probably be submitted to the city council for approval this afternoon. Three other aldermen are to be named as members at a later date, the mayor said.

Herbert H. Frost, chairman of the Radio Manufacturers' association, is one of those chosen by the mayor. The others are Frank Reichmann, technical engineer, and president of the Winkler-Reichmann company; Frank H. McDonald, president of National Listeners' association, and Wilson J. Wetherbee, director of station KYW of the Westinghouse Electric company.

"The proposed commission is planned for two reasons," declared Ald. Arvey, who sponsored its creation. "The improvement of radio reception for the people of Chicago and for the purpose of preventing hostile and oppressive regulation of radio broadcasting and the reception of radio broadcasting."

GEORGE'S FAITH IN FELLOW MAN LOST WITH $2,250

Now George E. Wellingham, credulous and colored, has lost all faith in his fellow man. And that isn't all that he's lost.

Leaving his home at 5760 Lafayette avenue Monday afternoon, George met three affable Negroes. Discussing the candidacy of Dawes for vice-president, they naturally drifted around to personal finances. George exhibited a bank book with a $2,250 balance. The affable trio insisted it was nothing more than a grocery book. George was distressed at their disbelief—especially since it was after banking hours and he could not prove his financial standing.

But yesterday George vindicated himself. He drew out the $2,250 and exhibited the money to the affable and admiring trio. They immediately cited instances of robberies in Chicago and offered to return George's money to the bank. He accepted their generous offer.

That's all.

ACCIDENT BRINGS LOTS OF POLICE TO HOLDUP MEN

Looking through the window of a street car in which they were riding, Policemen Dillon and Carroll of the Austin station late last night saw Herman Schlacht standing, hands aloft, behind the counter of his drug store at 5430 West Madison street. Then three figures darted out the door, the hands came down, and Schlacht began firing a revolver.

The two policemen rushed from the car and took after the fleeing bandits. There was an exchange of shots in which, the policemen believe, one of the robbers was hit. Two of them dived into a waiting automobile and were driven away. The third ran north to Lotus avenue and Washington boulevard, where he hopped upon the running board of a machine driven by John Ohlsted of 1621 West Madison street.

"Drive away fast," he ordered, flashing a revolver in Ohlsted's face. The latter's wife fainted. His two children cried.

Policemen Tobin and Holleran, touring the district in a flivver, chased the automobile. Fearful of hitting the children if he fired, Holleran jumped from the flivver to the running board and captured the bandit, who gave his name as Michael Sterino.

CITY REQUIRES $800,000 MORE, COUNCIL HEARS

Supplemental appropriations, approximately $800,000, will be recommended to the city council this afternoon by the finance committee.

The midyear budget bill, if approved by the aldermen, will provide $250,000 for street cleaning in addition to the $6,000,000 voted for the same work last March and will bring the estimated cost of city activities for 1924 to about $47,231,021.

Other items are $60,000 for the removal of the abutments of the old Rush street bridge and $50,000 for the conversion of the old Pekin café at 27th and South State streets into a police station if a real estate subcommittee approves the purchase of the property.

Consider Building Worthless.

Owners of the property are demanding $35,000 from the city, but the committee's experts have pointed out that although the site is worth $20,000, the building practically is worthless and attempts to remodel it for police station purposes will cost more than $15,000.

The bill will also recommend a return to the 1923 standard of allowances made to city employes who use privately owned automobiles in the city's service, ranging from $65 to $90 a month. There had been a cut to $30 and $45. In urging the old scale, the committee ignored Mayor Dever's suggestion that it be limited to unionized employes of the department of gas and electricity who had threatened to withdraw their privately owned cars and force the city to furnish them with transportation.

The mayor and his experts were wrong more times than they were right in suggesting changes in our expenditure estimates, declared Ald. John Clark [30th].

Olson Pay Raise Lost.

After considerable discussion the committee "filed" the petition of several Municipal court justices for a $3,000 a year salary increase for Chief Justice Harry Olson.

The committee members were told that Mayor Dever would not veto the increase and that an ordinance raising the salaries of associate justices of the court from $9,000 to $11,000 would be introduced in the council today.

Appropriations which would have increased Chief Justice Olson's salary from $12,000 to $15,000 and the associate justices' salaries from $9,000 to $12,000 were vetoed by the mayor last March.

Opposition to plans for the motorization of the city's street cleaning department developed in the finance committee. The protest raised affects equipment to cost $375,000 and which it was hoped would be in operation on the northwest side by Aug. 1.

HUNT SUICIDE'S DAUGHTER.

Police have not been able to find Dorothy, 18 year old daughter of Mrs. Mary Threm, who committed suicide by gas Sunday morning at 3826 West Washington street. Dorothy eloped some time ago, it was said.

SCANLAN DROPS CONTEMPT CASE AGAINST CERMAK

Circuit court judges have no power to enforce execution of their order providing for the number of employés to be used in county offices, it was held yesterday by Judge Kickham Scanlan, who dismissed contempt proceedings brought against Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, and the fourteen other commissioners.

Mr. Cermak vetoed an appropriation for salaries for fifty-three additional deputy sheriffs, to be used as a "law enforcement division," and authorized by the "employment" committee of the Circuit judges.

Contempt proceedings then were begun against the board for violation of the court order providing for the employment by Sheriff Hoffman of the additional deputies. Mr. Cermak, in his veto message, attacked the legality of the sheriff's right to maintain a police force.

Judge Scanlan declared that the constitution imposed a duty on the judges to select each year the number of employés required by the county fee offices. The constitution imposed also a duty on the county board to appropriate salaries for those employés authorized by the judges. Both duties, however, were separate, and imposed directly by the constitution, Judge Scanlan held. Thus, while the board and President Cermak might be ignoring their constitutional duties, yet they were not in contempt of court.

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

The Only Shade Made With A Ventilator

The value of VUDOR Porch Shades lies in their ability to subdue the sun's heat and glare, making the porch invitingly shady and cool even in the hottest part of the day.

VUDOR Porch Shades are the only shades made with a ventilator woven in the top of the shade. This ventilator permits a gentle circulation of air without draft, which greatly assists in reducing the temperature on the porch.

The stores named below can equip sun parlors with VUDOR shades in regular colors at once from stock and can quickly supply VUDORS to order in pale green, ivory, tan and two tones of grey.

A shade 6 feet wide with a drop of 7 feet six inches now costs only $6.50

NO QUARTER FOR DEMAGOGUES IS DAWES' PROGRAM

Common Sense to Guide, He Tells Neighbors.

of the United States, I pledge myself to adhere to the truth and to the common sense conclusions to be drawn therefrom. As to the demagogue on the stump, whatever may be his party, I want it distinctly understood that in the coming campaign I ask no quarter and will give none. I know that I will have the sympathy of all good citizens irrespective of party and I hope our political opponents will follow the same course. Let common sense reign."

There was great applause as the candidate finished. Much of it was in appreciation of the fact that he had broken his political silence while talking to his neighbors.

As the crowd moved towards the house a colored man carrying a sign was discovered.

"HELL MARIA—THE FAT IS IN THE FIRE — THERE AIN'T NO FLAWS IN COOLIDGE AND DAWES," was the slogan on the sign.

DAWES TO VISIT COOLIDGE

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—Charles G. Dawes will come to Washington next week to discuss campaign issues and plans with President Coolidge. Mr. Dawes has indicated his desire to see the President and the latter has extended an invitation to the vice presidential nominee and Mrs. Dawes to be guests at the White House at whatever time is convenient to them.

Inasmuch as Mr. Dawes will be on the stump throughout the campaign while the President will make but few speeches, the conferences next week will be of special importance in shaping the issues.

President Coolidge has made no plans thus far for his own participation in the campaign. He expects to remain in Washington throughout most of the summer. He will make only a few speeches. Most of them will be on special occasions of a nonpolitical character, although he will have an opportunity to dwell upon election issues in several addresses such as at the time of the ceremonies incident to the official notification of his nomination.

Denial was made at the White House today that the advisory committee to be appointed to coöperate with the Republican national committee will have any greater authority than such committees have had in past campaigns.

The White House sought to give the impression that William M. Butler will be in chief command of the campaign as chairman of the national committee and that the advisory committee is not intended to do more than offer advice, notwithstanding the statement made yesterday by C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the President, that the advisory committee will have "the real management of the campaign."

Mr. Butler is scheduled to arrive in Washington the latter part of the week from Chicago and it is expected that the personnel of the advisory committee will be then discussed.

LONDON MEXICAN CONSUL RECEIVES BRITISH WARNING

MacDonald Keeps U.S. Advised.

LONDON, June 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—Prime Minister MacDonald through the Mexican consul general in London today made strong representations regarding the attempt of the Mexiocan government to expel Herbert C. Cummins, British agent.

The prime minister interviewed American Ambassador Kellogg this morning and reported that progress had been made in the Cummins matter. The American government is being kept fully informed of the steps taken by Great Britain in the Mexican incident.

The Chilean minister, Don Augustin Edwards, called at the foreign office this afternoon in reference to the Mexican situation. It is stated in official quarters that the report that the Chilean minister in Mexico City had advised the recall of Cummins was untrue. It was explained, however, that the Chilean minister to Mexico has been doing his best to relieve the present situation. Minister Edwards would not discuss the details of his visit to the foreign office.

Position of Cummins.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, June 17.—The British representative, H. A. Cunard Cummins, is exactly in the same position as the American representative to Berlin was from 1920 to 1922, and is entitled to the same courtesy from the Mexican government as the American got from the German government. There was no suggestion here that Great Britain would send a warship to Mexican waters. Prime Minister MacDonald has notified Alexander Carrillo, Mexican unofficial representative in London, that if the Mexicans persist in the insulting treatment of Mr. Cummins that the Hohler mission will not be sent to Mexico and recognition by Great Britain will be indefinitely delayed.

GERMANY ACTS TO DENY STATE SECRETS TO REDS

May Bar Them from All Government Meetings.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, June 17.—The Foreign Affairs committee of the reichstag today passed a resolution which provides that communist disputes shall be excluded from all future government meetings where any confidential subjects are to be discussed. The resolution will be laid before the reichstag.

The communists are now excluded from the foreign affairs committee sessions because their actions are considered treasonable inasmuch that they have published all of the secret discussions and refuse to give their word of honor to protect the country by keeping confidences.

Foreign Minister Stressemann in discussing Gen. Nollet's appointment as the French war minister, told the committee that Gen. Nollet's business will differ from that which he handled as head of the interallied military control commission which sought to disarm Germany. The Nationalists heckled Herr Stresemann.

The German Liberal Press continues to express the hope that Germany will accept the gesture of friendship which Premier Herriot has made in speeches addressed to the German Democracy, but the Nationalists and the Ludendorff party press is still renting venom and hatred. Gen. Nollet's first order, freeing a number of German political prisoners, was ridiculed by the Nationalists.

Thanks America for Relief.

Germany thanked America for the relief of the German starving children at a reception today to which President Ebert invited members of Gen. Allen's mission, the Quaker relief, and representatives of the American press. There will be a considerable curtailment of the relief about July 1 on account of better conditions.

President Ebert declared that the Allen fund and that of the Quakers reached over $12,000,000, and more than 1,000,000 children were receiving food daily.

"Moreover," said President Ebert, "I believe the relief also helped to knit the broken threads between the nations and dispel the hatred which the war engendered."

Ebert Praises Dawes Report.

During the reception, Herr Ebert told THE TRIBUNE:

"It will be terribly hard to make the whole German nation see the necessity of the Dawes agreement, but I am convinced that the Dawes report can be placed on a workable basis if properly interpreted."

The president stressed the last words, ending:

"The harshness and hardships entailed in the fulfillment of the Dawes suggestions can be reduced when they pass from suggestions into distilled laws and from laws into real life.

"I realize fully that the attacks against me will increase, but we are accustomed to this. In fact, I blush a deepest purple when people say kind things about me—nasty remarks about me are my daily bread."

WIFE SAVES HUSBAND'S LIFE.

Mrs. Helen Oshab, mother of three children, peered through a basement window of her home at 2419 North Lotus avenue yesterday and saw her husband lying, apparently lifeless, with a gas hose in his mouth. He was revived by the police.

STEIN OF BEER SIGN GREETING DEMOCRATS THRILLS BROADWAY

New York, June 17.—[Special.]—Al Smith's campaign chiefs, Franklin D. Roosevelt and James J. Hoey, were thrown into a state of panic today when they learned that a gilded statue of Father Knickerbocker, holding the Democratic donkey under his right arm and a stein of foaming beer aloft in his left hand, had been placed on the roof of a canopy over the Broadway entrance to the Hotel Astor.

At the request of Mr. Hoey, the hotel management sent an employe scaling across the canopy at the height of the noonday crowds in Times square. In two minutes, with the aid of a thin saw, the workman had maimed Father Knickerbocker's good right hand and replaced the offensive stein with an innocuous walking stick of birch.

The Smith people gave no formal explanation for their action, but with William Jennings Byran and "Willie" Upshaw arriving tomorrow, as two of the delegates to the Democratic convention, no explanation was necessary.

The treasurer of the hotel said it was all an artistic mistake. He said the artist had been ordered to get an old picture of Father Knickerbocker as his model and that the only one he could find portrayed him with a stein.

NO PRESIDENTIAL BEE IS BUZZING IN RALSTON HAT

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—Senator Samuel Ralston [Dem., Ind.], who has been looked on as one of the most probable Democratic dark horses for either the presidential or vice presidential nomination, is convinced that his name will not figure at either end of the ticket.

The senator in a letter to a personal friend here expressed that opinion. He declared that "nothing has happened since our last conversation" to indicate that he would figure in any way at the convention.

HARRISON TO BE VOICE FOR KLAN AT N. Y., CHARGE

He's Not Member, but a "Representative."

Washington D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—When Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi takes the platform at New York to sound the Democratic keynote, it is alleged he will stand before the convention as "the head of and spokesman for a Ku Klux Klan delegation" from his home state.

At any rate, this is the statement of ex-United States Senator Leroy Percy of Mississippi, who charges that the recent Democratic state convention in Mississippi was controlled by the klan. The only two anti-klan county delegations in the convetion were thrown out without a hearing, declares Percy.

But He's Not a Member.

The klan, in naming delegates to the New York convention, diplomatically allotted places to a number of persons who, according to Percy, are not members of the masked organization, and among this minority are Senators Harrison and Stephens. The delegates so unceremoniously excluded from the convention, says Percy, "were excluded not from the council hall of Democracy but from the klavern of the Ku Klux Klan."

"An open fight on the Ku Klux Klan has been made in only two of the counties in Mississippi," said Mr. Percy. "The clear majority in both counties is anti-klan. Both counties sent anti-klan delegations to our state convention. Both delegations were unseated, one on a flimsy pretext, the other for no assigned reason.

"This is important and I charge it to be a fact that it will be denied by no member of the convention not a klansman, or who does not cringe to the power of the klan. The convention was organized by the Ku Klux Klan.

"E. F. Noel was made temporary chairman by a klan vote. The committee on credentials appointed by him, which passed on the two contests, was composed by a large majority, if not exclusively, of well known klansmen. A fair hearing upon the floor of the convention was denied by a strictly klan vote.

Calls Delegation Klan Servant.

"The delegation chosen to represent the Democracy of Mississippi in the Democratic national convention was chosen by the Ku Klux Klan. In the Democratic national convention this delegation will obey the behests of the klan, and this although some of them are not members of the klan, for the delegation is instructed to vote as a unit and the majority of them are klansmen."

The delegations from two other states, Georgia and Texas, it is said, are controlled by the klan. Senator Earle B. Mayfield of Texas, who was elected to the senate by the klan voters of his state, is a delegate at large.

GOTHAM TO GIVE 'DEMS' GREATEST SHOW IN HISTORY

and drys of the west, Smith, champion of the conservatives and wets of the east; McAdoo, the Protestant, who is satisfactory to the Ku Klux Klan; Smith, the Catholic, round whom the anti-klan rallies. Each represents fundamentals on which not only the Democratic party, but the country divides.

"If the Democrats nominate either of their strong men, they split their party, and to keep their party united they must nominate a nonentity — that's Republican luck," says a Republican observer.

Many in the Democratic camp think it would be unwise to nominate either McAdoo or Smith and invite party schism, but their voices are being drowned out just now by the din of the McAdoo and Smith boomers.

The convention will open with McAdoo in the lead in delegate strength. He will be a far greater power than was thought possible a few weeks ago. His manager, Former Judge David Ladd Rockwell, claims he will have 600 votes on about the third or fourth ballot, when the full McAdoo strength will be developed.

The indications are that McAdoo actually has in sight now about 450 votes, Smith about 300. If the two-thirds rule should be abolished 550 votes would be sufficient to nominate.

Brennan May Avert Stampede.

McAdoo is so strong that his opponents are showing signs of fright. They are impatiently awaiting the arrival here tomorrow of George E. Brennan of Chicago.

The opposing armies are resting on their arms, studying the books of tactics and strategy and consulting the oracles—the McAdoo generals at the Vanderbilt hotel, the Smith field marshals in the Prudential building.

Mr. Rockwell receives the press at stated hours, flanked by Clyde Herring, the new Iowa leader who recently unhorsed Wilbur Marsh of the old guard; Breckinridge Long of Missouri, who has lived to see Jim Reed bite the dust, and Col. Sam Amidon of Kansas, the McAdoo floor leader at San Francisco.

Gos. Smith, who has taken personal charge of his campaign and shaken up the dry bones generally in his organization, also receives the press at stated hours, with Norman E. Mack and Franklin D. Roosevelt at his elbow.

Officers on the Picket Line.

Mr. Rockwell tells the press that he has appointed Mr. Long the whip of the McAdoo forces. W. R. Hollister of Missouri, for many years secretary to Gum Shoe Bill Stone, is to be the McAdoo expert on the two-thirds rule, having unearthed more information about that relic of antiquity than it was supposed existed. William L. O'Connell of Chicago is to be McAdoo pooh-bah in the distribution of convention tickets.

Mr. McAdoo will arrive here tomorrow and take personal charge of the maneuvering to obtain the nomination. Most of the other candidates also will be here with their strategy boards.

Plan to Kill Two-Thirds Rule.

The program of the McAdoo managers is to abolish the two-thirds rule, so that only a simple majority will be required for the nomination, and to nominate McAdoo on about the fourth ballot and get started home some time Saturday night or Sunday morning with the memory of a perfect week in gay New York. They think they will have a majority of the rules committee and therefore that it will be an easy matter to report to the convention a rule providing for nominations by a simple majority in place of the two-thirds requirement which has been in effect since 1832. They think they have a majority of the convention committed to the nomination of McAdoo and that therefore the new rule would be adopted and sustained.

Right there, if the program gets that far, is where the first test of McAdoo strength is going to materialize. For there are scores of delegates instructed for McAdoo and delegates whose votes will be delivered to McAdoo under the unit rule who are not for McAdoo at all. They will vote against abolishing the two-thirds rule.

Conversely there are numerous delegates tied up with the opposition who favor McAdoo at heart, or who for other reasons will vote to abolish the old rule. There is no prediction of the outcome on that question.

There will be a fight over the rules, a fight over the platform and a fight over the nominations—a pitched battle at every step. Probably the roll will be called on every motion and a number of delegations polled on every roll call. It is going to take the convention hours to pass every given point and the nominations will not be reached till Friday, in all likelihood. The fur is going to fly, and when the gavel sounds adjournment the scalps of good Jeffersonians and Jacksonians will be scattered all over the place.

So you can see it is going to be some show.

McADOO'S HAT A MEGAPHONE, TOO, SAYS BRENNAN

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Important Democratic personages stepped into the spotlight from several corners of the political stage yesterday.

William Gibbs McAdoo, en route to New York to assume personal charge of his convention headquarters, hesitated in Chicago long enough to leave this statement:

"I am going to win in New York. I am proud that the opposition to me is led by reactionaries. We'll lick them any way they fight."

Brennan's Views Different.

George E. Brennan, Illinois chieftain and one of the great leaders of the party, who also started for Gotham, left this inference behind:

"Mr. McAdoo is talking through his hat. He'll not be nominated. If the two-thirds rule is abrogated in favor of a majority vote to nominate, the state unit system of voting also may be abolished. But regardless of what happens Mr. McAdoo will be disappointed."

Thomas F. Donovan, former state chairman and nominee for attorney general, made the remark that the Republicans soon will have to use pulmotors to instill enthusiasm for Coolidge. He doubted that the vigorous and spectacular oratory of Dawes will offset coolness towards Coolidge.

Norman L. Jones, gubernatorial standard bearer, spent a busy day with Chicago leaders preparatory to starting a statewide tour immediately after the national convention.

State Representative John R. Devine, chairman of the Democratic downstate campaign, arranged to leave state headquarters in charge of lieutenants to go to New York for the convention.

"It will be a good place to talk some state politics," he said. "Everybody will be there."

Mr. Brennan was accompanied to New York by a vanguard consisting of County Chairman Martin J. O'Brien, Arthur O'Brien, secretary to Mayor Dever; W. J. Connors, and Congressman James R. Buckley. Mrs. Anna L. Smith, national committeewoman, leaves today.

G. O. P. Helmsman Is Busy.

William M. Butler, new G. O. P. chairman, spent a busy day putting Republican national headquarters in shape in the Wrigley building. It was a day of conferences with Fred W. Upham, Illinois committeeman; Gen. Dawes, and others. William V. Hodges of Colorado, new treasurer of the national committee, arrives today, and Secretary Roy O. West tomorrow.

Another national headquarters was opened in Chicago yesterday by the Prohibition national committee, headed by Dr. B. E. P. Prugh. The offices are located at 2101 Prairie avenue, from which scene the campaign for H. P. Faris of Clinton, Mo., nominee for President, and Miss Marie C. Brehm of Long Beach, Cal., Vice Presidential nominee, will be directed. She is the first woman to be nominated by a political party for this office. John P. Coffin is in charge of the Chicago headquarters.

DRUG STORE HELD UP.

Five dollars, some fountain pens, and an assortment of smokes were taken yesterday by three armed youths who held up the clerk of a drug store at 4101 West Roosevelt road.

CHICAGO TO SEA WATERWAY SURE, HOOVER ASSERTS

MONTREAL, Que., June 17.—[Special.]—"The deepening of the St. Lawrence river to allow ocean going boats to enter the Great Lakes basin is inevitable," Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce in the United States, said when he arrived in Montreal this afternoon.

"The fast growing pressure of population in middle west of both Canada and United States points to only one thing, and that is completion of the deep waterways scheme.

"In spite of the fears of New York, Buffalo, Montreal and other eastern ports, the channel will be built. No matter how the issue is fought by eastern capital, no matter how eastern interests squirm and fight, the end will be the same.

"The scheme when completed will be to the advantage of the population of the Great Lakes basin and the middle west, and in that part of country the bulk of the population of North America will some day reside. For this reason and this alone, the plan is bound to become a fact. When that happens the continent's commercial center will rest in the district around the Great Lakes."

Mr. Hoover leaves for New York tonight. He arrived here early this afternoon and was entertained at a luncheon given to him and other members of the investigating commission by the Montreal Harbor commission.

MRS. SCARANO, HELD IN MATE'S DEATH, IS FREED

Mrs. Frances Scarano, 645 North Curtis street, who was taken in custody Monday after her husband had been found dead with two bullet wounds in his head, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury.

She testified that Scarano had been drinking of late and had not been steadily employed. Awakened by shots, she had run screaming from the house. It was not until twelve hours later that she learned her husband was dead.

The jury found that Scarano committed suicide.

TRADE ORYL MARK DENTAL CREAM

ORYL DENTAL CREAM contains Oryl, which is a most excellent aid to dentists in the treatment of pyorrhea.

You will use ORYL DENTAL CREAM as soon as you understand that it will not only clean your teeth, but also guard the tissues of the mouth and correct unhealthy conditions.

Almost any good dentrifice, free from gritty substances, harmful drugs and acids, will keep the teeth clean. Even common baking soda will do that. But equally important is the care of the tissues and structures. ORYL DENTAL CREAM does both. It cleans teeth as teeth should be cleaned without grit or acid.

But the important thing is a healthy mouth. The teeth are only as strong as their supporting structures. Merely keeping the teeth clean does not preserve the tissues. You have been taught to clean your teeth, of course, but have you learned that this is only a half-way measure? Your teeth may be beautiful today, but pyorrhea may be actively at work.

ORYL DENTAL CREAM contains no germicides. You can't destroy germs in the mouth by the use of germicides without harming the tissues. ORYL DENTAL CREAM is a combination of harmless oils so combined by scientific methods that it immediately stimulates a circulation of blood to infected areas. It helps Nature to help herself.

ORYL DENTAL CREAM has been prescribed by dentists for over seven years, because they have recognized its merit. But this is the first time it has been advertised to the general public.

TRY ONE TUBE OF ORYL DENTAL CREAM. Your druggist has it or if not, he can get it for you by simply telephoning the wholesale house.

When you put balloon tires on a motor car it does not necessarily follow that you have a balloon-tired car.

It is primarily a matter of balance, spring suspension and steering.

The Spotlight of America—

is on New York!

SINGLE-HANDED, THE WORLD brought the Democratic National Convention to New York—for the first time in half a century. Beginning the last week in June, the eyes of the nation will be centred on the deliberations of a convention entrusted with the guidance of a great political party at a moment fraught with questions of vast national import.

Well-informed hotel men estimate that New York will entertain 250,000 visitors during the period of the Convention. Since THE WORLD brought them here, it is only natural to assume that THE WORLD will be their favored newspaper during their stay.

Already the effect of this gathering is reflected in the circulation of THE WORLD and THE EVENING WORLD. These two papers, available to the advertiser as desired under an interchangeable contract, offer an all-day service with a net circulation of

686,000 Copies Per Day*

At a Basic Rate of 17 Cents Per Line Per 100,000

The convention comes at a time when the average sales-graph makes its sharpest "dip" of the year. Advertisers, whether local or national, can turn this "dip" into a "peak" by a judicious use of space in THE WORLD and THE EVENING WORLD at this season. The effect will be national in scope; the investment local in character—a combination of influence and economy seldom offered the purchaser of newspaper lineage.

Any WORLD representative will be glad to outline the advertising possibilities of this opportunity.

ASK COUNCIL TO CHANGE S. WATER TO WACKER DRIVE

Streets Committee Also Wants Wilson Pier.

South Water street, when widened and double decked, will be known as Wacker Drive, in honor of Charles H. Wacker, president of the Chicago plan commission, if the council approves the change suggested yesterday by its local industries, streets and alleys committee.

The same committee will submit other ordinances to the council this afternoon—one repealing the measure by which Western avenue was changed to Woodrow Wilson road and other bestowing the name "Woodrow Wilson Pier" upon the Municipal pier.

And Wilson Drive.

Resolutions suggesting that the South Park board designate its proposed outer drive from Twenty-third street to the pier as Woodrow Wilson Drive will be introduced.

"Every village which has a town pump has a Water street," declared former Alderman A. A. McCormick, "and I have come here to urge you aldermen to give this great new improvement a name that will mean something. I want to see Mr. Wacker honored while he is still alive."

Smyth Only Objector.

James Simpson, president of Marshall, Field & Co., one of the first to urge the change from South Water street to Wacker Drive and who has attended a number of the committee's meetings recently, was present again yesterday. Only one objector to the plan was heard, Thomas A. Smyth, former president of the sanitary district.

"When the city was only a village, South and North Water streets were its main streets," declared Mr. Smyth. "These names are intwined with Chicago's development and, while I feel that Mr. Wacker should be honored, I favor naming a park or playground after him, and leaving the name of South Water street unchanged."

HECKLE PARENTS GIVING SUPPORT TO JUNIOR HIGHS

Le Moyne School Protest Finally Voted.

Parents attending a massmeeting at the Le Moyne school last night were hissed and heckled by the audience when they indicated they might favor converting the Le Moyne school to a junior high school next fall.

At times the meeting became so boisterous and disorderly that Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], the chairman, had difficulty in maintaining order. He was forced to interrupt speakers from the floor to quiet heckling and prevent a broadside of questions that were shouted from the audience.

Vote to Protest.

In the end the majority of the 650 present voted to send a delegation to President Moderwell of the board of education to protest the conversion of the Le Moyne school to a junior high. While the school has not been officially designated for a junior high by the board, Ald. Nelson told the audience it had been reported it was being considered.

In voting against the resolution one man rose and said such a vote was evidence of selfishness. His remarks were greeted with hisses and jeers.

Another said that if the junior high was a progressive movement the parents ought to be willing to make some sacrifice, as their children would benefit later on. Chairman Nelson asked the man to come to the platform, but as soon as he uttered a few words for the system he was greeted with a storm of protests that did not subside for nearly ten minutes.

Nelson Attacks Board.

Ald. Nelson charged the board with secrecy and withholding publication of the location of the junior schools. He also said the board was in too much of a hurry in starting the system.

Why tolerate insect pests? They destroy food, spread disease and make life miserable for people, poultry, pets and plants. Slay them without mercy. It's easy to do. A few shots from the Hofstra gun and it's 'good-bye bugs.' No odor, muss or fuss if you get the genuine—

Mysterious Power in the CHEMICAL FORMULA

Hofstra is a scientific improvement over other non-poisonous powders or liquids. It has all the virtue of pure, full strength powder, plus a secret chemical formula that multiplies its killing power. Nothing else like it.

A PARTICULAR KIND OF CAR
◇ FOR PARTICULAR PEOPLE ◇

Ask any Wills Sainte Claire owner why he is so uncompromisingly "sold" on his car, and in every instance he will tell you, in substance, THIS:

"Because I can do things with it that I was never able to do with any other car.

"Because driving it is not the slightest exertion.

"Because it handles as easy as the smallest car and has all the road comfort of the biggest.

"Because I never have any serious mechanical trouble —it is practically never in a repair shop; and when it does need minor mechanical attention, it is back on duty in no time."

Then he will go on to tell you about how easy it is to get at—how the valves and cams are right on top where they can be got at instantly. He will make a point of the outstanding fact that the Wills Sainte Claire motor is exceedingly simple and accessible. And he will conclude by telling you that he has about forgotten what a repair bill looks like.

Of course, these words of praise are merely the echo of Wills Sainte Claire advanced engineering.

Molybdenum, the most athletic of all alloy steels, is the basis of Wills Sainte Claire construction. This makes the car lighter and more alert, and consequently more delightful to handle. Incidentally, it explains why the car is so seldom in a repair shop.

The Wills Sainte Claire sixty degree, eight cylinder, aviation type engine probably develops more power in proportion to car weight than any engine ever known. Consequently the Wills Sainte Claire owner gets the jump on other cars in traffic and forgets there is such a thing as a hill.

Balloon tires, balanced like the flywheel of a watch, combine with Wills Sainte Claire hydraulic four-wheel brakes to give a most unusual feeling of absolute security and safety—skidding in a Wills Sainte Claire is practically impossible.

Finally, no man can resist the temptation to make his family happy, and a Wills Sainte Claire family is notably a care-free family—a proud group of happy possessors.

They swear by their car. They like the keen, covert looks of admiration they see shot at them from the crowded sidewalks and from the windows of other cars—the quick ejaculation "Look! Another Wills Sainte Claire!"

You can't understand Wills Sainte Claire's firm grip on its owners till you first understand the car itself.

Learn this most discussed car—FIRST HAND.

Drive it yourself so you will really know just what a Wills Sainte Claire is like.

By James French Dorrance

Blue Ribbon Fiction

SYNOPSIS.

In a customs shanty in the Mex.-Ariz. border, Theodore Talcott is preparing his resignation from government service when Ruth Burton, known to him as "Flame" Burton when they attended the University of Arizona together, rides up to inquire about passports. She tells Talcott she is the owner of Broken Arrow ranch and because of the drought she wishes to drive her herd into Mexico.

INSTALLMENT III.

THE MIRACLE.

Talcott did not report this warning to Flame, but he was impressed by it. The girl herself would be a greater temptation than any number of American steers; her presence would put the drive of "feeders" into the extra hazardous class. As they brushed stirrups on the easy going of the old time trail, he entered inquiry as to the possibility of her trusting the expedition to the men of her outfit.

Cheered by the success of her mission to the border, confidence in her trailmate established in advance through the college friendship interrupted but not forgotten, Flame detailed the situation without reserve.

Broken Arrow ranch had been established by David Burton, her father, away back in the Apache days. Its name—symbol of Indian peace—indicated that. It divided a wonderful range with the Cacti ranch, founded at about the same time by Rupert Hales, then her father's closest friend.

In the first flush of peace and prosperity that friendship had split upon the reef of a beautiful woman—Flame's mother. Both had made suit for her hand, and Burton had been favored. Although Hales had married another almost at once, he never had forgiven Dave Burton. For years the two ranches had been openly hostile, all courtesies of the range discarded and the outfits not speaking. Of late years, however, advancing civilization had commanded outward peace.

Flame's mother had died when she was a child, and within a year a last great sorrow had come to her. Trampled and tossed by an angry bull, Dave Burton had died in her arms just outside the corral of ill fate. His last admonition had been that, come what might, she never sell the ranch to "Cacti" Hales. This she had solemnly promised.

"Just what do you mean by a girl like me?"

Then had come the prevailing drouth. For the first time in the ranch's history Lost and Found creek, one of those up and under, here and there streams that are the aggravation of the southwest, had lived up to the first section of its name. While still "Found" on the Cacti ranch, it was literally and utterly "Lost" on Broken Arrow. As the creek was their principal water supply in summer, its failure, when the range was burning up, necessitated quick relief for her stock. If she did not find it—force it—her herds would perish miserably and the ranch itself be lost to her. Some problem for a girl who just had undertaken ranch management, wasn't it?

"You spoke of mortal miracle," Talcott reminded her. "What's the miracle and who's the mortal?"

She did not answer at once, while a frown tried but failed to mar her comeliness.

"In that part of the creek which still shows on the Cacti, there is water enough for all our cattle, and there's grass a-plenty on its reaches to carry both herds through," she said at last. "The man who can perform the miracle of sharing this with me and my reds is Dudley Hales, the only son of my father's life enemy. Either he will or he won't. I should find my answer when I get back to the ranch tomorrow afternoon."

"Decent sort of chap, this Dudley?"

"Once I thought——" Flame began, but clipped the sentence. "I'd rather not speak of him, Theo."

Talcott did not press the inquiry, but he had a hunch that if their trails ever crossed, he'd find that he didn't cotton to Dudley Hales.

"Youre not alone at the ranch?" he asked.

Flame was not. Her father's sister, Aunt Emma, and the aunt's husband, Amos Throckmorton, lived with her. Uncle Amos in her father's time had held the title of foreman, and she had not taken it from him.

"Why can't your uncle take the stock into Sonora for you, Flame?" he suggested. "It's a wild country—no place for a girl like you."

There came pronto one of the flares for which Ruth Burton was somewhat remarkable.

"Just what do you mean by—girl like me?" she demanded crisply.

It was difficult to tell her that she was too lovely to be risked in the wilds of an unsettled state, where men were more or less primitive and their emotions off-leash. He realized that his tongue tangled over it; was not surprised when she checked him with decision.

"We'll not discuss my staying home, please. My brand may be a broken arrow, but that does not signify that I'm an easily broken reed. They're my cattle and where they must go I'll go in spite of—in spite of my alleged good looks."

She was magnificent in her determination. Surely there was prompt sorrow in store for any one who did not treat her with respect.

"And there will I go also," Talcott declared fervently. "I'm your puncher, Flame, even if I have to buy the government a self-starter for its red tape measure."

Flame Burton would be a problem in the green heart of Sonora, but from that moment she was his problem.

The shadows were settling on Broken Arrow ranch the next afternoon when Flame Burton crossed the last dry arroyo and rode down into the abras where nestled her main establishment. To the east showed the zigzag profile of the Boboquivari range, jagged as a flash of lightning in the light of the departing sun. But her eyes were not for its bronze beauty.

From the Indian agency, where she had spent the night with the agent's wife, a classmate, the ride had been long, dry, and dusty. She was tired—so tired that she had ceased to wonder whether Dudley Hales had answered her plea for grass and water. But she could not escape the bawling complaints of the cattle, for they were all about her, having been driven in from the outer ranges to share the scanty supply of water which the windmills of the home ranch managed to pump from deep sunk wells.

Already the beasts were showing the effect of short feed and insufficient moisture. Even on the banks of the tricky Lost and Found creek, which should normally have been the shade of a priceless emerald, the dry grass had a whitish hue. The depression of drought showed everywhere; in the parched air she breathed it.

At the corrals she turned her worn mustang to a wrangler, and headed for the rambling adobe house that was her birthplace. Her steps were a bit uncertain at first from saddle cramp. Then, to lend forgetfulness to physical ails, she saw her uncle coming from the house, hatless, hurrying.

A short man was Amos Throckmorton, and stout, but normally lacking that joviality which generally is associated with avoirdupois. She was surprised, therefore, to see him wearing an expansive grin.

"Hail, hail, the gang's all here!"

His shouted welcome was most unexpected, both the tone and wording of it utterly foreign to Uncle Amos. Something extraordinary must have happened to disturb him from his habitual grouch.

"Yo ho, ho and a bottle of rum!" he called as they drew nearer. "You're back just in time, Ruth."

Except that Throckmorton was an ardent teetotaler, she must have suspected unwonted indulgence. The possibility of sunstroke's aftermath occurred to her, yet he looked in his usual health.

"Back in time for supper, I hope," she answered, willing to humor his strange mood.

"In time not to miss Dud Hales. Emma's entertaining him in the living room and he's going to stay for supper."

This was indeed a departure. Never in all her remembrance had a Hales broken bread at a Burton table, or vice versa. That such an invitation had been extended and accepted must mean—could mean only one thing. But she had to be sure.

Amos' head wobbled the most decided affirmative that his short neck would permit.

"Dudley has come across like a prince," he amplified, falling into step. "He's saved the day for Broken Arrow and many a thousand for the fairest of the Burtons."

A profound sigh escaped her. "Then the day of miracles has not forever passed!" She breathed the exclamation.

Flame's knees were shaking under her as she walked. Until that moment she had not realized the completeness of her disbelief in any help from that unlikely quarter. This sudden reversal was weakening in its vast relief. Particularly did she rejoice for her stock, the horses as well as the cattle, for they would now be spared the killing drive into the unknown. Her negotiations with the Del Diablo people had been unnecessary; her hard ride to the border in vain. Next second, however, she amended this last. Not entirely in vain the Pajarito visit, since she had crossed trails again with Theo Talcott!

Good morning!

We've all heard it and I guess we've all learned that's it's one that gets down to brass tacks. After all, though, in a lot of cases, it's something to have danced, isn't it? [Not in the picture under discussion, however].

Here we have bootlegging at its leggiest. Wise old owls at the game "frame" ardent youth. A girl is killed in an automobile smashup. Her brother decides to devote the rest of his life to wiping out the scourge that has taken her from him. [Warner Baxter].

A young chap has "the goods" "planted" on him when a crime is discovered. His sister, impersonated by Blanche Sweet, starts forth with the same end in view.

Warring sister, bereaved and determined brother meet. They stop at nothing in order to win the confidence of the sinners. That they succeed, finally, is a foregone conclusion. You should see the damning evidence pile up under their careful nursing.

While "Those Who Dance" is by no means "Anna Christie," it is a photoplay that gives Blanche Sweet a chance to prove again what a splendid actress she is. Her leading man is good and I don't believe the supporting cast could have been much better chosen.

With Lambert Hillyer at the megaphone, a corps of trained camera men photographing for all they're worth—and folks DO say that a good camera man gets a lot of money—and subtitles that are at least fairly convincing, "Those Who Dance" gets across big—as per ye old vaudeville brag.

See you tomorrow!

CLOSEUPS

Rod La Rocque says the movie folks started the rage for blue collars and shirts. Because blue photographs better than does white. Of course, yellow is a "prop" that no well educated studio attempts to get away with nowadays. The blue has just been added in case the yellow runs out.

Charles Ray announces that he's mighty glad to return to his "American Boy" characterizations, because he thinks they're true to life and really give foreigners an idea of our small town young chap who doesn't know—according to the Ray picturizations—just what to do with his hands or feet or grin, in emergency.

You'll see the danger braving coast guard immortalized for the first time in "The Fire Patrol." Anna Q. Nilsson, Madge Bellamy, Helen Jerome Eddy and Johnny Harron will have the leads.

Farewell Banquet Given for Bishop Nicholson

A farewell banquet was given Bishop and Mrs. Thomas Nicholson last night at the Hotel La Salle by the Swedish Methodists of Chicago, prior to their departure for their future home in Detroit. They will return to Chicago for two other farewell banquets. Mrs. Nicholson, who is world president of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, will be given a farewell by the women at the Congress hotel on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and next Monday evening all the Methodists of Chicago will unite in a banquet at the Drake.

Resolutions of appreciation were read by the Rev. Eric P. Swan and addresses were made by the Rev. C. G. Wallenius, for the ministry, and by Dr. Axel Benson, a physician, in behalf of the laity. The Rev. W. C. Bloomquist presided.

World Rotary Clubs Get Big Welcome in Toronto

TORONTO, June 17.—[United Press]—In their huge convention hall with the flags of all nations fluttering from the roof, thousands of Rotarian delegates met today in the first official session of the convention. A battery of loud speakers suspended over the platform transmitted every address with complete clearness.

The Rev. E. Leslie Pidgeon of Winnipeg, a past president, opened the session with an invocation and the Glee club under Dr. Fricker led the Toronto club in a song of welcome.

Frank H. Littlefield, immediate past president of the local organization, then welcomed the convention to Toronto.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Victor Tiede, 109 Cherry street, Neenah, Wis., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Would La Follette have a chance of winning the presidency if he ran on an independent ticket?

Where Asked.

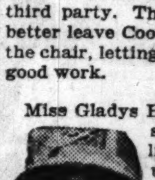
Clark street at Chicago avenue.

The Answers.

Harry Lascelles Burnette, 8 East Chicago avenue, author—Tell me who the Democratic nominee will be and I could answer more definitely. I believe La Follette would give them a hard battle. I think the time is ripe for just such a man as La Follette.

Mrs. Joanne Hagerty, 102 East Chestnut street, housewife—If everybody felt the way I do about it, he wouldn't win on any kind of a ticket. Both here and in Milwaukee I have heard too much about his dealings to want to see him President. The war spoiled his chances.

Charles Harburda, 116 West Ontario street, rug man—La Follette on a third party ticket would make an awful crash, but I think it would hurt the other two parties more than it would help the third party. They had better leave Coolidge in the chair, letting him go ahead with his good work.



Miss Gladys Baron, 807 North Clark street, millinery—Not likely. He's not so popular except in a certain section of the country, and this is a big country. He is all right, but for some reason I wouldn't like to see him become President of the United States.

Bert Slater, 803 North La Salle street, tool maker—As I understand it, if I say no you will want to know the reason. Well, I don't think he can be elected; I don't believe he would make even a good showing. It would just be a repetition of what happened when Roosevelt swung away.

THEATERS

Rudolph Lothar, author of many a German play and libretto, is in town for a first look at his "The Werewolf" in Miss Gladys Unger's English version and Miss Laura Hope Crews' fine performance in the principal part. . . . Doctor Lothar tells that he has completed and placed for production here a comedy called "The Talking Shoe."

A bulletin from the literary bureau of "Aritists and Models" brings the information that Harry Kelly, a comic fellow of the proceedings, will celebrate tomorrow the twenty-fifth anniversary of his first appearance on the stage. . . . An available scrapbook records that Mr. Kelly was acting in 1890 in a farce called "U. & I." with Gus Williams and John T. Kelly; and, after all, nine years don't matter much.

Lester Bryant, who asked for yesterday's announcement that Harry Mestayer had been engaged for "The Amber Fluid," asks for today's announcement that Mr. Mestayer has not been engaged for "The Amber Fluid." . . . And, so, that's another bit of news, and another mention for Mr. Mestayer.

Milton Nobles, Edgar Selden, and Robert Pateman died within the last week. . . . Mr. Nobles was a popular author-actor in the long-ago, and in one of his plays, "The Phœnix," put into circulation the comic catchphrase, "And the villain still pursued her." He had since 1920 been acting the title rôle of "Lightnin'" in cities not in the itinerary of the late Frank Bacon. . . . Mr. Selden, too, was actor and author: his best-known play was "McKenna's Flirtation," in which the famed Barry and Fay were stars. He toured for a time in a Chauncey-O piece of his making called "Will-o'-the-Wisp." . . . Mr. Pateman, an English actor of distinction, played with Edwin Booth in this country, and came back years later to act with Miss Olga Nethersole, Charles Hawtrey in "A Message from Mars," and Edward Terry.

Tom Lewis, whom George M. Cohan lifted from a minor rating in the two-a-day to immense popularity with a series of rich rôles, is added to the list of comic men in the Ziegfeld Follies. . . . Miss Anita Elson, a dancer imported from London for the annual, is said to have changed her mind about appearing in it. . . Tonight brings the première in Atlantic City.

Miss Fanny Brice is said to be priced at $3,000 weekly in the varieties, where she is to spend July and August, and to be asking $2,500 as wage if she go into the next Music-Box Revue.

Martin Flavin, the Chicagoan who wrote "Children of the Moon," is soon to have a new one, "Service for Two," tried out in Boston.

"Chains," acted in Chicago a year ago by Miss Helen Gahagan, is to be done in London under the title of "Morals."

"Saint Joan" is to be taken off in New York on the 28th, when it will have had a run of 215 performances—a record for one of Shaw's plays in this country.

Pasteur Monument Plans Postponed Until Autumn

Plans under consideration for the erection of a monument in one of Chicago's parks to the memory of Pasteur, the eminent French physician and scientist, have been deferred until fall, it was anounced yesterday following a conference of backers of the move in the rooms of the Alliance Française in the Fine Arts building. Absence from the city of many sponsors of the plan was given as the reason for the delay in completing arrangements for the launching of a city wide campaign for funds.

Million Dollar Pearls Bought for Chicagoan

Society Speculates Avidly on Probable Owner.

Who was the wealthy Chicago society woman who, strolling through the palace of the Louvre, gazed upon the superb Thiers necklace of pearls and straightway lost her heart to the matchless beauty of its satiny luster?

The identity of the future possessor of the necklace, composed of three strands containing 145 pearls and weighing 2,136.94 grains, is a closely guarded secret of Lebolt & Co., Chicago jewelers. This firm purchased the necklace at a recent auction and has announced the purpose of bringing it to Chicago, possibly within a few weeks.

But out of the maze of society gossip that arose when the purchase became known came what was purported to be the true story of how a Chicago woman may be the eventual owner of one of the world's best known strings of pearls.

As the story goes, a Chicago woman, the wealth of whose family is rated in the millions, so far succumbed to the lure of the famous ornament that she set about acquiring it.

Upon her return to Chicago she confided to officials of Lebolt & Co. her desire to own the pearls, it is said, and was promised every coöperation possible in fulfilling this desire.

So when it became known that the string, once worn by Mme. Thiers, wife of the first president of France, would soon be put up at public auction, Nathan N. Lebolt, one of the firm's partners, hurried forthwith to Paris in the assurance that he would have at least one probable purchaser in Chicago should he succeed in capturing the pearls.

Through Lopez Teragoya, a Spanish pearl merchant, Mr. Lebolt bid in the string for $650,000. French law demands a necklace be sold not as a historic relic but as precious stones. This will necessitate payment of duty and taxes aggregating nearly $500,000, bringing the American valuation of the string to well over $1,000,000.

Various "guesses" as to the identity of the prospective purchaser include Ganna Walska, wife of Harold F. McCormick, and Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, said to have been considering buying the pearls as a birthday present de luxe for Miss Muriel McCormick.

Meanwhile J. Y. Lebolt, of the Lebolt company refuses to drop a hint as to who the new owner will be. He said Nathan Lebolt sails for America on the Leviathan on June 24, and intimated the mystery might be cleared upon his arrival.

President Thiers purchased the pearls as a gift for his wife for $50,000, the sum being considered an enormous amount at the time. The string formed part of a collection of jewels presented to the Louvre by Mme. Thiers more than forty years ago.

SENTENCE SERMONS—By the REV. ROY L. SMITH

Success Is Still—

—Operated on the pay-as-you-go plan.
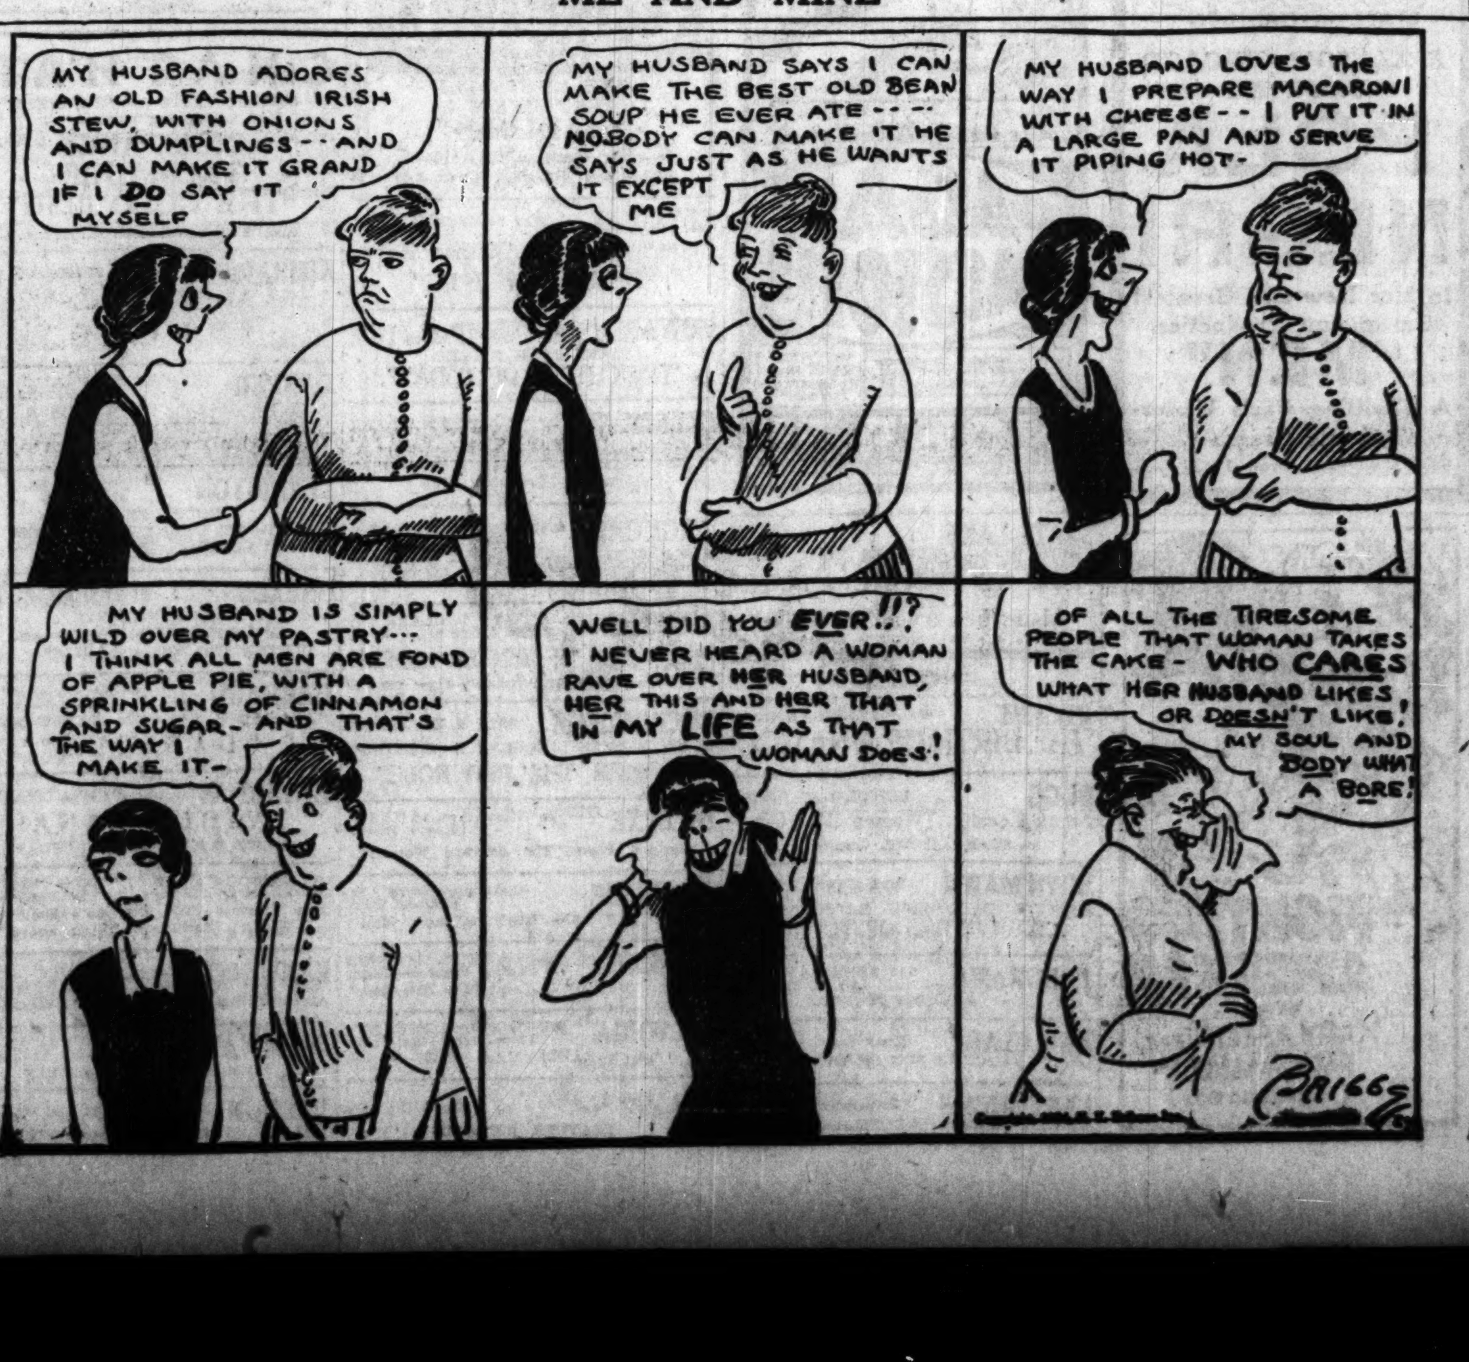
—Less a matter of luck than of preparation.
—Waiting for the man who will heal one of the world's hurts.
—The favorite child of Industry and Intelligence.

ME AND MINE



MY HUSBAND ADORES AN OLD FASHION IRISH STEW, WITH ONIONS AND DUMPLINGS - - AND I CAN MAKE IT GRAND IF I DO SAY IT MYSELF
MY HUSBAND SAYS I CAN MAKE THE BEST OLD BEAN SOUP HE EVER ATE - - - - NOBODY CAN MAKE IT HE SAYS JUST AS HE WANTS IT EXCEPT ME
MY HUSBAND LOVES THE WAY I PREPARE MACARONI WITH CHEESE - - I PUT IT IN A LARGE PAN AND SERVE IT PIPING HOT-
MY HUSBAND IS SIMPLY WILD OVER MY PASTRY--- I THINK ALL MEN ARE FOND OF APPLE PIE, WITH A SPRINKLING OF CINNAMON AND SUGAR- AND THAT'S THE WAY I MAKE IT-
WELL DID YOU EVER!!? I NEVER HEARD A WOMAN RAVE OVER HER HUSBAND, HER THIS AND HER THAT IN MY LIFE AS THAT WOMAN DOES!
OF ALL THE TIRESOME PEOPLE THAT WOMAN TAKES THE CAKE- WHO CARES WHAT HER HUSBAND LIKES OR DOESN'T LIKE! MY SOUL AND BODY WHAT A BORE!

Men's Fashions

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Different from Most.

New York.—[Special Correspondence].—If you are feeling reckless this summer, and don't care how much you pay to have the privilege of wearing one of the most striped suits that will be seen on any beach, you may be interested in the suit we saw at a shop the other day, the trunks of which are here illustrated. The suit was expensive, but worth the price, as it was partly of silk and well made. The trunks matched the shirt, differing from the regular two piece suit that is popular this year, of which the shirt is striped and the trunks plain.

Fashionotes.

A reader asks us for information regarding the correct socks to be worn with tan oxfords and a blue suit, and with black oxfords and a gray suit.

We suggest with the blue suit and tan oxfords, either black socks or some shade of blue, not too much lighter than the color of the suit, greenish mixture, heather mixture, brownish mixture, brown and white checked or other fancy socks using tan and brown, or tan and blue, or something on that order.

With the black oxfords and gray suit, the socks may be plain black, black and white checked, black and white striped, plain gray, gray mixtures, heather mixtures, dark blue, or fancy socks that do not contain brown.

Socks are quite gay these days, but for street wear one should not use the extremeful colorful ones. Fancy lisles, and light weight wool, are used to a great extent as well as the silk sock which is always recognized as correct.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Chinese Foods.

In a chow mein recipe now being widely distributed home made or German noodles are used, and also walnuts. The latter are given in the list of Chinese foods in "The Chinese Cook Book," and likewise almonds and chestnuts.

Some of the most easily secured Chinese things are crystallized ginger, Chinese teas, and preserved kumquats, but in the luxury food stores you can buy in glass Chinese bean sprouts, put up with water chestnuts and bamboo shoots, with full directions on how to use them for vegetables and with a recipe for chop suey. The Chinese soy sauce has sometimes the name "shoyu," and is sold in many places.

In a collection of nine recipes, typewritten, which came from the Chinese in San Francisco, there is one for "Sesman Seed Cakes" that any cook can adapt to her use: "Four cups of flour, one cup of lard, one and one-fourth cups sugar, one egg, one-half teaspoon baking powder. Mix and knead thoroughly. Take off in small pieces, the size of an almond, roll in smooth round balls, then in the sesman seeds until they are well covered. Bake on sheets one inch apart in a modrate oven to a golden brown.

"Note: Chinese almond cakes can be made from the same dough by taking off small pieces of the dough the size of an English walnut, roll in a smooth round ball in the palm of the hand or on a board, then flatten the ball of dough about half, make a depression on the top in the center, and place in it one almond. Place on baking sheets about two inches apart. Bake in a moderate oven to a golden brown."

Of course, butter or part butter could be used in this recipe.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

PHOEBE: ONCE IN TEN DAYS IS not too often to wash the hair when you are troubled with dandruff; in fact, it is most essential that you have the hair washed frequently. Be careful about keeping your comb and brush in a state of perfect cleanliness. Sixty grains of sulphur mixed with one ounce of vaseline and applied every other night to the scalp, with thorough massage, will be found quite helpful.

C. S. R.: LACK OF EXERCISE IS your trouble, dear. Now that you are confined during the day and where the air is not the best, you will have to arrange to get plenty of fresh air when off duty, so I would advise your taking long walks. Couldn't you arrange to walk at least part of the way to business in the morning, if not all the way? I shall be glad to send you Daily Exercises on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Deception Bared.

My most embarrassing moment occurred before my dentist. He is a nice young man and I had always tried to impress him. As he had often told me that my hair was pretty, I was always careful about dressing it whenever I had an appointment with him. My hair is rather thin and to put it up nicely I have to use false puffs over the ears. On this evening, when he had finished working, he unclasped the towel around my neck and pulled it off. There is a clasp on each end of the towel. One of them caught in my hair. He gave a little jerk and it came off—together with my "rat." We were both embarrassed as he handed it back to me and I rearranged my coiffure. I have never gone there since. M. M. S.

A Trip of the Tongue.

My most embarrassing moment occurred one day when a friend was introducing me to another friend of hers. "Miss G," she said "meet Miss L." In reply I stammered, "Measled to pleet you," instead of "pleased to meet you," to the huge amusement of all the auditors. I. G.

Notables of Golf and Society Seen at Glenview Play

BY PANDORA.

Glenview club proved a most attractive hostess (or is a golf club always masculine?) to the women who gathered there yesterday for the start of the three day medal play of the Women's Western Golf association. The clubhouse is a genial, comfortable place, and the course is, visually speaking, one of the loveliest in this part of the country. Its rolling slopes and great clumps of trees may be distracting to the players, but they are a delight to anyone who can just sit and watch.

Every one, of course, was agog for news of Glenna Collett, and disappointed to learn that she wasn't going to appear after all. Dorothy Higbie, whom she was to have visited, explained that Glenna had been playing in Cincinnati last week, and that as she was due in Buffalo for the invitation meet there on Monday, she felt she would have to forego the pleasure of her Chicago trip.

One of the first persons I saw was Mrs. David Gaut of Memphis, western champion of two years ago. She looked smart and efficient in her usual outfit of white and black, with a severely masculine collar and tie. She is spending the week with Mrs. Hathaway Watson of Winnetka, and her hostess dropped in for luncheon at the club with Mrs. Gaut, Miss Higbie, and Mrs. S. L. Reinhart (Elaine Rosenthal), who came from Texas for the tournament.

Mrs. C. A. Klotz and Dorothy played in the match, and I also noticed little Virginia Wilson coming in from her eighteen hole round. She made a name for herself last year when she defeated Mrs. Gaut in the Women's Western, and is keeping steadily and enthusiastically at the game.

By the way, Miss Carrie Kuhnert seems to be setting a new style in golfing sweaters. Hers was white, the prevailing choice this season, with a high collar, about which she had bound a yellow plaid tie. The effect was really awfully good, and quite in keeping with the mannish tone of sports clothes this summer.

Day's News in Society

The Service club has chosen Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7 and 8, as the time for its annual musical comedy, and Aryan Grotto as the place to stage the show with which they hope to duplicate last year's success, "Tell Tales." Charles S. Morgan Jr., who has again been selected as coach, was in Chicago recently, going over plays with the committee and organizing the preliminary work. The last meeting of the season was held at the Woman's Athletic club on Monday, but the selection of the play and plans for it will be carried on through the summer, according to Mrs. Francis R. Blossom, who succeeds Mrs. Robert S. Hotz, now president, as publicity chairman.

The Service club play is always one of the most important of society's charitable events, and this year with the talent to be gleaned from nearly a hundred debutantes next fall, it promises to be of unusual merit.

Mrs. Alexander MacTavish, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan of 1415 Dearborn parkway, has returned to Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Forgan will depart early in June for Harbor Point, Mich., to spend the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Alvin C. McCord of 1532 North State street and her daughter, Miss Marjorie McCord, sailed recently for Europe to spend the summer in travel. They are now touring in England. Miss McCord will make no plans for her marriage to Judson P. Phillips of New York until her return.

Miss Briar Louise Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Doren Wright of 76 East Elm street, will be a debutante of next fall, although no date has been announced for her introduction to society. Mr. Wright is returning today from Saranac Lake where he left Mrs. Wright and their three daughters to remain until the latter part of September.

Mrs. Lon C. Hill of Harlingen, Tex., who arrived in May with her two children, Georgiana and Lon C. Jr., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Knox Owlsey, at their Winnetka residence, is spending a few weeks in the east, attending her class reunion at Smith college and visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne of 1046 Lake Shore drive and their daughters, Laura and Narcissa, went directly from Camden, S. C., where they spent the late winter and spring, to Hyannisport, Mass., where they have taken a house for the summer season.

Funny Thing, Human Nature—It Never Seems to Change

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Can a man out of his normal senses be held responsible for his love making?

A jury in the Supreme court is called upon to answer this perplexing problem. The case is one in which a woman of 35 demands $100,000 damages from a wealthy manufacturer, given to periods of despondency we should hardly call it, nor melancholia—discretionary forgetfulness, let us say. The defendant himself called the term, during which he is accused of having proposed, one of his periods of insanity, which have been recurring off and on for a number of years.

The woman testified she thought he was sane when he begged her to become his wife. For additional proof, or something, she added: "He was adept at osculation."

At the time of writing this, the jury is still deliberating.

We wonder how twelve men and a judge, though each be wiser than Solomon, can render a decision to fit the case. It is not recorded that the man's osculatory adept-ability was demonstrated in court. Who knows but the crux of the decision rests right there? Who knows just where that fine hairline divides the sane from his senses in love? A world court decision might tell!

After twenty-one years of perfect bliss Andrew Layden and his wife, Kate, had their first quarrel the other day. It was disclosed in court that the fight began in the kitchen, continued through the dining room, the front parlor, down the stairs, and half-way down the block. Perhaps it would have gone on down to the sea if Patrolman Mullady had not interceded in time to save Andrew's second eye from blackening. The magistrate fined each $5 or five days in the workhouse. Andrew handed over his five to the clerk of the court. He refused to dole out a nickel for Kate, so she was sent to serve her five days.

"It'll do the old woman good to stay in jail for a while," he said. "No matter how long you have 'em they can't never learn to mind their own business."

After twenty-one years of perfect bliss you'd be inclined to think he'd have no business that wasn't hers, now, wouldn't you?

Adam and history keep on repeating themselves. One John Stanley, convicted as a shoplifter, told the court he had a quarrel with his wife and he stole to spite her. If caught, he said, he knew she would be able to divorce him. If successful, he declared, he would have given the dress he was caught slipping under his coat to her as a peace offering!

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Outdo the Rival.

"Dear Miss Blake: About two years ago I went out with a girl one year my junior. Through some misunderstanding we parted. I haven't been going out with a girl since. A week ago I felt so blue I called her up and made an appointment. I met her and she acted nice to me, but I found there is another fellow in the way. Please advise me what to do, as I love her dearly and don't want to give her up.
"BLUE BOY."

Blue boy, the best thing for you to do is to sidetrack the other young man—and if you like the girl sufficiently well you will have no trouble in doing it, I am sure. Smother her with attention, as 'twere, leaving no time open for your rival.

Age Doesn't Count.

"My Dear Miss Blake: I am keeping company with a young man a few years my junior. He asked me to marry him, but when I told him that I was a few years older than he he suddenly grew cold toward me. I love this young man very much and my heart is broken by his attitude. Won't you please tell me what to do?
"THEODORA."

I fear, Theodora, the boy's love was not the sort to make you happy, anyway. So why not just let him pass on and out of your life? You would not want to marry him now when you know now how he feels. The age condition would remain the same throughout life. And it is infinitely better to have him disclose his feelings now than after you were married, which would in all likelihood happen.

This coffee changed a nation's buying habit
WHEN Chase & Sanborn's Coffee was introduced sixty years ago, branded coffees in individual packages were unknown. In those days, coffee was sold in bulk from bins.
Seal Brand was the first coffee offered the public packed in pound tins. It was called for by name—Seal Brand—and year after year the quality was found to be always the same. It was a thoroughly dependable coffee then, just as it is to-day. Buy Chase & Sanborn's Seal Brand Coffee in the sealed tin.

Margaret and Charlotte were having a tea party. Virginia was much enthused, devouring the goodies on the table, when her grandfather walked in.

"Virginia, are you the guest?" he asked.

She looked up at him and said, "No, grandpa. I'm the eater. MRS. L. L."

"I took Bobby shopping with me and I was so interested in getting the things I had come after that I forgot it must be near the noon hour.

When I did think of it, I said: "Well, I wonder if it is lunch time?"

"I don't know," said Bobby, quickly, adding, "but my tummy struck 12 a long time ago." D. L.

White Crepe for Sports Designed by Callot

by Corinne Lowe

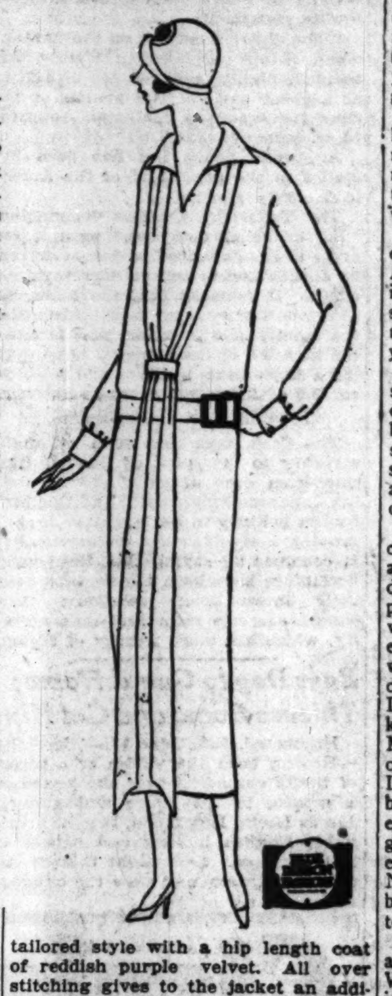
NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Nowadays we are not so limited as poor Bobby Shafto, who had no place to wear silver buckles except at his knees. We wear them almost anywhere else. The most obvious choices are on the hat or shoes. But the frock itself has almost infinite possibilities. One sees a small silver buckle on standing collars of a high neck black crepe frock or fastening a slip tie of the silk dress made with rolling collar. Then, too, it is used to clasp at the side a scarf collar which falls panelwise the full length of the skirt.

This ornament contributes to the costume what an underscore does to a word. And the word in fashions is smartness. It is, therefore, especially adapted to enhance the tailored frock or the semi-sports costume.

The model sketched has taken this advice to heart, and conforms to the absolutely simple line with a strictness worthy of the most austere silver buckle. Here it appears with surprising consistency on the belt itself—pushed far to the side to keep from reminding us of the way we wore it on a ribbon belt in 1898, straight in front where skirt met starched shirt waist.

Made of white silk crepe with full length scarf ends of self material, this model has the dashing simplicity of which only a great designer is capable. It is, in fact, by Callot. The frock illustrates the fact that white is still the leading favorite for the costume designed either for active or passive sports. Although this example has no whisper of red, many of the imported dresses are finished with a crimson belt or scarf.

A suggestion as to what sort of wrap to wear with this dress was offered by a New York house which combined a white crepe dress of similarly tailored style with a hip length coat of reddish purple velvet. All over stitching gives to the jacket an additional distinction to that of stunning line and finish.



ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Jerrems of 5314 Hyde Park boulevard, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marabel, to William Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sears of Charlevoix Mich. The announcement was made at a bridge party yesterday, given by Mrs. Jerrems for the bride-to-be. The wedding is to take place on October 16.

I. W. A. C. Changes By-Laws.

At a special meeting called yesterday, the by-laws of the Illinois Women's Athletic clubs were changed to admit two new classes of members, girls under 15 years, who must be sponsored by a relative; girls from 15 to 18, who must be sponsored each by three members. The campaign to bring the club's membership to 3,000 is still in progress.

Actress
Spent fortune to win beauty
By Edna Wallace Hopper
My mother was rich and ambitious. From my earliest years she urged me to enhance my beauty. She gave me her methods and formulas. Then she took me in a world-search for the newer beauty helps.

Most people know the results. I became a famous beauty, and for many years I remained the rage.
After 40 years in the limelight—after 35 years as a stage star—I still look a girl of 19. The thousands who see me daily know that, and wonder how this came about.
The chief reason lies in a new-type clay. I started years ago with the old-type clays, crude and muddy, which so many still employ. They brought me amazing results. But I have kept in touch with scientific progress, and in 20 years it has brought me a clay which gives multiplied results.
Today I have what experts call the last word in facial clay. It is white, refined and dainty. And it embodies many new discoveries. Until I obtained this, I never knew one-tenth what clay could do.
Now I am supplying this clay to others. I call it my White Youth Clay. All druggists and toilet counters have it—exactly the clay I use. And I am stating its results to girls who want more beauty and to women who want youth.
My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights. Many women seem to drop ten years with one application.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. No girl or woman who once enjoys its results will ever go without it.
I want you to know what it does. My good fortune obtained it for me. I was famous as a beauty, so every expert sought to give me the greatest aids to beauty. Now I wish to bring like benefits to millions.
I will mail you a test of my White Youth Clay if you will send the coupon. Please, for your own sake, do it now. It will be a revelation.

WORK DONE BY CONGRESS WINS RADICAL PRAISE

Organized Business Also Seems Satisfied.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—[Special.]—How the radical Republicans view the record of the recent session of congress, and what organized business thinks of it, were made known today in statements by spokesmen for the two groups.

Representative Nelson [Rep., Wis.], leader in the La Follette progressive bloc of the house, declared that congress made a record "unequaled for its resistance of the forces of evil in public life that sought special privilege in legislation." He asserted that congress also has taken "advance ground in promoting the public good."

Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in a letter sent to all members of the chamber reviewing the work of the session of congress said that there was much to criticize in its record. However, he said that in the final outcome there was cause for congratulation on the fact that a majority of congress had voted to sustain sound policies and had refused to embark on hazardous panaceas such as proposed amendments of the transportation act and the McNary-Haugen agricultural corporation bill.

See Progressives Reëlected.

Representative Nelson in his review of the congressional session said that the record of the progressive group in the house is such that not one member is fearful of defeat.

"Our success exceeded by far our hopes," said Representative Nelson. "We not only prevented reactionary legislation, we promoted many progressive measures.

"We are well aware that congress is being condemned by some well known spokesmen—in and out of the press—who represent the interests of big business. Gary of the United States Steel corporation, has declared that 'the worst thing we have is our American congress.' This remark by the head of the steel trust is regarded by progressives as highly complimentary. Had we received the approval of the steel trust we would have met with the disapproval of the people.

Calls It Best in 20 Years.

"Looking over a period of nearly 20 years of service in the house, it is my considerate conclusion that this congress excels all others in high character, not merely for the reason of its resisting well organized special interest propoganda of misrepresentation as to pending legislation, but more particularly because it has sought most zealously to get at the truth of things with reference to mismanagement and graft in the executive departments of the government, the like of which has not been surpassed in the entire history of the country."

Mr. Barnes in seeking the bright spots in the work of the session said that there is "much of encouragement to a faith in self government.

"Substantial tax relief has been offered, and while in the progressive effort to determine the fair point at which surtaxes will stimulate business and not discourage enterprise it is regrettable that the recommendations of very high ability and authority were not fully accepted, at least some progress on this point was made in the proper direction."

TOKIO, June 17.—The authorities and the leading daily newspapers are evincing an almost complete reversal of tone regarding anti-Americanism. Apparently alarmed by the strength of the agitation, which threatened to culminate in violence, those who started it are now vigorously applying the brakes.

The massmeeting at Yokohama on Sunday, which adopted a resolution not to sell silk to America, not to buy cotton from the United States, and to boycott vigorously American shipping, was followed yesterday by a stern order from the police announcing the speedy arrest and punishment for any one further agitating against America.

Calls Action Childish.

Chief of Police Ishii issued the following statement:

"The childish actions on the part of some of our countrymen merely impair the dignity and position of Japan as a great power. The present is no time for Japan to challenge America to an economic war."

A special police box has been installed in the compound of the American consul general.

The Tokio Chua, while denouncing "the crime of congress," says it regrets to see Japanese nationals driven by enthusiasm to acts of narrow mindednes. It remarks that the tendency to retaliate frivolously is quite beneath the dignity of a great nation. It cites the invasion of the Imperial hotel during a dance as an instance and the boycotting of American wares as another.

Sees Danger in Barbarism.

The Chua says that such action is contrary to the spirit of Bushido (the unwritten code of principles regulating Japanese knighthood) and this barbarism is likely to work against Japan, proving a disadvantage diplomatically. It conclues by saying that the people heretofore have been too nervous over their international relations; they should exercise calm and magnanimity, which are more worthy of Japan.

COLOMBIA COURT DIGS INTO DEALS WITH U. S. ON OIL

Fall and Lodge Named in Southern Hearings.

BOGOTA, June 17.—The publication in THE TRIBUNE of an article refuting the charges made by the senate investigation committee to the effect that American politicians have been influenced by the oil interests in connection with the Colombia treaty negotiations have caused a bitter political fight in Colombia.

Certain members of the Liberal party, who are opposed to the former and present government, made public charges against the government, especially against Senor Carlos Urueta, minister to the United States during the time of the treaty negotiations, accusing them of selling out to the oil interests.

Claim U. S. Pressure.

The Liberals contend that the Colombian Supreme court decision sustaining the oil rights acquired prior to 1874 was brought about by the pressure of the United States in the interest of American oil companies holding interests in Colombia.

The case in question follows an executive decree issued on June 20, 1919, which declared government ownership of all subsoil under whatever title. The United States contended that this decree was retroactive and confiscatory.

Demand for Guarantees.

Former Secretary of the Interior Fall and Senator Lodge demanded guarantees for the American interests against this act before the approval of the treaty. The suit was brought up in the Supreme court by Colombians, declaring that the law was unconstitutional, and their petition was sustained by a court decision on November 21, 1919.

The American holdings in Colombia were thus protected and the opposition in the United States senate to the treaty approval ceased. The Liberals contend that Minister Urueta was influenced by American oil interests, who in turn influenced the court decision.

To decide the issue, a tribunal of honor has been appointed by the contending parties to review diplomatic correspondence and other documents with the view of determining the facts in the case.

RHODE ISLAND SOLONS STAGE BATTLE ROYAL

Providence, R. I., June 17.—A riot followed an attempt today by Republicans to prevent Lieut. Gov. Toupin from presiding over today's session of the state senate. Men and women were trampled upon by the political combatants.

Republican and Democratic senators clashed with spectators taking sides in a free for all fist fight.

The Republican senators, backed up by deputy sheriffs assigned to duty by High Sheriff Jonathan Andrews, arrived early for today's session. The chamber and galleries were crowded. While Lieut. Gov. Toupin, a Democrat, was in the doorway of the senate lobby, Senator Arthur A. Sherman, Republican, mounted the rostrum and called the senate to order. Immediately the senate was in an uproar.

Amid the screams of women and the cheering of partisans word was sent to Gov. Flynn that a riot was in progress.

Meanwhile Sheriff Andrews took a place on the floor and succeeded in separating the combatants. Gov. Flynn pushed his way through the crowd, mounted the rostrum and cautioned the disturbers.

After a long conference between Gov. Flynn and various officials, the lieutenant governor regularly called the senate to order.

HUSKIES, BADGERS FINISH ONE-TWO IN 'KEEPSIE RACE

RUSTY DENIES CHANGE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 17.—Coach Rusty Callow of the Washington crews denied today reports that he was to go to Harvard as coach next season.

"The newspapers sent me to Harvard last year, too," he said. "There was as much truth in the story then as there is now. I have never even been approached by the Harvard rowing authorities."

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 17.—[Special.]—Washington was first in war, first in peace, and also first in the varsity race of the thirty-seventh annual Poughkeepsie regatta this afternoon.

For the second year in succession the huskie oarsmen of Coach "Rusty" Callow and the far northwest showed the stern of a fast moving boat to the best, barring Yale and the Navy, that the east and the middle west could summon for the occasion.

There was nothing about the victory that was not decisive. It was Washington, all Washington, from the start at Krum elbow to the finish, one mile below the railroad bridge. They defeated Wisconsin by two full lengths, Cornell by three and a half, Pennsylvania by five, and Syracuse by five and a half. Further down the course, a length behind Syracuse, came Columbia, limping in an unhappy and dispirited last.

Badgers Surprise East.

Pennsylvania surprised the 50,000 spectators of the Hudson river regatta by winning the junior varsity and freshman races, but the big upset of the afternoon was provided by Wisconsin.

Any small boy in Poughkeepsie could have told you that Washington would win, but not even the experts dreamed that Wisconsin, a green and untried crew, would steal second place from the representatives of the effete and now chagrined east.

Like Stanford in 1915, Wisconsin lost th erace but won the moral victory. "Rusty" Callow in victory probably does not feel any prouder than "Dad" Vail in defeat. For one thing, it was the first time since 1914 that a Wisconsin crew had appeared on the Hudson. For several years there was no crew at all at Madison, and what material did appear in the last few seasons was raw and inexperienced.

50,000 Cheer Badgers.

But today that discounted Wisconsin crew helped Washington make it a complete victory for the west. It was a tribute to a beaten but glorious crew when the 50,000 at the finish line stood and roared their delight as the men of "Dad" Vail slid out from beneath the railroad bridge, dug their blades a little harder and deeper into the water, and uncorked a tremendous spurt that caught Columbia, caught Pennsylvania, drove Cornell into the ground, and made second place safe for the middle west.

After the race the sun was in the west and so were all the precious rowing honors that belong to this classic varsity race. For the fourth straight year the west had either won or finished second. Also for the fourth straight year the first two places in the varsity event had gone to outside crews.

When the crews were sent away it was in perfect alignment, but Pennsylvania was not long in forging to the front and cutting out a pace that the others found too hot to follow.

Badgers Get Away Last.

Wisconsin was in the rear and still there when the crews reached the one mile post where Washington was going away with a rush and Pennsylvania, Cornell and Columbia were struggling for second place. The huskies settled the race then and there. They were going to win, they knew it, and so did all the spectators. Callow's eight, still rowing that grim, relentless 34 was eating up the water. It moved away from the field as if the other five were still tied to the stake boats, and in the first mile of that race the galahads from the west had helped themselves to a lead of a length and a quarter.

After that it was a battle for second place. Washington was going somewhere swiftly and earnestly, and that was that. But, further back, it was a different story. Four crews were putting up one of the prettiest fights that Poughkeepsie had ever seen. Columbia was only a quarter length back of Penn, with Cornell a half length to the rear of the New Yorkers, but at the mile and a half mark Columbia came up even and Cornell was so close behind that you could almost have spanned their bows with the same measuring rod.

Wisconsin Starts Big Drive.

With the bridge in plain sight and the two mile mark approaching, Wisconsin began its great drive. It was Stanford of 1915 all over again. Washington, now three and a half lengths ahead, wasn't in the same race with the others, but Wisconsin had just begun its big task. It passed Columbia, which had shot its bolt, like a limited passing a bicycle. Going under the railroad span the Badgers started out after Pennsylvania and Cornell, which had disposed of Columbia and were trying to kill each other off. In another few yards Wisconsin was even with the two of them. A few more strokes of the cardinal-tipped oars and the Badgers were ahead.

There they stayed. There was no chance to catch Washington, but the west battled the west to the limit. The huskies, rowing easily, saw their lead melt from three and a half lengths to two and a half.

"Go on, you Wisconsin," shouted the Washington substitutes and junior varsity oarsmen in the press car. "Go get that second place," and Wisconsin went and got it. The west stuck together today and out of the same boat house, where they were bunk mates, came the two big crews of the varsity race.

Triumph for Rice.

Penn's victory in the junior varsity was something of a personal triumph for Coach Jim Rice, who had the distinction of coaching two of the winning crews, even though the big race was not included in the list of triumphs. That the Quaker junior oarsmen rowed a winning race is evident from the time of 10:36 2-5 against Washington's 10:43.

Rice came back with his second victory of the afternoon when the Penn freshmen led Syracuse, Cornell and Columbia across the finish line in the order named. The crew, stroked by Billy Jordan, covered the two mile course in 10:22 3-5.

THE REGATTA FORM CHART

Crew.	Start.	½.	1.	1½.	2.	2½.	Finish.
Washington	1	1^{1}	1^{1}½	1^{2}½	1^{2}½	1^{2}	1^{2}½
Wisconsin	6	6½	5^{1}½	5½	3½	2½	2^{1}½
Cornell	5	5½	4½	4½	4½	3½	3^{1}½
Penn	2	2½	2½	2½	2½	4½	4½
Syracuse	3	3½	6	6	6	5½	5^{1}½
Columbia	4	4½	3½	3½	5½	6	6

Washington won in the slow time of 15 minutes and 2 seconds. This was almost a minute slower than the figures hung up by the same university in last year's race. Although the weather was perfect, with a hot sun overhead and only a gentle breeze blowing, the water was rough in the last mile and the breeze was coming up stream, driving into the backs of the oarsmen.

English Tennis Devotees Hope and Pray for Helen

BY DON SKENE.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, June 17.—Helen Wills, the American tennis champion, withdrew from the Roehampton tennis tournament today, spending the day with her mother quietly resting in preparation for tomorrow's opening battle of the American and British women's teams international match at Wimbledon.

The large crowd which flocked to see the California girl play a match scheduled for 4:30 was keenly disappointed and then alarmed by the assorted rumors and reports about the cause of her absence. Tournament officials first announced that Miss Wills was suffering from an attack of sciatica.

Helen Reported Injured.

Then it was rumored that Miss Wills had sprained an ankle during secret morning practice with a male player at Wimbledon.

The minds of the English tennis devotees who are all hoping and praying that the popular American girl will beat Suzanne Lenglen, the temperamental French star, were relieved when Mrs. Wightman, the captain of the American women's team, announced that:

"Helen just stayed at home, she never felt better in her life. She spent all morning in bed and is going to take a complete rest for tomorrow."

Helen Helps Club.

The officials then announced that Miss Wills was scratched. Friends of Miss Wills announced that she had not intended to play in the Roehampton tournament but played yesterday as a return courtesy for the club's granting her the use of its courts for practice last week. The American's appearance netted the club several hundred pounds sterling.

FOUR AMERICANS SURVIVE

ROEHAMPTON, June 17.—[By Associated Press.]—As a result of today's play in the Roehampton club's invitation tennis tournament, four American women only are the survivors in the upper half of the draw. They are Mrs. George Wightman, Miss Marion Z. Jessup, Miss Eleanor Goss, and Mrs. Molla B. Mallory.

The four American players reached their positions in the third round with comparative ease. Mrs. Wightman won from Mrs. Sterry, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Goss defeated Miss Maltby, 6—2, 6—3, and Mrs. Mallory defeated Miss Lillian Scharman, 6—2, 6—1.

LOTT ADVANCES TO 4TH ROUND

Buffalo, N. Y., June 17.—George Lott of Chicago, national junior champion, and Jack Castle, Buffalo, city champion, advanced to the fourth round in the play for the Great Lakes tennis championship today. They are in the lower half of the draw. Gerald Emmerson of Summit, N. J., who is in the upper half in which William T. Tilden II, national champion, is the probable victor, also entered the fourth round.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 17.—Playing almost perfect golf, W. H. Gardner of Buffalo, today eliminated Maxwell R. Marston, national amateur champion, from the Lynnewood Hall Cup Tournament at the Huntingdon Valley Country club in the second round, 4 and 3, thereby advancing to the semi-finals. Other semi-finalists are G. V. Rotan, Houstan, Tex.; Maurice Risley, Atlantic City, and D. C. Corkran, Philadelphia.

B. W. Mudge, Jr., of Chicago, gave Corkran a hard battle in the second round, the Philadelphian finally pulling out the victory 1 up.

WESTERN SKATE BODY THREATENS TO BOLT

New York, June 17.—Alleging unfair discrimination against Harry Kaskey of Chicago, a member of the American Olympic ice skating team, recently disqualified from amateur circles following charges of professionalism preferred against him by officials of the International Skating union, the Western Skating association, an auxiliary member of the I. S. U., threatens to bolt the union, Joseph K. Savage, president of the I. S. U., admitted today.

Kaskey, together with Joe Moore of New York, Duke Donovan of Johnson City, N. Y., and William Steinmetz of Chicago, were brought up on charges of demanding excessive expense moneys from skating officials at St. John, N. B. and Lake Placid, but the charges against the latter three were dismissed.

Henry Uihlein, of Lake Placid, vice president of the I. S. U., filed a separate affidavit against Kaskey, alleging that the Chicago skater demanded a loan of $250 at Lake Placid, threatening to withdraw from competition in the outdoor international championships, which he had entered, unless such a loan was forthcoming.

The loan was refused and Kaskey skated, but hi saction aroused the Lake Placid officials to such an extent that they preferred charges of professionalism against him. His disqualification resulted.

President Savage contends that a misrepresentation of the true facts of the case has caused the rupture between the I. S. U. and the Western association.

Indian Hill Player Paces Women's Western Golf Field

BY JOE DAVIS.

Honors in the first day's play of the three day medal play event of the Women's Western Golf association at the Glen View club yesterday went to Mrs. Howard V. O'Brien of Indian Hill. Her card of 41-44-85 was one stroke over par for the picturesque course, which was in wonderfully fine shape although a trifle on the slow side by reason of recent rain.

Mrs. S. L. Reinhart, formerly Miss Elaine Rosenthal, was second with 42-44-86, Mrs. Lee Mido of Butterfield, last year's winner, and Mrs. Dave Gaut of Memphis, western champion, two years ago, tying at 89.

Noted Stars Absent.

With the exception of the absence of Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, Mrs. Melvin Jones of Olympia, Miss Edith Cummings, the national champion, and Mrs. F. C. Letts Jr., former western champion, the cast was about as advertised, but the absence of these players, especially that of Miss Collett, lessened interest to some extent.

However, it looks like a close race although today's play will be different, as the rain overnight will undoubtedly favor the hitters with a long carry.

Mrs. O'Brien played excellent golf, having only one seven on her card, that being at the sixth hole, Old Hickory, 548 yards, which only a few of the contestants yesterday made in six.

Out	534	547	454—41
Par	545	546	464—43
In	546	646	446—44—85
Par	544	636	544—41—84

Mrs. Reinhart's card was:

Out	534	476	454—42

Mrs. Gaut Played Steadily.

Mrs. Gaut played steadily but marred her card with a big nine at the eighth hole, 470 yards, which is known as "Trouble." She made the last three holes in men's par, getting three fours. Mrs. Mida had a seven at the eighth hole, and have five sixes which took her score several shots over that of the leader.

Mrs. J. W. Taylor of Evanston came in with a 90, and Miss Virginia Wilson, who made a surprisingly good showing in the western women's championship last year, again demonstrated she is destined to climb higher. Her card was 81. The players are divided into four classes, the first flighers being those with handicaps of from 1 to 6.

New pairings have been made for today.

Scores for First Round.

The scores of the first round follow:

Mrs. Howard V. O'Brien, Indian Hill	41	44	85

Chicago Rooters Leave Tomorrow for Olympics

Chicago will be represented by a group of more than 200 college men and women spectators at the Olympic games this summer. This crowd of Chicago "rooters" will leave the city tomorrow for Montreal, Canada, where it will embark for France on the steamship "Regina." Arrangements for the trip were made by E. B. Hubbell.

BIG TEN GOLFERS IN TOURNEY HERE TODAY

Nine of the ten western conference universities will be represented in the western intercollegiate team and individual golf championships which will start this morning at 9 o'clock at the Briergate Golf club.

The team event at thirty-six holes will include the qualifying round for the individual title for which sixteen will qualify for the match play rounds on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Illinois, which won the team and individual title last year, is favorite to repeat, having three exceptionally strong players in Capt. Rial E. Rolfe, George Dawson, and John Humphreys, with Dee Hunt as the fourth man. The Illini won all their dual matches this spring.

Chicago will be well represented by Kenny Heisert, former western junior champion; Solly Miller, Charles Windette, and Bob Dorsey.

Relays of caddies will be on hand bright and early this morning to await the coming of the marathon golfers, who will compete in the second annual seventy-two hole tournament of the Olympia Fields Country club. It is the only private club in the world capable of staging such an event over four different courses.

Among the entries are Bill Rautenbush of Briergate, who won the event last year, Walter Crowdus of Dixmoor, Carl B. Devol, the Green Valley veteran; Bob White of Olympia Fields, Ted Lloyd of Jackson Park, M. Moran of Beverly, Glen Clarke of Green Valley, and F. C. Fletcher of Toledo.

Contestant in the eighteenth annual tournament of the Chicago Lumbermen's Golf association at the Beverly Country club today will total approximately 150, a number coming from all parts of the state. The championship gold medal is the main prize, Ike W. Lincoln of Flossmoor being the present titleholder.

The Chicago Dental Golf club will stage its June tournament today at the Butterfield club, when the qualifying round for the Frame and Ritter cups will be staged.

A field of over 200 players will compete in the annual Hullabaloo tournament of the Bob o' Link club, which will start this morning at 9:30. The annual dinner will be held tonight.

Parker High Girls Beat Senn for City Net Title

Parker High school girls' tennis team yesterday won the city championship by defeating Senn, 3 to 0, in the final match of the year at the South Side Tennis club. The South section players had little trouble in winning both singles matches and the doubles contest: Summaries:

DOUBLES—Taylor and Ruden, Parker, beat Munkhauser and Wahlin, Senn, 6—3, 6—3.

SCHURZ BEGINS DRILL FOR GAME WITH NEW YORK

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.

Following its victory of Monday over McKinley and the winning of the Chicago High School league championship, the Schurz High nine yesterday started practice for the intercity championship game with Evander Childs High, the New York titleholders. The intercity title contest will be fought out next Monday at the Cubs' ball park, starting at 2:30 p. m.

The contest between the prep champions of the two largest cities in the country is being staged under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE and the public schools athletic leagues of New York City and Chicago. The game is strictly a civic enterprise and half of the net profits will be divided between the contestants while the other half will be held in escrow by THE TRIBUNE for the further promotion of intercity sport.

Team Here Sunday.

The New York boys will arrive next Sunday morning over the Pennsylvania railroad on the Broadway limited. Fourteen ball players in charge of L. M. Patterson, inspector of athletics of the New York public schools, together with the coach and trainer of the team, Superintendent of schools William J. O'Shea, George W. Ryan, president of the New York board of education, and Assistant Superintendent of Schools Harold G. Campbell, will make up the party. They will be quartered at the Webster hotel.

The Schurz nine is a fit representative of the Chicago High schools for the big game. Schurz has scored a great record in their baseball season and should put up a great game against the New Yorkers. Coach Bob Koehler of Schurz and his first assistant, Dunne Annan, the former a star of Northwestern university a few years back and the latter a University of Chicago athlete, have a few rough spots in their team's play to smooth over.

Tickets on Sale Tomorrow.

Tickets for the game will be placed on sale tomorrow. Box seats are 75 cents, grand stand 50 cents, while the bleachers will sell for 15 cents. A batch of the box seat tickets will be placed on sale starting tomorrow morning at the public service bureau of THE TRIBUNE at 11 South Dearborn street.

PURPLE TENNIS LETTERS TO 3

Since the Northwestern tennis team during the resent season made the best record of any Purple net squad in several years, the following three men have been awarded letters: Capt. John Schmidt, Capt.-elect William Sherrill, and Durand Smith. Other men who won matches during the year were Robert Brown and Douglas Boyer.

Durand Smith has been entered in the National Intercollegiate tourney to be played at the Merion Cricket club, Haverford, Pa., next week. Prof. Arthur H. Nethercot is the coach.

TRAP SHOOT BEGINS.

Cedar Point, O., June 17.—C. T. Stevens of Zanesville led the professionals and M. S. Hootman of Greenville, O., the amateurs, in today's 150 target event, which formally opened the Indians' annual trap shooting tournament. Each broke 149.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

John Evers' White Sox were wrong side out yesterday. Their pitching was bum, their fielding no better and their hitting wasn't sufficiently strong to do business in a heavy scoring tilt, so they just naturally had to take a beating at the hands of the Senators by 12 to 6 in the third of the series.

The affair went blooey right at the outset. Various happenings involving a couple of pitchers let the Senators step off to a five run lead. They padded it with three more in the third but the Sox themselves got started about this time and gradually pulled up. The closest they could get, however, was within three runs of a tie and then the Washington troupe made the win emphatic by shoving over three in the ninth, while Doug McWeeney was trying to pitch.

Sox Trot Out Four Hurlers.

It required the services of four Sox pitchers to get through the nine innings. The starter was Mike Cvengros and he was gone before the opening round had been completed. Ted Lyons tried a rescue stunt and the end of the third saw his finish without anything happening in his favor. Next came Ted Blankenship and, although hit hard, he kept the Senators away from the plate for five rounds. Then McWeeny showed up in the ninth to learn how it feels to have base hits and loose support come tumbling down on him at the same time.

Although the Sox did almost as well as their opponents in the hitting line they didn't enjoy the prosperity accruing from errors. The Senators refused to commit as much as a lone bobble, but on the contrary indulged in a couple of bits of burglary that hurt. Wid Matthews, for instance, kept the Hose from getting within two runs of a tie in the fifth when he raced back and made a one handed stab of a drive by Barrett. In the previous round Rice, by a diving catch, robbed the same batter of an extra base blow.

Little Mike Chased.

Four hits were mixed up in the terrible first inning that flattened the Sox. Rice opened with a single and Sheely cut in with an error on Matthews. Then a couple of doubles and a couple of passes forced Cvengros to beat it with three runs home. But Lyons was no better. He passed one to fill the corners and Zachary singled two more across. The third round was much the same, a pass starting it, Lyons contributing a bad throw and Rice's single and Mathews' double finishing it, three scoring.

Rain started to fall after the first round and the Sox were pulling for a deluge. It didn't come, so in their half of the third they buckled down to business and chased Jezebel Tecumseh Zachary. Crouse walked, Thurston pinched a triple for Lyons, Archdeacon doubled, Collins singled and so did Falk. This string of events propelled four runs homeward and Marberry was called forth to fan Kamm for the third out.

After that Marberry, with good support, sailed along fairly easy, allowing only a couple of runs that went across in the fifth and sixth.

HOW come so many privileged cars can park in the loop as long as they please in daylight, while the public is held out of the loop until 7 p. m. for evening parking?

Officials of the Chicago Motor club want to know following a club check on congestion which they declare indicates that 6:30 p. m. instead of 7 can be named as the "open parking season" without hindering traffic movement.

The check, the club told the city council committee on local transportation, showed many car owners who park overtime between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. without police interference. In one block, it announced, seven cars were found parked on successive days from 10 to 4. Dinner and theater crowds, the report adds, would benefit materially if the dead line on evening parking were moved up a half hour.

A total of 103 golf courses in and about Chicago are shown on the special map issued yesterday with the new 1924 Rice's "Pathfinder." The new book for motorists and travelers is more complete and detailed than any published in previous years. It is a complete directory of "where to go and how to get there."

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 17.—[Special.]—Killefer's Cubs gave a great exhibition today of letting the forlorn Phillies defeat themselves. The Phillies did it with a neatness unexcelled, the final count being 6 to 5 in favor of the young pennant aspiring boys from the Windy City.

This unearned victory counts for just as much in the race as if it had been whammed out with fifty-four ounce bats. No team in this league or any other league can present a ball game on a silver platter with the ease and grace of these Phils. They do it as if schooled in it until it is an art. They had to make five errors today to hand the game over to Chicago, but five errors is nothing for the Phils.

Cubs Get Four Hits.

The young and dashing Cubs gathered a grand total of four hits during the entire combat. Just couldn't seem to smack the ball; but five of them walked and these, with the errors, made it possible for a lot of Chicago kids to get on the bases. And how they did cut up when they got on. They simply reveled in romping around the paths and they won in the end by a double steal that netted two runs.

Barney Friberg was on third and Heathcote on second, in the eighth with two out. Ever see those lads run? It's worth a ticket any day.

Barney made a dash for home while the pitcher was wondering what he would pitch next. Barney was in on the seat of his pants by the time the befuddled pitcher got the ball up to the plate and Heathcote was around third. The ball got away from the catcher, but he snatched it and made a frantic peg to third. It was awful. The ball went to the outfield and Heathcote, too, galloped on home.

Phils Beat Themselves.

The Phils slammed the ball all over the lot. They poled a dozen blows. One was a homer and a couple were doubles. But it got them nothing. Five runs for the Phils will seldom bring them a victory. They generally have about a half dozen to hand to their opponents.

Vic Keen was the winning pitcher. He was rapped fiercely but he was the winner just the same. Parson Keen, his father, sat in a box and watched his boy. He was proud of him.

Charley Glazner opposed him and was knocked off the rubber. Seems impossible when the Cubs made only four hits all told, but it's true. They bunched two of those blows in the sixth with a pass, a sacrifice fly and an error.

Score Tied in Sixth.

The Phils were clinging to a one run lead at the time and yanked Glazner and sent in Johnny Couch with two on and two out. Then the Philly shortstop made a wild heave and the score was tied.

In the eighth the Cubs clinched it by really earning one run along with the daring steals of Friberg and Heathcote.

The Phils staged a ninth inning rally, knocking in one run. They had the tying run on third, and winning run on second with two out when Mokan grounded out.

In the Wake of the News

BASEBALL RIOTS.

RIOTOUS demonstrations by fans are not new in baseball. Such incidents as occurred in the Tiger-Yankee series at Detroit are to be regretted, but need occasion no concern if met with prompt repressive discipline so far as the players are concerned. We trust Ban Johnson for that.

Fans usually are incited to jeers or acts of violence by the players themselves, who participate in fisticuffs or dispute umpire's decisions, sometimes honestly and sometimes with a view to arousing the crowd.

Rowdyism on the field cannot be tolerated. Neither can the "fighting spirit to win" when carried to pugnacity. Baseball, considering the number of games played and intense rivalry, is remarkably free from unpleasant incidents. President Johnson of the American league always has been a stickler for respect to his umpires on the part of players. For this policy baseball owes him a debt of gratitude.

When baseball fans do step over the bounds it is because of their intense partisanship. Baseball's prosperity is builded largely on partisanship. Without it attendance would be smaller. Sporadic outbursts, of no credit to those concerned, occur in all branches of sport. Without partisanship, however, sport would be much less tense, much less interesting.

Tell Me a Story.

O, tarry awhile and tell me
  A tale of the days of old,
Of dragons fierce and scaly,
  Of valorous men and bold;
Gray castles tall and aery,
  And ladies with golden hair;
Of simple gnome and fairy,
  In the days of do and dare.

I'd like to hear a story
  Of a Princess in distress;
A damsel carried meanly
  To a miscreant knight's fortress,

And how the Prince, her lover,
  In wrath swore a mighty oath
To fell the lowly robber
  And affirm his noble troth.

I'd love to hear a story
  Of kings and queens and knights;
Sweet folk in mystic glory;
  Of champions and fights,
Of tilts and deeds of prowess,
  And battlements by the sea;
O, tarry in happy duress—
  Tell an olden tale to me. Wesander.

Natural Disappointment.

Charley Cutler, with his bulging chest, was plodding down Madison street. Coming toward him was an oldtime friend, leading by the hand his 10 year old daughter. As they neared, Cutler heard the father say: "And now, my dear, I want you to know a great 'rassler.'"

When the child was presented an expression of disappointment spread over her face. "Rassler!" she fairly screeched, looking up at Cutler. "I thought you said 'a restaurant,' papa."

FARM AND GARDEN
BY FRANK RIDGWAY

GARDENERS RUSH LETTERS TO GET FREE MELON SEED.

HELP! Help! The postman just came in puffing with another load of letters all asking for some of the forty-eight free prize winning melon seeds that were offered in the Farm and Garden department yesterday morning. It would take the seeds from all the melons grown in Harry L. Palmer's patch at Cary, Ill., to supply the gardeners who have asked to test them.

Special delivery stamps galore were used by gardeners who wanted to be among the first four applicants. By using a special delivery stamp Ross M. Oleson, 217 National street, Elgin, Ill., came under the wire in time to take fourth place.

A brief note and a postal card put Frank Drabek, 1425 South Thirteenth avenue, Maywood, Ill., in first place.

A "private wire" order blank must have been handy and an idea that he'd have to hurry to place, won second position for one applicant. "Am I too late for the prize melon seed? Thank you. Yours hoping. F. M. Richardson, 4819 Addison street, he wrote.

W. A. Yager, president of a Chicago railway car company bearing his name, used a special delivery stamp and drew third. The seeds will be mailed out promptly.

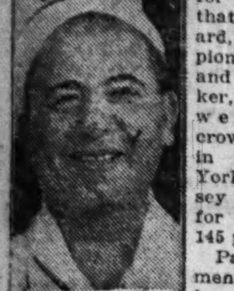
LEONARD TELLS MATES GO WITH WALKER IS ON

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.



PACKEY SCHWARTZ

Packey Schwartz, well known cook at the Great Lakes Naval Training station during the war, is authority for the statement that Bennie Leonard, world's champion lightweight, and Mickey Walker, holder of the welterweight crown, will clash in either New York or New Jersey this summer for the world's 145 pound title.

Packey's statement is backed up by the fact that the well known cook will leave for the east today to take charge of the cooking in Leonard's training camp in the mountains. The 135 pound king sent for Packey and he will leave on the Century today. In fact, Leonard instructed Packey to inform his friends in Chicago he has forsaken the stage for the summer and will devote his time to boxing. In addition to meeting Walker, the lightweight champion expects to meet Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion.

The Gimps to Mingle.

Although champions and near champions have performed in the Aurora ring, it is doubtful if any bout held in the past has attracted as much attention as the four-rounder between Col. Gimp, mayor of Clark-street, and West Side Gimp, to be held in Aurora on Saturday night. The local boxing rialto is all steamed up over the contest, and for the first time this summer Jim Mullen's pine bowl should be filled to capacity at the popular prices of $2 and $3.

The Gimps are training daily at the Mullen-McGoorty gym. Col. Gimp takes a taxi from Clark and Randolph streets to the gym at Madison and Wells streets, and has sold tickets to prominent city officials in the city hall, many theatrical people and well known characters of Chicago's night life. The same is true of West Side Gimp, who has West Madison street lined up solidly for him.

Lands Curtin-Sariemento Go.

Eddie Anderson and Georgie Butch, who meet in the feature of the series of six round encounters, are training daily at the Mullen gym, together with other fighters on the card.

Promoter Jim Mullen announced he has signed Irish Johnny Curtin and Peter Sariemento, the Filipino, for the main bout of his show on June 27. Boxing fans will recall that Curtin stopped Herbie Schaeffer in Aurora recently, and that Sariemento gave Ernie Goozeman a neat trimming in the semi-windup to the Taylor-Villa bout in Milwaukee last winter. It is a bout the fans are waiting for, and both boxers will be in Chicago early next week to complete training.

Announcement was made by George Oswego, president of the East Chicago A. C., that shows will be held twice a month, instead of every week, in the outdoor arena. The next show will be staged June 30 and Matchmaker Howard Carr is figuring on several matches.

Eddie Coulon is training daily at the Mullen-McGoorty gym for his ten round bout with Bud Taylor at Terre Haute on Monday night. The show will be staged by Steve Harter and the main event will be supported by four other contests.

RICKARD ANNOUNCES NEW $5,000,000 ARENA

New York, June 17.—[Special.]—George L. [Tex.] Rickard, boxing promoter, in his capacity as president of the new Madison Square Garden corporation today announced the purchase of the car barns at Eighth avenue from Forty-ninth to Fiftieth street where he plans to erect what he describes the "largest building in the world devoted exclusively to amusements."

The purchase of the property involved the payment to the Eighth Avenue Railway company of $2,000,000.

Building to Cost $3,000,000.

According to the announcement the work of erecting the new garden, which will represent an additional $3,000,000 by the time it is completed, will be started within sixty or ninety days. It is expected to have the building ready for occupancy in October next year. According to the promoter, who must give up the present garden on Aug. 1, 1925. Associated with Rickard in the purchase of the new site are John Ringling, Col. J. S. Hammond and Frank E. Coultry.

The new arena will have seating capacity of 25,000, almost double that of Madison Square garden. It will be 400 feet long by 200 feet wide or 100 feet longer than the present garden, making it the largest indoor place of amusement in the world.

Biggest of Its Kind.

It is the intention of the men back of the project to install a mammoth swimming pool, a refrigerating plant whereby ice skating races and hockey matches can be fostered, conduct boxing bouts in the arena, hold six day bicycle races which have proved popular as attractions for December and March, and make the plant available for the horse show, automobile show, and other expositions and industrial exhibits, held in this city annually.

ROMANO FANS CRY FOR RETURN MATCH WITH CHAMP LEWIS

PROMOTER JOHN [DOC] KRONE declared last night that he is going right along with his plans to stage the Ed (Strangler) Lewis-Michael Romano match for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world.

The promoter still is sanguine that he can convince Ald. John B. McDonough, chairman of the city athletic commission, that the fans want the match and points to the hundreds of telephone calls demanding to know what the ruction is all about.

Many of the inquirers, according to Krone, seem to think that there is a campaign on foot to deprive Romano of a well earned right to meet the champion again. They cite the fact that the Italian gave the champ the hardest fight he has encountered during the past winter and can see no legitimate reason why the order against the bout should stand.

Krone announced that he had received the signed agreements of Lewis and Romano, but had demanded that they post substantial forfeits guaranteeing appearance.

The promoters declared he had several open air arenas under consideration and that a definite announcement of the site probably would be announced within a few days. He has set no date for the bout, but said that it would be staged within thirty days.

Woods and Waters by BOB BECKER

BASS ARE LATE IN SPAWNING.

BASS fishermen are asked to postpone their fishing expeditions to Michigan lakes and streams until July 1, according to the appeal which has been sent out by John Baird, director of conservation in Michigan. The reason for this request is that the fish are four weeks late in spawning and have not yet left their beds.

Sandy wires us from Grand Rapids that of course the season legally opened on the 16th and the conservation department cannot change the law but the Izaak Walton chapters in Michigan, the various rod and gun clubs and the conservation department have united in this appeal to sportsmen to hold their fire until July 1 as a means of protection to the spawning fish.

This is a commendable, sportsmanlike piece of work on the part of the Michigan outdoorsmen. It's an indication of the growing sentiment toward higher ideals of sportsmanship and conservation. Hats off to the Michigan gang!

BECK BACK IN RACES AFTER JUMPING FENCE

George Beck, daring auto driver and track manager, supposed to be laid up with serious injuries in a hospital, yesterday came into headquarters of the National Motor Speedway association and laid down his signed entry to appear in the races Sunday at Hawthorne.

Reports on Beck after his injury last Sunday varied. One report was to the effect he had suffered a broken rib and a fractured leg. Early yesterday reports indicated Beck would be out of the racing game for the remainder of the year.

Beck Surprises Officials.

The appearance of Beck safe and sound and ready for more thrills around dangerous turns came as a suprise to auto racing officials.

The strange accident to Beck happened last Sunday at the North Shore Polo track. On a slippery track while coming around the northwest turn, Beck's mount, a Zepp special, began to skid. Wenneston was coming in his car at an angle that made the skid dangerous. It was hit Wenneston or the fence. Beck decided to hit the fence which he did with a bang that sent his mount crashing through. It rolled over three time with Beck keeping his place at the wheel.

Injuries Not Serious.

At a hospital Beck was reported to be seriously injured. Later reports were more reassuring and still later Beck was permitted to go home. Luckily he suffered slight injuries and will be back in the game Sunday. He hopes to have the Zepp special tuned for this race.

YESTERDAY'S AVERAGES

25 industrials	111.14	109.54	109.92—	.08
50 stocks	88.32	87.12	87.38—	.23

The New York Times.

New York, June 17.—[Special.]—After continuing practically unchecked during eight successive days—in which the "averages" of stocks advanced about four points and of bonds two points or more—the rise on the stock exchange halted today.

The day's movement could hardly be described as a reaction. There were numerous further net advances—mostly, however, in the more inactive industrial shares, and offset by a considerable number of declines. The bond market also yielded slightly under profit-taking by speculators whose purchases had kept company with the recent bona fide investment orders. Fractional declines were the rule.

Action of Market Expected.

The action of the markets was not unexpected. It may or may not go further; it is to test the staying power of actual purchasers, or the lack of it, that speculators sell on occasions of this sort. The advance of the stock market has been logical so far as relates to the money situation but illogical in its bearing on trade conditions, unless it is to be assumed that a turn from the recent reactionary movement is at hand.

Beyond this consideration, the Democratic convention is now only a week away, and many political inferences on which financial circles have partly based their recent more cheerful attitude are still largely dependent on the course of events next week. How far the bond market will be subject to that undetermined influence is a different question. Buying of bonds on a rising market has not merely reflected the low rate of money, but the extent to which banking institutions have been forced into that investment market in order to employ surplus funds.

Money Ease Laid to Gold Imports.

The federal reserve board's preliminary report for June points out in detail some of the striking aspects of the present fall in money rates to the lowest level since the war. That phenomenon, in the board's opinion, has not resulted primarily from decreased demand for credit in general trade, but from increasing facilities for extending credit, caused by the $30,000,000 or more of monthly gold imports which has continued unchecked in 1924.

The board reaches this conclusion from the facts that, notwithstanding a recent reduction of commercial loans of private banks in the reserve system, the existing total of such loans is still extremely large when compared with recent years, yet that the margin for legitimate further expansion is substantial.

Average price of hogs moved up 5c yesterday at $7.15, being as high as any day in two weeks and 25c above low day last week. Dwindling receipts and poorer quality were strengthening factors. Prices ruled steady to 10c higher, with top 10c above Monday at $7.45. General average price at $7.15 stood 10c above a week ago and 5c higher than a year ago. Monday's receipts totaled only 47,335, or nearly 7,000 below the early estimate.

Packers lately have complained of the poor yield in current receipts of hogs, due to poorer quality and the increased proportion of common, grassy and half finished animals among the offerings. They are discriminating against these classes, making a wider spread in prices.

Cattle receipts at 6,000 were 4,000 below expectations, but following Monday's total of 26,331, the largest since January, offerings were fully equal to the general demand. Trade was fairly active at Monday's decline of 15@40c. Quality graded considerably poorer, nothing selling above $10.50, against a top of $11.15 Monday and $11.50 the previous Tuesday. Few were good enough to reach the $10 mark. Butcher stock closed weak and calves mostly 25c lower. Stockers and feeders were steady.

Top Lambs Late at $15.75.

Another decline of fully 25c in lamb values carried top to $16.00, with practically nothing late above $15.75. Receipts totaled 9,000, against 21,083 Monday. Offerings were fully equal to trade requirements. While lambs were plentiful aged sheep were scarce. Bulk of lambs sold at $15.00@15.75 and aged ewes at $4.75@5.75. Top yearlings went at $13.50.

Seven western markets received 42,000 cattle, 109,000 hogs and 35,000 sheep, against 43,000 cattle, 102,000 hogs, and 32,000 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 41,000 cattle, 92,000 hogs, and 37,000 sheep a year ago

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 12,000 cattle, 24,000 hogs and 8,000 sheep, against 12,171 cattle, 23,649 hogs, and 15,136 sheep the corresponding Wednesday a year ago.

FINANCIAL NOTES

While substantial inroads were made into the quoted values of a number of the oils, rubbers, motors and motor accessories, marked independent strength was shown by most of the tobaccos, public utilities and chain store issues. Buying of public utilities received its impetus from a federal court decision holding the New York $1 gas law unconstitutional and confiscatory. New 1924 high records were established by Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, Columbia Gas and Electric, American Water Works common and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit common, the net gains ranging from fractions to 3 points.

High current earnings formed the basis for the bullish demonstration in chain stores issues, Kresge jumping 15¼ points to a new 1924 high at 380½, while Woolworth new stock, which had advanced 22 points in the last eight days, added two more by touching a record top of 104¾. Buying of the tobaccos was attributed to some of the leaders of the industry and revived reports that negotiations were again under way for a merger of the Schulte and Tobacco Products companies.

Omission of the dividend on Kelly-Springfield 6 per cent preferred was used by bear traders as an excuse for an attack on rubber shares. Losses in Kelly-Springfield issues ranged from moderate fractions on the common shares to 3½ points for the 6 per cent preferred. Goodrich, Fisk, U. S. Rubber and Goodyear stocks suffered slight recessions.

Recent activity in the rail group subsided, but stocks of the Van Sweringen roads manifested conspicuous strength. Chesapeake and Ohio and "Nickel Plate" both established new high records for the year at 81 and 87, respectively, before dropping back to around Monday's closing levels. Southern Pacific shares were under accumulation, but delay in negotiating the lease of the Norfolk and Western to the Pennsylvania caused a recession of 1¾ points in the former.

Selling pressure was renewed against the oil shares in the final dealings. Cosden, singled out for attack, yielded more than a point and fractional declines took place in Marland, Phillips, Sinclair and Pan-American issues.

Foreign exchanges developed reactionary trend. French francs were driven down about 18 points on selling inspired by Premier Herriot's declaration that evacuation of the Ruhr would be deferred until the guarantees provided in the Dawes plan had been set up. At the close of the market francs were selling around 5.35 cents and sterling was fractionally lower, hovering around $4.32.

Profit taking was responsible for irregular price movements in curb market trading, affecting chiefly the oils and public utilities. In contrast American Light and Traction gained more than 3 points and Adirondack Power 1⅛ points. Appalachian Power lost 3½ points on small sales. Standard Oil of Nebraska, South Penn Oil and Standard of Ohio made gains of 1 to 4 points on small turnovers. National Tea gained 10 points, and Centrifugal Cast Iron Pipe closed 2 points higher. Transactions of more than 22,000 shares carried Lehigh Valley Coal down more than a point.

A new issue of $1,500,000 Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railway two year 5 per cent gold notes, noncallable, will be offered today at 99¾ to yield about 5⅛ per cent by Dillon, Read & Co. and the National City company. The notes are dated June 27, 1924, and due June 27, 1926.

F. W. Woolworth company common stock of par value $100 has been stricken from the list of the New York stock exchange.

NEW OFFERING

$1,000,000

Illinois Midwest
Joint Stock Land Bank of Edwardsville, Illinois

Five per cent Farm Loan Bonds

Exempt from Federal, State, Municipal and Local Taxes

Dated June 1, 1924, due June 1, 1954, optional June 1, 1934. Coupon bonds of $1,000 and $10,000 denominations, fully registerable and interchangeable. Interest payable semi-annually, June 1 and December 1, at Chicago and New York.

The Illinois Midwest Joint Stock Land Bank loans on farm lands in the State of Illinois principally in a group of counties in the middle western and central parts of Illinois. Thirty counties in this group, numbering about one-third of the counties of the state, produce one-half of the agricultural wealth of Illinois; the counties where Insurance Companies generally make their farm loans. It is the policy of the Bank to loan only against land values, without including improvements, as the Federal Farm Loan Act permits.

This Bank operates under Federal charter and Government supervision. By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, the constitutionality of the Federal Farm Loan Act and tax exemption features of these bonds have been fully sustained.

This Bank Loans Only in Illinois

Loan Area Is Shaded on Map

Charles Boeschenstein, President of the Bank, is President of the Edwardsville National Bank and has been connected with the banking business in Edwardsville since 1897, during which time he has handled a large volume of farm loans in the territory in which the bank operates. Frank Godfrey, Vice-President and Treasurer, and Joseph M. Pyle, Secretary, are capable mortgage loan bankers, the latter Vice-President of the Edwardsville National Bank, an authority on land values.

Bonds are issued under the Federal Farm Loan Act of 1916. The tax exemption feature is the same as that of the Liberty 3½'s. They are entirely exempt, both principal and interest, from Federal, State, Municipal and local taxes except those levied on inheritances. This exemption applies in every state.

WHEAT AGAIN AT NEW CROP HIGH; CORN ALSO GAINS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy profit taking with foreign selling made a lower range for wheat prices early, but the surplus was gradually taken out of the market, and toward the last there was a general movement to reinstate sold out lines by local bulls, who found offerings light, and July and September advanced 2⅜@2½c from the inside figure to a new high on the crop and finished at the top. December equaled the outside price of the previous day. Net gains were 1@1¼c. July and September corn were also in new ground, gaining ⅝@⅞c, while December was unchanged. Oats and rye were unchanged to ⅛c lower.

News on the wheat situation was somewhat less bullish, and there was a more general disposition to look for a reaction, but those who took profits had but little chance of getting back their lines at a lower level, as the inside figures of the day were made at the opening or shortly after. July finished at $1.15½ to $1.15¾, September at $1.16⅞ to $1.17, and December at $1.18⅞ to $1.19.

Weather Favors Corn Crop.

Temperatures around the seasonal normal over the corn belt were highly beneficial for the rapid growth of the crop, and as a result there was increased pressure on the December, which averaged lower, rallying toward the last with the old crop deliveries, and closed at 75⅛c to 75¼c. July was wanted early at 82c on resting orders which absorbed the surplus in the pit and the finish was at 83¼c, while September was 82⅝c. The belief that the eastern cash demand would improve materially in the near future was a factor.

Longs sold July oats early, causing a break to 45½c or 1⅛c under Monday's close, but the finish showed the loss regained. Removal of hedges against shipping sales of 205,000 bu were a factor. Crop reports from the southwest were more mixed, and some unfavorable claims were also received from Illinois.

Rye made a poor response to the strength in wheat, due to more favorable crop reports. Profit taking was strongly in evidence, while the export demand was slow. No. 2 on track was 1@1¼c over July.

Europe Buys Lard.

In the last week Europe has bought around 10,000,000 lbs lard, according to seaboard reports, and the demand was still in evidence. Trade in futures was rather slow, and while there was a small upturn early the finish was unchanged to 2½c lower on lard. Ribs were 2½@5c higher, and bellies 2½@5c lower. Liverpool lard closed 9d higher. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

It was difficult to estimate export business in wheat the seaboard as exporters reported both fresh business and cancellations, but it was finally figured that sales had been 600,000 to 750,000 bu, including 200,000 bu durum and 80,000 bu new crop hard winters at the Gulf. The latter business was apparently filling old sales. Rye business was small.

Chicago handlers sold 25,000 bu wheat, 40,000 bu corn, and 205,000 bu oats. Deliveries on June contracts were 11,000 bu wheat, 20,000 bu corn, and 75,000 bu rye.

Cash wheat in western and southwestern markets was unchanged to 1c lower, the decline being in sympathy with futures. At Minneapolis No. 1 dark northern sold at 26c over July, the highest premium on the crop. Local spot basis was unchanged with No. 2 hard July to 6c over and No. 2 red 1@1½c over. Receipts 15 cars.

Offerings of cash corn were small with sample values ½c higher to ½c lower. Basis was firmer at 2@2¼c over July for No. 2 mixed with yellow at 2¼@2½c and white 2½c over. No. 3 mixed was 1½@2c, yellow 1¾c and white 1¼c over July. Receipts 55 cars. Outside markets were unchanged to 2c higher with St. Louis and Omaha showing the most strength.

Cash oats sold fairly with the basis about unchanged as compared with the bulk of sales of the previous day. No. 2 white was 3¼@3¾c, and No. 3 white 2@2¾c over July. Receipts 57 cars.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

Hot weather greatly hastened the ripening of wheat and oats in Kansas, as shown by the state board of agriculture weekly report. Harvesting has started along the Oklahoma border. In Clark and Barber counties and some of the drier sections the ripening was a little premature. An improvement in the condition of wheat is indicated. Oats are thin and short. Some improvement in central Kansas. Corn is generally uneven.

Since June 1, South Dakota has received much precipitation, but only about normal, according to the government's mid-month crop summary. Weather conditions hastened growth but all crops are considerably behind in seasonal development. Corn is doing well, but is late.

"Through this territory wheat is spotted," wired Geo. M. Le Count to Stein, Alstrin & Co. from Oakley, Kas. "Early fields filling well. Looks like 12 bu per acre average with favorable weather. Enough moisture here to mature crop."

Argentine wheat crop of 1923 is estimated at 248,750,000 bu in the final returns, or 12,450,000 bu less than the preliminary, and compares with 195,424,000 bu harvested the previous year. Oats crop is 82,750,000 bu against 55,513,000 bu harvested last year. Exportable surplus of wheat is 175,000,000 bu, of which 59,000,000 bu remained for clearance on June 15.

From Hutchinson to Pratt, Kas., moisture is sufficient to mature the wheat crop, as shown by R. O. Cromwell's report to Lamson Bros. & Co. The outlook is for a crop of 12 to 15 bu per acre in that territory.

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

That a bull market is on in wheat is the belief of those who have watched its action of late, especially the performance yesterday. It was said by close observers that the market has had its break, and that prices are to work irregularly higher. Local traders lost their wheat early in expectation of a larger decline than was recorded and were active buyers on the closing bulge.

Richardson, the largest exporter at Winnipeg, was the leading buyer of July wheat in that market throughout the day. Winnipeg led all the markets and closed at 1⅛@1⅝c higher at the best prices of the season, with July $1.17¾, or 2c over Chicago. Messages from there said offerings were light and well absorbed.

"One has to think back a good many years to find the foreign situation like that of the present," said one of the largest traders at the close yesterday. "My recollection is that it was in 1909, the Patten year, when a similar condition existed. All the reports today suggest a bull situation, and it looks as though wheat values are getting back to a level where they really belong when considered with other commodities."

Eastern interests were after good sized lots of corn and oats yesterday, one house selling 150,000 bu oats. Bids for corn were close to the market. The movement of corn is light and is expected to be until farmers are convinced that their crop will come out all right. The season is late and weather conditions are to be a factor for the next three months.

SLACK IN AUTO INDUSTRY BRINGS FIGHT FOR TRADE

BY O. A. MATHER.

The automobile and accessory industries produced curiously mixed news yesterday. The general slackening appears to have brought on keen competition, with the companies making the hardest fight for business escaping the major effects of the letdown.

Unsatisfactory conditions in the tire industry were emphasized by the action of the Kelly-Springfield Tire company in omitting the usual quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on its 6 per cent preferred stock. Dividends on this issue had been paid without interruption since 1914. In April dividends were stopped on the 8 per cent preferred stock, while no dividends have been paid on the common stock since November, 1921, when 2 per cent was paid.

McQuay-Norris Dividend Passed.

In the accessory field the McQuay-Norris Manufacturing company omitted its quarterly dividend of 50 cents. Price reductions on piston rings, keen competition, and the desire to put earnings back into the business are among the reasons given for passing the dividend. Volume of business is good and plants are operating at capacity, according to President W. K. Norris, and higher prices are prdeicted.

The Timken-Detroit Axle company announced a reorganization involving the closing and sale of equipment of the Cleveland, O., plant and one of the two Detroit plants. The reorganization will result in reducing the company's surplus from $4,517,769 to about $800,000 and the book value of the common stock will be reduced from $15.50 to about $11 a share. The new company will confine its operations to one style of product.

Some Cheerful News.

But there also was some cheerful news. President Alfred P. Sloan Jr. of the General Motors Corporation issued a statement regarding lower production of automobiles.

"The real index is deliveries by dealers to consumers," he said, "and to permit adequate analysis of the situation General Motors hereafter will issue monthly figures showing both sales to dealers and deliveries to consumers. Our deliveries to consumers from Jan. 1 to May 31 were 320,906 cars and trucks, compared with 333,938 in the same period last year. This marks a reduction of less than 4 per cent."

The Pines Winterfront company has 14 per cent more business booked than a year ago, contracts placed by distributors call for heavier shipments than last year, and the directors expect the best year in the company's history. Plant capacity is being doubled.

Other industrial news was mixed. The William Wrigley Jr. company stated that sales this year have shown a satisfactory increase over last year and that the outlook is good for a record year's business. Profits for May established a record.

Why Successful Men buy Bonds

MOST consistent among bond buyers are men who have achieved large success in business.

The reason is not hard to find. The same knowledge and broad vision which brought them success enables them to appreciate the sound value of bonds and the desirability of investing a large part of their surplus in them.

It is equally true that many men are successful, largely because they have bought bonds. They have been able to take advantage of money-increasing opportunities because early in life—perhaps on a small income—they formed the habit of saving and putting their savings into good investments.

The bonds sold by Charles W. Folds & Company are suitable alike for the investments of those who have succeeded and those who are going to succeed. We value the business of the man who is on the way, as well as that of the man who has arrived.

ECONOMISTS SEE LITTLE HOPE OF U. S.-RUSS TRADE

BY SCRUTATOR.

With the fiscal year closing with increased exports and diminished domestic activity, it would seem that the school who have proclaimed ever since the war that the United States cannot be prosperous until Europe is "restored" have something to explain.

Of course their reply is right at hand. The increased foreign trade, which has accompanied our declining home business, has been mainly in the export of manufactures, while the export of food and raw stuffs has fallen off.

But that answer also indicates that their desire is to turn the clock back, to halt the evolution of American industries and to keep us as far as possible in the stage in which we were producing raw materials for Europe's industries.

Things do not work that way. We shall not go back.

It can't be blamed on the war. The process had reached an advanced stage when the war began. Our exports of food stuffs were falling then. The war did indeed reverse natural processes for a time by bringing about a tremendous expansion of agriculture, that has been an over expansion ever since.

The same school who favor our extensive participation in efforts to restore Europe to a pre-war basis call attention to this when they are confronted with the query as to the effect on American farmers of Russian rehabilitation. They say that before the war, when Russia was our competitor in Europe, we were already getting out of the market, and ceasing to export food on the former scale.

This is brought out by Harold G. Moulton and Leo Pasvolsky in their study of Russian debts and reconstruction. The book is issued under the auspices of the Institute of Economics, which previously declared that Germany could not pay its debts. It makes out a convincing case as to Russia.

It appears that Russia was in financial straits before the war. To even begin to climb back to a pre war standard, and that was the lowest per capita income of any white people, Russia must export great quantities of raw stuffs and import all sorts of goods.

To begin doing that a new loan will be necessary, and that loan together with the imports that will be absolutely necessary will take up about all Russia can pay for years and years. Very little indeed can be paid on the back debts. But for Russia to get the new loan something must be done about the old ones.

The two economists conclude that the Russian problem can be attacked with hope only after some sort of general European settlement has been arranged. That brings in Europe's debts to us. Russia is only one link in the chain.

And what will we get out of it?

Their conclusions as to the insignificance of Russian business with America support the figures and deductions formerly used in this column.

They say: "There is no ground for believing that an extensive trade can be developed between the United States and Russia. Nothing has occurred which materially alters the pre war status of Russian-American relations.

"The United States still wants to buy from Russia little beyond the relatively unimportant quantities of furs, hides, bristles and similar minor products that she bought before the war. And on the side of American exports to Russia there is no reason why anybody should get worked up over the possibilities. The industrial products which Russia needs can, by and large, be produced more cheaply in the industrial nations of Europe than in the United States."

Russian reconstruction merely means more Russian farm products for industrial Europe and the loss of more American farm markets. If American farmers like that, it would be rather surprising, but they support senators who find it necessary to praise Russia in order not to be caught praising even by inference the business system of their own country.

D. & R. G. Reorganization Plan Declared Operative

New York, June 17.—Reorganization managers of the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad system tonight declared operative the plan of readjustment designed to put the road back on a solid footing after nine years of receivership. Agreement of the state of Colorado to raise no more objections to the plan removed the last obstacle in the way of its execution.

Holders of more than 79 per cent of the refunding bonds and more than 95 per cent of the adjustment bonds already had assented to the modified plan, it was announced. Reorganization managers extended the time for deposit of the bonds to July 19.

Operation of the plan, it was said, had been facilitated by the action of the interstate commerce commission in authorizing securities issues under the agreement and in approving acquisition of one-half the road's stock by the Missouri Pacific.

New York Bankers Buy $50,000,000 Rail Notes

New York, June 17.—[Special.]—New York banks have purchased approximately $50,000,000 of the total of $228,655,000 railroad note obligations which have been held by the United States railroad administration, this figure not including the $5,000,000 of Erie railroad notes for which negotiations are now under way. The securities that have thus far been turned over to private banking groups by the United States government have brought the government a moderate premium, bankers having been willing to bid more than par because of present low interest rates. The balance of approximately four-fifths of the notes which have not been sold, it was understood, would be placed should bids for them exceed par. The notes in all cases bear 6 per cent interest and the maturities in most cases are set for 1930.

Chicago Rapid Transit.

M. Y., Carson City, Mich.—The Chicago Rapid Transit company owns and operates the entire elevated railway system of Chicago. It is issuing $6,500,000 first and refunding mortgage 6½ per cent bonds, due 1944, making a total, including the 6s of 1953, of $8,100,000 bonds now outstanding under this mortgage. These bonds are secured by a first mortgage on the property formerly owned by the South Side Elevated Railroad company, appraised by the Illinois public utilities commission at over $23,700,000, or over 2.92 times the amount of the bonds outstanding against it. These bonds are secured also by a direct mortgage, subject to the prior liens of divisional mortgages and equipment obligations, on all other property. The total mortgage indebtedness outstanding with the public is $46,099,000, including this issue, whereas the entire property [including real estate] is appraised at about $90,000,000. Net earnings of the entire system for the twelve months ended March 31, 1924, were $3,874,235, or over 1.65 times annual interest requirements on the total present funded debt outstanding with the public, including this issue. The net earnings of the south side division, on which the first and refunding mortgage bonds are a first mortgage, averaged $1,148,968 for the five years to Dec. 31, 1922, and for 1923 such earnings were $1,228,919, or 2.37 times annual interest charges on the bonds secured by a first mortgage on it. These bonds are a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

Twenty-nine permits were issued yesterday with total valuation of $1,450,000. They included:

BY AL CHASE.

After several weeks of a real estate market conspicuous by its lack of big apartment deals, yesterday brought forth a bunch of large sales aggregating way over the million mark. In fact, the biggest transaction was over the three-quarters of a million mark. This latter was the sale of the Glenesher Hall apartments at 1345 Estes by Michael C. Norton to George A. Bethke for $777,500, subject to $575,000. There are seventy-four flats. Max Grossman was attorney.

Another good sized deal was the sale of the Loyola Beach apartments, forty-eight of 'em, by James Pinedo to Vincenzo Leonardo Cutaia, for a reported $360,000, subject to $305,000. Carlstrome & Auer represented the seller and will continue the management. Cutaia Brothers represented the buyer.

Evanstonian Sells Two Corners.

Victor C. Carlson of Evanston sold two good sized Ravenswood properties yesterday to Elmer E. Stults, president of the E. E. Stults Realty company. The northwest corner of Montrose and Ashland, 130x130, known as the Sherwood building, containing forty-five flats and six stores, changed hands at $230,000, subject to $165,000. The Roberta building across on the southwest corner, containing five stores, two offices and eleven flats, was sold for $125,000, subject to $85,000.

Mr. Carlson took in part payment the vacant 92x152 at the northwest corner of Montrose and Winchester and the vacant triangular shaped piece in Evanston, fronting 128 feet on Central, seventy-eight on Railroad avenue, and seventy-three on Prairie. It is understood he plans improving both pieces eventually.

Good Sized Evanston Deal.

Leo Laskey sold the thirty flats at 725 Hinman avenue, Evanston, to Mary G. Ryan for an indicated $206,350, subject to $169,350. The lot is 100x170.

Thora A. Anderson has bought the twenty-two apartments at the northeast corner of Addison and Bosworth from Nathan Beller and Benjamin Nathan for a reported $160,000, subject to $80,000. William Silver of James Tinley's office was broker. Ruekberg & Burr and J. M. Lowenthal were attorneys.

DISTRIBUTOR.

Exceptional Opportunity.

A well established New York company seeks a responsible individual or organization capable of directing a force of salesmen to market a high grade specialty to the grocery and delicatessen trade as well as to hotels, restaurants, institutions, etc.

This specialty is the only one of its kind on the market. Its sale is noncompetitive. It produces an absolutely pure food product consumed in the United States to the extent of over two hundred millions of dollars. It is a provable, constant money maker for the buyer, increasing his immediate profits to 300 per cent. It is the best business builder from every angle ever offered to this trade.

This is a splendid opportunity for a sales agent to earn in excess of $25,000 a year on an exclusive territorial contract. The amount of capital required is commensurate with the extent of territory desired and is for the purpose of financing office and demonstrators necessary to properly conduct the business. You do not carry stock nor finance accounts. Commissions are advanced on orders. We help you start your organization and work with you until you are on the road to success. Address a detailed application [including telephone number]. Address A N 15, Tribune.

SWORN STATEMENTS CERTIFY THESE CARS

AN INNOVATION YOU NEVER HAVE HEARD OF.

Think of it! A written statement, sworn to before a notary, assuring you of the truth about the used car you are considering.

Who owned it. How it was driven. How far. What we have done to it. What we paid for it, even. And what it is selling for. A full sworn statement attached right to the car.

It's the fairest way used cars have ever been sold. It clinches Chicago's impression that the most reliable used cars are the Case cars we offer.

HOW IS SWORN STATEMENT POSSIBLE?

Such a startling innovation in used car selling is possible only because Case owners are continuous Case owners. We know them. We have the real record of their cars. And in the first place, Case engineering puts Case cars mostly into the hands of motoring experts.

INTRODUCTORY 20% REDUCTION.

To introduce this remarkable Sworn Statement Plan, every used Case in stock has been reduced another 20%, and the price is marked right on the sworn statement! Never have you had such an opportunity to get at the real truth about a used car. Never have prices been so low for known quality.

You can buy here today on practically the same basis that a used car dealer would buy to sell to you, adding his profit! And you can get the same information, in writing, that only an expert could get by taking the car apart.

Right now there is an assortment to give you good choice. But this plan and such prices will sell these cars fast.

COME IN WHILE THE PICKING IS BEST.

This 20% Reduction is not confined to Case used cars. There are many other excellent makes—Marmon—Wills St. Claire—Haynes—Overland—Westcott—Stanley — Studebaker — Buick—Essex and others. They are as carefully selected as the Case cars we offer, and are in finest condition, too. We'll give you facts about them you rarely can get. Many of these cars were traded in for new Case cars, and naturally we don't know the new Case owners well enough yet, to be able to furnish sworn statements. We can't use our reputation that way. That's why it's worth so much to you. It certifies every used car we sell, beyond question.
